COULD NOT LIVE WITHOUT HER

And So Wealthy Stock Broker Cox Took His Own Life.

BOSTON, June 11.—A startling revelation has just come to light which involves two of Boston's wealthiest families, and in which a marriage and suicide are the principal features.

Last Thursday afternoon Miss Laura Wheelwright, daughter of John W. Wheelwright, Eldridge & Co., commission merchant, was married to George Herbert Windler, of Long Lintonhill, Surrey, England, in King's Chapel, this city.

Prior to leaving her home the bride received a letter from Benjamin F. Cox, aged 30 years, a widower residing at 285 Beacon street, in which he said: "I cannot bear to live through your wedding day."

The bride did not pay much attention to the matter and the wedding ceremony took place. Later in the day the friends of Cox found him dead in his home. He had committed suicide. It has just transpired that Cox was thoroughly in love with Miss Wheelwright, but his feelings were not reciprocated.

Deceased was a graduate of Harvard, and was a prominent member in the Boston Athletic association, Puritan County and Eastern Yacht clubs and a wealthy stock broker. Strenuous efforts have been made to keep the affair quiet, and the Boston dailies have agreed not to publish the story.

SOLDIERS' ORPHANS' SCHOOLS. Application For Admission Must be Made as Early as Possible.

The Soldiers' Orphans' School Commissioners issued a circular to call the attention of the posts and members of the Grand Army of the Republic to the surviving soldiers and sailors of the War of the Rebellion, and the citizens of the state, of the condition of the schools, and the provisions of law under which children are admitted thereto.

Under the Act of Assembly of 1883 preference in admission is as follows: First, for the children of the late war; second, for discharged soldiers, sailors, or marines who served in the war for the suppression of the rebellion and were members of Pennsylvania commands, of having served in the commands of other states or of the United States, were residents of Pennsylvania at the time of enlistment.

Second, children of such honorably discharged soldiers, sailors or marines, as above, whose fathers may be deceased and mothers living; third, children of such honorably discharged soldiers, sailors, or marines, as above, whose parents may either or both be permanently disabled.

The children of soldiers and sailors who served during the war for the suppression of the rebellion, and who were honorably discharged therefrom, and who served in the commands of other states, are eligible, provided the parents have been residents of this state for a continuous period of five years immediately preceding the application.

There are now in existence three schools:—at Harford, Susquehanna county, North; Uniontown, Fayette county, West; and Chester Springs, Chester county, East. The act provided for the closing of these schools, and accommodations were provided for the children in the new industrial schools now being erected at Scotland, Franklin county, Pa., and which will be completed about January 1, 1895.

The population of the present schools is 725. A number of discharges will occur during the vacation period—July and August—and the commission desires to have all applications for admission made as early in July and August as possible, in order that they may be enabled to decide as to the continuance of all the schools now in existence during the coming year.

To that end they suggest that posts and members of the Grand Army of the Republic shall interest themselves in this matter and see to it that the bounty of the state shall be enjoyed by every child entitled thereto, having at the same time due regard for the laws under which it is extended. With proper attention every soldier's or sailor's orphan can be cared for in the schools now in existence, but unless applications are received in sufficient quantity during vacation to warrant their continuance during another year, one at least will have to be closed. Children eligible for admission must be between five and fourteen years of age.

Robbed Yet Benefited. A correspondent of the HERALD writes that he is greatly puzzled as to the meaning of the following quoted paragraphs which he read in a Democratic paper:

"Retaining the present tariff, which gives them (the Sugar Trust) an annual bonus of about four cents, while at the same time 'In 1890 Mr. Quay helped to give the Sugar Trust an advantage of 10 cents on 100 pounds of refined sugar, which enabled the Sugar Trust to pick the pockets of consumers to the extent of $3,000,000 per year."

"And adds the following statement of the assertion that 'we, the consumers of sugar are being robbed under the operation of the McKinley tariff of so vast a sum has made me very anxious to know how the thing is done. Robbery, I always thought, took money out of the victims pocket. In this case, however, the process is reversed. Before the McKinley tariff was enacted we paid about eight cents per pound for granulated sugar. Now we pay four cents per pound, or about half as much as before. Will any one please explain for me, by that, how come it happens that every time I buy a pound of granulated sugar under the present tariff I save about four cents, while at the same time I am being robbed? To me this conundrum is quite puzzling."
