A Popular Young Man Killed in the Mines.

DEATH INSTANTANEOUS!

A Heavy Collar That Timberman Were Attempting to Put Up in a Gangway Fell and Christopher McManus Became a Victim.

Christopher McManus, a popular and highly respected young man residing at 116 South Peach alley, met instant death in a gangway in the Buck Mountain vein in Shenandoah City colliery, this morning, by a heavy piece of timber falling upon him and breaking his neck.

McManus, Peter McAtee, Jerry Curran and a man named Buford were engaged in timbering the gangway and at the time the accident occurred were engaged in putting up a 16-foot collar. The survivors have been unable to agree whether one of them slipped and caused the platform to move, or whether the platform gave way, but the collar fell and struck McManus in its descent with the result above stated.

There was no contusion or other marks on the victim's body, but he bled profusely from the ears, nose and mouth. He never spoke and he expired death was instantaneous with the blow he received.

The deceased was but 21 years of age and before becoming a timberman followed the vocation of a driver in the mines. He was very popular with his acquaintances and his home life was a very happy one. He had been the support of his mother since the death of his father in the Indian Ridge mines about three years ago.

The Knights of Amunelston and National Club lose one of their most active and prominent members by the young man's death. He is survived by a married brother, Patrick, and three sisters, Misses Annie, Agnes and Tessie. The funeral will take place Friday morning.

YOUNG WOMAN INJURED.

Few With a Tor to Results in an Accident on Centre Street.

A curious-minded Pole, a practical joker and a turtle about the size of a number six soap, created plenty of excitement at Main and Centre street at one o'clock this afternoon, and caused an accident by which Miss Miriam Hess, of West Loyal street, received severe but not serious cuts on the right side of her face and head.

The Pole, a dull looking chap, stood before Robert Smith's store on West Centre street, gazing with deep interest at the turtle that lay contentedly in a tub of water, and occasionally giving the snapper a jab with his foot. Scarcely five minutes had elapsed when the turtle suddenly turned and clapped the pole's head on the pole's back before he was aware of it.

The Pole yelled like an Indian and rushed toward Main street, Smith in close pursuit with the shellback. Blinded by terror, the poor fellow lost every one in his way and ran into Miss Hess, throwing her heavily against Morgan's collar door, and then ran into the street for a stone with which to defend himself.

Miss Hess lay on the pavement bleeding profusely from wounds on the head and throat, ignorant of the cause of this accident, when Smith ran to her assistance, forgetting that he still held the turtle, and almost terrified another person. Miss Hess was taken home where her injuries were dressed, and the Pole walked off rock in hand, swearing vengeance on the joker.

A FRIGHTFUL EXPLOSION

EIGHT MINERS BLOWN TO ATOMS AT STOCKTON.

The Disaster Occurred When the Miners Were at the Bottom of the Slope Collecting Their Supplies—Identification Impossible.

Special to the Herald.

HAZLETON, July 17.—A frightful explosion occurred this morning at half past seven o'clock at the bottom of the slope of East Sugar Loaf colliery No. 2, at Stockton, operated by Lunderman, Skeer & Co.

The disaster was caused by an explosion of dynamite, and eight men were literally blown to atoms. There was not enough left of the remains of each man to afford identification. The victims were: CHARLES O'DONNELL, 25, married a year ago.

ANDREW SAWYER, 28, married, no children.

JOHN GARRIGO, 21, single.

JOHN KROLECA, 21, single.

ANTHONY WALAKAWICZ, 25, single.

JOHN KUBISOR, 28, wife and two children.

JOHN MATYLOSKI, 44, wife and two children.

JOHN BRITTON, 25, single.

All the victims except O'Donnell were Poles and Hungarians.

The cause of the disaster is not known, as the eight victims were the only men at the bottom of the slope at the time.

It was the duty of one of the victims to distribute the dynamite and other supplies for the day and the explosion took place while he was doing it.

THE CONTROLLER.

Mr. Severn Refuses to Vacate on Order of the Commissioners.

Special to the Herald.

POTTSVILLE, July 17.—The difficulties between Controller, or more properly speaking, ex-Controller Severn and the County Commissioners is as far from a mutual understanding as it ever was since the Supreme Court declared the act creating the office unconstitutional. Yesterday Mr. Severn, County Treasurer Dechert and County Commissioners Allen, Rents and Martin held a conference. W. J. Whitehouse and W. D. Seltzer, Esq., representing Mr. Severn, and Mayor Nichols, of Wilkes-Barre, representing ex-Controller Reese, of Luzerne county, and W. K. Woodbury, Esq., representing Mr. Dechert, were also in attendance. No reporters were admitted to the meeting and the result of the conference was not made known, but it was understood that no settlement had been agreed upon other than that another meeting would be held to-day, when County Solicitor Ulrich would have an opportunity to be present.

The committee of the three County Auditors made demand upon the County Commissioners for payment of one-half year's salary, and the Commissioners issued warrants for the same upon the County Treasurer, who accepted them.

Severn advised the three County Auditors not to accept the warrants, and he will hereafter acknowledge all warrants issued by the Commissioners, thus entirely ignoring the County Controller.

This afternoon a petition was forwarded to Attorney-General Hensel asking that quo warranto proceedings be instituted against the Controller, compelling him to show cause why he claims the Controllership. This matter will be tried in the court of this county early in September.

Minor Losses.

An infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Gillilan, of North Emerick street, died last evening.

The thunder shower this afternoon cleaned out many of the neglected gutters in an excellent manner.

Thornton M. Stout has purchased from P. J. Ferguson the property adjoining the John Robbins property on South White street. The price paid was $3,500.

The Merchants' National Bank of town has declared a semi-annual dividend of three per cent, payable on and after July 20th. This is an excellent showing.

A horse frightened by an electric car on East Centre street last night backed a carriage against a tree but with amazing force as to demolish it, but the vehicle escaped damage.

The trolley bar of an eight-wheeler on the Lakeside railway struck an obstruction this morning and the bar and trolley wire were damaged to an extent that rendered the line useless between Bowers street and Indian Ridge breaker for about three hours.

Rev. B. Zindelo, of St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore, Md., and Messrs. V. Marulatas, A. Miluskas and Charles Prendergast, of St. Charles Seminary, Overbrook, Pa., who are the guests of Rev. A. Amunelston, pastor of St. George's Lithuanian church, yesterday enjoyed a trip through the workings of Shenandoah City colliery under the careful guidance of District Superintendent J. J. Bradigan, and this afternoon paid a visit to the Herald office.

BRENNAN COMMITTED

Preliminary Hearing in the Baynole Murder Case.

A POST MORTEM HELD!

The Victim's Skull Was Frightfully Shattered, But His Jaw and Ribs Showed No Fractures—What Witnesses Have to Say. The Coroner's Jury.

Special to Evening Herald.

MARANON CITY, July 17.—The authorities of this borough were engaged last night in determining the cause of death of Frank Baynole, the Italian attacked at Fowler's on Sunday night, and trying to learn who was responsible for the injuries inflicted. In the former they were successful, but made little progress as to the latter.

Baynole died yesterday afternoon in an unconscious condition. He intended one word to his friends after he was assaulted and that was when he was carried into the boarding shanty. "Americans," he groaned in Italian.

From the present developments it is safe to say that the real murderer of the Italian is still at large and unless the county authorities take the matter in hand this case may go upon record as a mystery.

Yesterday the residents of the vicinity of the place where the murder was perpetrated seemed bound by an agreement to keep their mouths shut. Two reporters visited the place, but as one of them expressed it, "the lips of everybody seemed fastened with a padlock." Any number of people are willing to step forward and say that Brennan, the young man under arrest, is innocent and was not on the scene at the time the Italian received the fatal blows, but not one can give the slightest idea as to who could have possibly dealt the blow, notwithstanding the Italian was the only stranger there and the witnesses are so positive that Brennan received the fatal blow in a second fight in which Brennan did not take part.

Brennan was before Justice May last night. The prisoner is very boyish in appearance and gives his age as eighteen years. He lives with his father and mother at Yatesville and has been employed as a laborer at Shenandoah City colliery. His mother remained at his side in the Justice's office and at the depot. The mother wept bitterly and he evidently almost prostrated by grief over the trouble which has come upon the boy.

Six witnesses were examined before Justice May. They were Joseph P. Knapp, outside foreman at Knickerbocker colliery; Thomas Galvin, Patrick McGee, Patrick Whitaker, Peter Frisco and Gregory Carabone. The two last named men are Italians. They simply testified to the arrival of the injured man at the boarding shanty, which is located at the west end of Jackson's parish Frisco is a railway contractor and the deceased was one of his laborers. The other Italian has charge of the shanty.

From the evidence given before Justice May it appears that two fights occurred on the township road between the end of the Lakeside electric railway trestle and the engine house of the Knickerbocker colliery. It is a very lonely place and there are no houses within several hundred yards of it. The men of the patch make it a landing rendezvous, using the scattered piles of logging for seats. Several men loitered about the place last night.

Three of the witnesses swore that "somebody" called the Italian "Frank Macaroni" and a fight was started, that Brennan, the prisoner kicked the Italian under the chin with his "leg" and the Italian picked up a sprag, whereupon Brennan ran away and did not appear upon the scene again. It was also stated that the Italian followed Brennan with the sprag and was intercepted by a second gang of young men who had been seated at some distance from the first and was attracted by the first scuffle. This second gang then engaged in a fight with the Italian and it is said it was here the latter received his fatal blows. No one seems to know who composed the second gang.

Joseph Knapp swore that he was attracted to the scene and found Brennan sitting down. His head was badly cut and he was swearing he would kill the man who struck him. Mr. Knapp advised the man to go home. There were none of the young men about the place at the time, Mr. Knapp left the Italian and went to Mrs. Ballot's house. He had been there but a short time when Mrs. Ballot ran into the house greatly excited. She fell into a swoon. Upon recovering she said to her husband, "O, my God! they have killed a man." Mr. Knapp and others went back to the place and found Baynole lying in the middle of the township road. He was picked up, placed on a stretcher and an electric car, and taken to the boarding shanty.

Upon the conclusion of this testimony Justice May committed Brennan without bail and he was taken to the Pottsville jail on the 2:30 p. m. Lehigh Valley train.

Before the train started Brennan said he did not know how Baynole received the blows. That somebody called "Frank Macaroni," or something like that. The Italian first caught hold of a small boy, but let him go and approached Brennan with an upturned logging. Brennan then ran away. "I didn't touch him," said Brennan. "The second fight took place, they say, at nine o'clock. I was home then."

Baynole's remains were removed to Cummings' undertaking establishment at Mahanoy City last evening and Drs. A. P. and John R. Bissell made a post mortem examination of the body. It was the general belief that Baynole's jaw and two of his ribs had been fractured, in addition to show any fracture of ribs or jaw. The skull, however, was in a very bad condition. It was frightfully crushed.

The doctors found the brain in a healthy condition, but it was very much dotted with blood. There were two fractures of the skull, one 12 inches and the other 12 inches in length, and each extended to the base. The fractures were in the shape of an X and at the junction of the parietal and frontal bones a piece seven inches square pressed upon the brain.

The post mortem showed conclusively that Baynole's death was caused by the blows he received upon the top of his head.

and such blows as must have been dealt by a very muscular arm, or some very heavy instrument.

The inquest will be held to-morrow evening and the following jury has been impaneled for the purpose: James Kehoe, Matthew Kane, William Clifford, John Burke, P. T. Meier and Patrick Dempsey. Frank Baynole, the murdered man, was 24 years of age and a native of Italy. He had been in this country about four years. He has worked on the construction gangs of the electric railway for some time and last week worked for D. H. Llewellyn in laying the Lakeside Electric Railway track on White street. He is said to have been a man of unusual jovial disposition. When he was attacked he was on his way home from Shenandoah, where he had spent the day visiting friends. He has only one relative in this country and that is a sister who keeps a fruit store on Market street in Newark, N. J.

Tonight's Treat.

The success of the entertainment to be given this evening in honor of the thirty-fifth anniversary of Shenandoah Valley High School, No. 25, L. O. O. F., is now assured. All the parties who have been advertised to appear have arrived and not a number as printed on the program will be omitted. People who have tired of the commonplace concerts which they have endured in the past will gladly welcome the variety of the program that is in store for them to-night. It must be remembered that every person whose name appears on the program is an artist in his or her line. No efforts have been spared by the committee in securing this splendid array of talent and the delightful condition of the choir at Kirin's drug store strongly attests the lively interest that is being taken in this affair by the music-loving public in this vicinity.

The variety of the musical selections will be such that the uncultivated as well as the cultivated ear will be equally edified. To add to the pleasure of the occasion, Prof. D. W. Herbert has generously donated the use of a first-class piano, in order that the harmony of the entertainment will not be marred. The committee can now announce that they have secured the services of Mrs. C. M. Bondar and that accomplished lady will preside at the piano. In order that all may make it convenient to attend this extraordinary event the reserved seats have been fixed at the low price of 25 cents. Be sure to secure your seats before the chart closes, and thus avoid the rush and discomfort at the door.

Family Re-Union.

The Conry family had a re-union at the residence of Hon. Patrick Conry, on South Emerick street, Sunday, and after the older members were photographed by which they enjoyed a spread. The attendants were headed by Mrs. Honora Conry, the mother and grandmother, Mrs. Mary Murray and son, Martin, of Iowa; Mrs. Ann Galvin, Grandville; Hon. Patrick Conry and wife, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Conry, Mrs. Bridget Fay, Grandville; Foster and wife, Hon. Frank Conry, William, Thomas, Joseph and Misses Sallie, Mame and Annie, children of Hon. Patrick Conry; Misses Sallie, Lizzie and Julia Galvin, Grandville; M. P. Conry, William, John, James, Patrick, Harry, Martin and Misses Julia and Nora, all children of John Conry and wife. The affair was entirely informal, but it was a source of great pleasure and consolation to the respected head of the families, and will always be a comforting recollection to her in her declining years.

BASE BALL.

Younger and Messitt make a great battery. The scoring of Pottsville for this place on August 18th is a big card.

Hereafter we will see a better quality of ball. Several batters now figure on the team.

Our team is now up country playing a series of games with the Milton, Sunbury and other clubs and we wish them luck.

The home management intends to take a course which will prevent forfeiture of games and disappointment to large audiences.

The married and single men of the professional and business circles of town will play their second game at the Trotting park to-morrow afternoon, at 3:15 o'clock.

The home team defeated the Milton club at the latter place yesterday by a score of 12 to 6. The team plays at Watertown to-day.

Peppermint Brandy.

Persons suffering from dysentery should take peppermint brandy, sold by M. P. Conry, South Main street.

Bicycles Items.

Bicycles are becoming more numerous in town. Miss Ella Partz has joined the ranks of the bicyclists.

Raymond Eberhart went to Tanawaga, yesterday, on his bicycle.

Charles N. Redial left town on his bicycle yesterday afternoon at 4:35 for Ashbury Park, N. J.

Miss Katie Beley, of Ringtown; Mrs. F. Buckwalter and Misses Mabel Buckwalter and Lou Benson, of Philadelphia, came over from Ringtown this morning on bicycles and were guests at the Wasley mansion.

Twelve members of the Shenandoah Bicycle Club left town early Sunday morning on their wheels. Their first stop was at Mahanoy City. At Lakeside they made a longer stay, and then started for Tanawaga, thence to Pottsville and St. Clair, and at the latter place they arrived in time to catch the Pottsville train that reached here at 6 p. m. They were a tired and dusty lot of mortals when they reached home.
