TWO CRUSHED TO DEATH

White Viewing a Propositon. PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—During the street parade of a summer spectacle last night a section of one of the terra cotta balconies of an office building fell upon the crowd on the sidewalk beneath, crush-girl, and less scriously injuring a number of other bystanders.

The dead and injured are: Caroline Bender, aged 65 years, head crushed, died in the German hospital about an hour after the accident, Lizzie Hliton, aged 6, head crushed, will die: Charles Hliton, aged 35 years, the child's father, arm broken; Mary Stephens, aged 45, arm broken and badly braised about the body. Eyeral others were slightly injured.

The accident occurred at the large gran-ing the heads of an old woman and a little girl, and less seriously injuring a number

The accident occurred at the large gran-ite, brick and terra cotta building of the Tenth National bank, at Broad and Co-lumbia avenue. The bank occupies the lower floor, and the upper stories are rented out as offices and lodge rooms. The third floor, which is unusually high above the street, is ornamented at intervals with balcomies of terra cotta. A section about four feet in length was broken out of one of these, and without any warning the avalanche of brick and mortar fell with a crash upon the large crowd beneath.

The masonry descended directly upon the head of Mrs. Bender, mangling her horribly. She was conveyed dying to the hospital, where medical skill was found useless, and where she died almost before her relatives could be notified.

Mr. Hilton was standing with his little girl beside Mrs. Bender in the crowd. The accident in position which enabled him to escape with his life was fatal to his little child, tearing her from his hands, and crushing her head into a shapeless mass. There is no hope for her recovery.

TERRIBLE QUINTUPE TRAGEDY. A Despondent Father Kills His Entire Family and Bimself.

Campes, N. J., June 15.—Johann Kauff-man, 50 years of age, a Bavarian living in Stockton, a suburb of this city, cut the throats of his wife, Rosina, and three chil dren Wednesday night and then hanged himself. The quintuple crime seemed to have been carefully planned throughout It is said that Kauffman had been out of work for some time and grow despondent. The family were last seen on Wednesday, but when the neighbors broke into the house yesterday the wife and her month-old haby were found in a ground floor room, and two boys, agest 4 and 5 years repectively, in an upper chamber with their leads almost cut from their bodies, while Kauffman hung by a clothedine from a carefully adjusted book on a nearby door

Three More Victims of Poverty. JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., June 15.—Three dend bodies were found near Borden. They were a man, woman and child, and they had been apparently dead for two days. The bodies proved to be those of George Brock, aged 45; his wife Lizzie, about the same age, and their son William, aged 7. Brock had become desperate from poverty and hunger, brought on by enforced idle-ness. The bodies were found inside of a rude pen that Brock had built to keep the hogs from devouring them.

A Bank Shortage and a Suicide. ALBANY, June 15 .- The Hon. Charles M. Presten, superintendent of banks, gives out the following statement: An examination of the Schenectady Savings bank, which has been in progress for some days, reveals a shortage in the accounts known to be upwards of $10,000. While it is not now thought that this normage will be increased, the exact income cannot be surely known until the case books are called in and compared with the ledgers. August Henke, the accountant of the receiving teller and bookkeeper, was found dead at Summer Camp, about four miles from Schenectady, at a place called Aqueduct, having committed suicide.
