TILLMAN HAS HIS SAY

His Reply to Senator Butler's Harsh Utterances Against Him.

CHARLESTON, S.C., June 22.—The campaign meeting at Lancaster yesterday was not as lively as had been expected in view of yesterday's occurrence at Chester.

When Governor Tillman was called he said that at Chester he had not opened his mouth in reply to the indignities heaped on him by General Butler, which were fouler and blacker than had been made against any man.

Yancy Schervard, who was out in the crowd, cried out, "You took them!" Several hundred men at once sprang to their feet in expectation of a row, and Governor Tillman shouted back in reply, "Yes, I'll tell you, you cowardly bound, why I took them, and I'll meet you whenever you want to. I took them because I, as governor of the state, could not afford to create a row at a public gathering and have our people murder each other like dogs."

General Butler pretends that I had made an imputation on his character. The insult was that at Rock Hill I said that the 800 men had been banished there by some one to hurrab for him, and I asked if they had been sent there by a corruption fund, and if he felt aggrieved, as an old neighbor of mine in Edgeland, could not he have come to me and said: "Did you mean to say that I am responsible for this?" That is the way he should have done if he had been a gentleman; but he did not do this. He seemed to be glad for an excuse to play the role of a bulldozer.

At Yorkville General Butler spoke of last, and I then exposed his Coxy business, and what is more I expect to keep it to his back at every meeting as a mustard plaster until I get some kind of an explanation. Turning to General Butler he said, "Henceforth I shall call him Coxy Butler." General Butler laughingly replied: "That's all right; I don't care."

Two or three times there was imminent danger of a row, but fortunately the affair passed off without actual violence.

SENATORS AT ODDS.

Lively War of Words Between Chandler and Allen.

HARSH CRITICISMS INDULGED IN.

Allen Called Chandler a "Baboon," and Attacks It—The Senate Votes That the Income Tax Shall Run Until Jan. 1, 1900.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The debate on the income tax was opened yesterday by Senator Hill, of New York, in a masterly three hour speech in opposition to this feature of the bill. It was generally regarded as the ablest speech the New York senator has delivered since he became a member of the senate. Despite the excessive heat he was listened to with close attention. The sensational feature of the day was the personal attack made upon Mr. Allen, the Nebraska Populist, by Senator Chandler, of New Hampshire.

The latter scored Mr. Allen unmercifully for applying the epithet "baboon" to him on Wednesday, but in the Nebraska Populist he met a man worthy of his steel. Mr. Hill finished his speech at 1:35, after having spoken over three hours. Mr. Higgins (Del.) followed in opposition to the income tax.

A very sensational incident occurred when Mr. Higgins took his seat. Mr. Chandler (N. H.) rose to a question of personal privilege in connection with the passage at arms between Senator Allen and himself on Wednesday. He had, he explained, heard what Mr. Allen had said in his reply to him only in a fragmentary fashion, and had missed entirely the opprobrious epithet "baboon" applied by the senator of Nebraska to himself. Mr. Allen, who was in the chamber, moved over near to Mr. Chandler, when the latter began what proved to be his very remarkable speech.

"The senator from Nebraska," Mr. Chandler said, "on yesterday stated that when I charged that his vote had been bargained for I stated what was false, and what he believed I knew to be false when I made it. I did not make any insinuation," said Mr. Chandler, "but what I stated I believed to be true. I charged in effect that he moved to place lumber on the free list under the threat that if it were not so placed he would vote against the bill. The truth of that charge is contained in this record."

"I simply inquired of the senator whether the bargain had been closed, whether it was complete. I made the inquiry and I don't think he was warranted in becoming indignant and using unparliamentary language. It was distinctly stated by the senator from Maryland (Mr. Gorman) in a carefully prepared speech, that concessions, arrangements, bargains, or anything you choose to call them had been made to secure such a majority and effect the passage of the bill.

"I regret," said Mr. Chandler, deliberately in conclusion, "I have discovered that the early surroundings of the senator before he entered this body were such as not to allow him to observe the common courtesies which all gentlemen regard even in the most heated partisan debate. The senator from Nebraska is to be pitied rather than censured for what he could not help."

A dead silence greeted this remarkable attack. Mr. Allen was pale, but calm, when he rose to reply. "This is the fourth time," he began in a low but steady voice, "that the senator from New Hampshire has seen fit to speak of 'bargains' in connection with my vote. I do not know whether the language is parliamentary. I am not skilled in parliamentary procedure. But I do know it is untrue and ungentlemanly. I think he made the insinuation deliberately, knowing it was false. He has tried to place me in the position of a trafficker of votes. The insinuation is untrue. If I were where I could make it plainer," he added, looking Mr. Chandler in the eye, "I would make it plainer."

"I made a motion a few weeks ago to strike lumber from the dutiable list, as I had a right to do. I have a right to get what I can for my people. I am not bound to the Democratic or the Republican party, but I am an humble representative of a new party. As such I am more or less a skirmisher between the old party lines. I repel the low, dirty insinuation of the senator from New Hampshire," he said in conclusion, raising his voice until I rang the bells in parliamentary procedure. "I regret and reaffirm with all the energy I possess what I said yesterday."

"What the senator has said," said Mr. Chandler, jumping to his feet, "only emphasizes what I said a moment ago, namely, that he does not comprehend the courtesy that characterizes debate in this body."

LIZZIE HALLIDAY CONVICTED.

The Jury Decides That the Murderess Was Shunning Insanity.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., June 22.—The jury in the Halliday murder trial came in at 5 o'clock last evening, and Foreman Decker announced that Lizzie Halliday was found guilty of the murder in the first degree of Sarah J. McQuillan and Ellen McQuillan. The vote stood 11 to 1 on the first ballot, Juror Elroy Moulthrop favoring murder in the second degree. All the jurors believed that the prisoner had been shunning insanity. Lizzie Halliday was held in a standing position by two constables when the verdict was given. She made no sign as to her knowledge of the verdict. Lawyer George H. Carpenter, who fought so nobly for Lizzie, was the only one in the court room who shed any tears at Lizzie's conviction. He said he should take no appeal.

Experts Disagree. BALTIMORE, June 22.—The state closed its case in the trial of Dr. J. D. Kremion for the murder by poisoning of John Forre. Expert witnesses were on the stand to prove that Forre's suffering was caused by poison. The defense put experts on the stand to contradict the state's witnesses, and there were many hypothetical questions. Professor William P. Toney was put on the stand by the defense to contradict Professor Wilson's analysis of parts of Forre's body.

Murdered a Sixteen Year-Old Girl. PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—Thomas Krain, aged 40 years, of Maunyan, the mill district of this city, shot and almost instantly killed 16-year-old Annie Quigley, who lived with her father, James Quigley, a laborer, in the same neighborhood. Krain then turned the weapon upon himself and sent a bullet through his brain. He lies in a critical condition at St. Timothy's hospital. The motive for it is yet a mystery.

To Make Examples of Them. OMAHA, Neb., June 22.—The federal court left yesterday for Fort Sidney to try the 250 Commonwealers confined there for holding up a Union-Pacific train at Ogallala last week. It is said some of the leaders against whom strong cases may be established will be made an example of by giving them penitentiary sentences. The others will be tried in bunches of twenty-five and given jail sentences.

Trenton Potters to Resume. TRENTON, June 22.—The manufacturing potters, whose workmen have been on strike for months against a reduction, will throw open their works on Monday for those who care to go to work, but will make no concession in the wage list, except where it may be demonstrated, after a trial, that men cannot make living wages. Some of the men are disposed to go to work.

To Start Up Immediately. PITTSBURGH, June 22.—The McClure Coke company announces the entire plant will be started up immediately. If the old men, now on strike, care to return they can do so. If not new men will be run in. The men are promised an advance as soon as the selling price of coke is advanced. At present to increase will be allowed. The McClure company employs over 3,000 men.

Ten Years for Incendiarism. PETERSBURG, Va., June 22.—P. P. Farley was convicted and sentenced yesterday to ten years in the penitentiary for incendiarism. Last April the business portion of Emporia was destroyed by fire. The fire started in the dwelling of Farley, who at the time was postmaster of the town. He was arrested and detectives fastened the crime on him.

Corbett is Retired. LONDON, June 22.—In response to a message sent to James J. Corbett, at Sheffield, asking him what he intended to do about the offer of the Auditorium club, of New Orleans, of $20,000 for a fight between him and Bob Fitzsimmons, Corbett telegraphs that he will have nothing to say in the matter until his return to the United States.

Homesteaders Ask Increased Wages. HOMESTEAD, Pa., June 22.—There is a movement for higher wages at the great Homestead Steel works. It started with the engineers and "hookers-on." They have asked that the 20 per cent. wage reduction which they submitted to in January be restored. Superintendent Schwab said it was impossible to grant the demand.
