AS THE time for holding the Republican primaries draws nigh the contests become more spirited. This shows that general interest in elections is increasing and it is a good sign. Quiet and indifferent campaigns generally result in too many stay-at-home votes and it is on such occasions that men unfit for office get elected.

THE Borough Council will meet to-night and if the president is wise he will re-inaugurate a neglected rule which requires members to limit their remarks to the subject under discussion. Too much time is lost by personal exchanges and indulgence in flights of oratory which are either foreign to the question, or the rehearsing of hypothetical propositions. "Yes" or "no" action will accomplish more for the people at less cost than the present method. There are enough windbags in Congress.

MR. LIDDEDALE, a distinguished Eastern traveler and scholar, now home in England, says that there are isolated groups of female missionaries in China whose situation is full of the peril of insult and outrage. They are without any protection whatever, with no knowledge of the language of the country, and their missionary efforts consist mainly in singing Christian hymns in the streets to the accompaniment of tambourines, none of their auditors knowing what the hymns mean or being able to exchange a single word with those who came so far to evangelize them. It is a situation inviting the attention of those directly responsible for the safety of the missionary workers there, all of whom encounter bitter local hostility and aversion, only repressed by the territorial mandarins, under coercion of the central authority of the Empire, which dreads foreign reprisal in case of any insult or injury to its religious emissaries.

A DANGEROUS PARTY.

In an address before the Illinois Republican convention, ex-Governor Fifer, after dwelling upon the disastrous results to business and industry of 17 months of Democratic rule, made the following utterance: "It is not alone the avowed doctrines and open practices of the Democratic party which the country fears. Deep down below all the professions and pretenses of Democracy resides a spirit, which, in the public conviction, is known to be the foe of American prosperity and business stability. That spirit is the spirit that works for mammon in politics; the spirit which dallies along the edge of the abyss of unrest and violence and furnishes to the ignorant and lawless during party campaigns the watchwords and rallying cries of which riots are organized and property and lives are destroyed after the campaign is over. It is the spirit which foments social disturbances for party gain; which conjures up the evil genius of disorder that will not again dawn, and which in the secret hours of night posts inflammatory placards to incense against law and for all dishonest party advantage.

"The Democratic leaders have always appealed to ignorance and built up on prejudice. They praise American enterprise and foster the industries of England. They burn out their candle in the service of monopoly and then blow the snuff in the faces of the dear people. They carry a kiss for the American laborer's check and a dagger for his fifth rib. They have always favored the capitalist against the laborer and the man of fixed income against the producer."

How well the declarations of the speaker are sustained by a study of recent events!

CALIFORNIA GOURMETS.

A Famous Banquet For Which Each Guest Had to Prepare a Dish.

The dean of California gourmets, Edwin C. Palmer, whose clear, piercing eye, ruddy countenance and grizzled mustache are agreeably familiar to all those good fellows of ample rotundity who affect the delicate arts of the cuisine, was not always a devotee of the shrine of Epicurus. There is one feast of the disciples of Epicurus upon which Mr. Palmer dwells with especial pleasure. It occurred several years ago, and many of the valiant trenchermen who gathered around the mahogany on that occasion have passed to a reward in which pate de foie gras, truffes and terrapin are not emblazoned on the menu. Although this gastronomic effort was one of the most remarkable that ever occurred here or elsewhere, it has never before passed into the history of the state, remaining but as a pleasing memory to occasionally tantalize the palates and stimulate the stomachs of those now living with recollections of the many remarkable dishes that graced the board.

To this rich and rare repast just 12 guests were invited. It took place at the city residence of G. M. Josselyn, the well known ship chandler, the members of his family being absent at his country house. Among the good feeders invited to the feast was that eminent lawyer, Alexander Campbell. Judge Dwinelle was another of the guests whose abundant tissue gave ample evidence of his thorough enjoyment of the pleasures of the table. He, too, has crossed the Styx, but will long live in memory as an able jurist and a prince of gourmandise.

Joe Tilden, the stockbroker and popular club man, who met his death in the big hotel fire at Honolulu, played his usual jovial part and added much to the jollity of the occasion. Of course Ned Palmer, the dean of the gourmets, was there, as were also Major Bender and enough more of the Bohemian club men to make up the requisite dozen. No shadow of misfortune was cast by an offending thirteenth guest. There were just 12 good upon lined fellows, and mirth and laughter went the round of the table.

The main condition of this banquet of fattening reason was that each guest should prepare and serve a dish. The feast to Apollo, although the mythical god was waited upon by winged cherubs, was not to be compared with this feast of steaming, broiling, baking and flavoring. All the guests here were cooks, and all the cooks were arrayed in white cap, jacket and apron of that artist and philosopher of the kitchen. The time occupied in the preparation of this tribute to Epicurus was 10 days.

The first course served was soup by Joe Tilden. The time devoted to the compounding of the decoction ran over three days. Next came a trout, stuffed and cooked like a bird, with an aromatic sauce which was contributed by another guest. Two kinds of salad lent cooling solace in turn to the gastronomists. The terrapin stew was of course prepared by Dean Palmer. This took just 10 days. Each guest cook, in full kitchen regalia, served the treasure of his epicurean art. One stuffed the roast, another truffled the chickens, while still another prepared the frogs' legs in champagne.

There was but one course that was not the product of the skill in the cuisine of a guest. To Major Bender had been assigned the plum pudding. When served with a rich white sauce in a boat by its side, it was found to be a rare wedding cake saturated with about a quart of fine French brandy. It was also discovered that the pudding was a French confection, imported by a leading grocer and purchased by the major for the occasion. But this bit of gastronomic treason was overlooked, as the many good things previously offered up to Epicurus had left the feast-makers in a merry and mellow mood, and it was found that Major Bender had made the sauce, which covered his offense.

It is said that the discussion of this remarkable effort of the cuisine occupied 10 hours, although toward the last the time-keeper nodded in his chair and may have overlooked a few seconds, so that this time may not be regarded as official.—San Francisco Chronicle.

British Marines Landed at Bluefields.

COLON, Barbados, Aug. 2.—The British warship Mohawk, Captain Leslie C. Stuart, has landed a force of sailors and marines at Bluefields. The adherents of Chief Clarence, the Mosquito leader, have fortified the town of Bluefields and the river front, in anticipation of an attack upon the part of the Nicaraguans.

Death of Judge Holt.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Judge Joseph Holt, who was judge advocate general of the army and at one time acted as secretary of war, died at his residence in this city yesterday, aged 87. His death was indirectly to a fall sustained a few days ago, but to which he paid little attention.

A Pennsylvania Cyclone.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 2.—A cyclone swept up the Susquehanna river here last night. The new iron bridge across the river was badly wrenched and twisted. The cyclone lifted a body of water from the river to a height of twenty feet, which swept over the bridge.

The Weather.

Thunderstorms; slightly warmer; south west winds.

IT FOLLOWS AFTER

—A disordered liver—that you're subject to attacks of cold or chills on slight exposure. You get tired easily. The feeling is accompanied by a "tired" digestion, which fails to assimilate the food. This often results in what we call Indigestion or Biliousness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets rouse the liver to vigorous action, and this in turn starts the machinery of the body into activity. Liver, stomach and bowels feel the tonic effect, and in consequence the entire system is invigorated. The processes become self-regulating, and a reserve force is stored up against exposure to disease. If you're too thin, too weak or nervous, it may be that food assimilation is wrong. This is the time to take Pleasant Pellets. They permanently cure Constipation, Sour Stomach, Dyspepsia, Sick or Bilious Headache, Dizziness and Jaundice. Catarrh cured by using Dr. Sage's Remedy.

HEARTLESS MASSACRE.

Detailed Report of the Sinking of the Kow Shing.

JAPANESE SHOWED NO QUARTER.

Chinese Soldiers Died Fighting Bravely. Japan Apologizes to Great Britain—Japan's Formal Declaration of War—Denial That the Chen Yuan Was Lost.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The Times has received the following account of the destruction of the Chinese transport Kow Shing from Che Foo, China. On July 22 the Japanese admiral, on the cruiser Matsushima Kan, with two other men-of-war in his command, sighted the Kow Shing, which was carrying 1,000 troops for Corea, in Korean waters, forty miles off Chemulpo. He signalled the Kow Shing to "stop where you are, or take the consequences." The transport, which was flying the British flag, promptly came to anchor. The Chinese man-of-war which was escorting her steamed away. The Kow Shing's captain, trusting to the protection of the British flag, refused the advice of the commander of the Chinese cruiser to slip anchor and run away.

The Japanese cruiser Naniwa Kan steamed up near the Kow Shing and sent a boarding party to her with instructions to make a strict scrutiny of the ship's papers. After this had been done there was some hesitation on the part of the Japanese commander as to the action to be taken under the circumstances. Finally he peremptorily ordered the Kow Shing's captain to follow with his vessel. Great excitement at once arose amongst the Chinese troops on board the transport. They told the English officers of the ship that they would not surrender. They said: "We refuse to become prisoners. We would sooner die here. If you move the ship except to return to China we will kill you." Then they posted a guard at the anchor chains, and allowed no one else to go near them.

The officers of the Kow Shing signalled to the Naniwa requesting that another boat be sent with an officer. When the boat arrived Colonel Van Hannekin explained the situation to the Japanese boarding officer. He told him that the Kow Shing had left China in time of peace, that there was no declaration of war, that the vessel was a British ship and sailed under a British flag. He then urged the impossibility of executing the order of the Naniwa's commander, and claimed that the flag should be respected and the ship escorted back to the Chinese coast.

The boarding party returned to the Naniwa, and a little later the Kow Shing was signalled by the cruiser "Quit ship as soon as possible." The Kow Shing replied that it was impossible to quit ship. The Naniwa thereupon flew an answering pennant, steamed quickly and lined up broadside on, at a distance of about 300 meters from the Kow Shing, and immediately discharged a torpedo at her, forgoing this with two broadsides with all her guns.

The excitement aboard the Kow Shing was awful. The troops had begun firing up a number of small mountain guns when the Naniwa threw the torpedo. The missile struck a coal bunker and burst one of the boilers, the explosion being terrific, but not sufficient to sink the vessel. The Chinese troops fired on the Naniwa with rifles and small guns and exhibited the greatest bravery. The Naniwa continued to fire her ten tonners and soon had the Kow Shing in a badly disabled condition. Many of the Chinese soldiers jumped overboard and on these the Naniwa rained bullets from her deadly machine guns. The Kow Shing gradually began to sink, and after fifteen discharges from the cruiser's big guns she went down in eight fathoms of water. The troops who remained aboard kept up their fire to the very last, some of their shots being fired at their own people who were swimming away, they being determined that no one should escape. The vessel sank stern first, flying the red ensign of the Chinese.

One heavily armed boat was lowered from the Naniwa, and from this a fire was directed upon the troops struggling in the water. There was no attempt to save life. It was evident that no quarter was to be given. All were to be massacred.

The Naniwa steamed away to report to the British consulate or naval officer that seven Englishmen had been killed. A number of soldiers reached a rock and were saved. Colonel Van Hannekin had a miraculous escape, and arrived at Chemulpo in a Korean fishing boat on July 28. He was sworn to an affidavit before the British consul in regard to events above narrated. He bears testimony to the splendid conduct of the Chinese troops, who, he said, died gloriously, fighting to the last.

The Standard's correspondent at Che Foo sends a similar account, and says: "The facts may be implicitly accepted as the truth. The Japanese made the most strenuous attempt to destroy all the survivors who were witnesses to their action."

JAPAN'S DECLARATION OF WAR.

An Apology to Great Britain for the Kow Shing Massacre.

TOKIO, Japan, Aug. 2.—The Japanese government has informed the representatives of the foreign powers here that a state of war exists between Japan and China. This is regarded as equivalent to a declaration of war. The government sent a note to the foreign representatives forty-eight hours before war was declared, to the effect that it was still disposed to consider any peace proposals which might be made that were compatible with the actual situation and with Japan's dignity.

The Japanese government has instructed its minister in London to apologize to Great Britain for firing upon and sinking the transport Kow Shing while she was flying the British flag. The Japanese minister has been instructed to inform Great Britain that the commander of the Japanese cruiser did not know that the Kow Shing was a British vessel until after the fight. Captain Gaiseworthy, of the Kow Shing, and many other persons who were on board the transport were rescued by the boats of the Japanese warship Naniwa. Japan has ordered the Japanese legation at Peking to be closed, and has recalled all the Japanese consuls throughout China.

CHINESE REPORTS OF VICTORY.

The Loss of the Warship Chen Yuan Officially Denied.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 2.—The Chinese government's report of the engagement in which the Chen Yuan was reported to have been sunk denies the truth of that statement. The report says: At 11 o'clock in the morning of July 27, the day after the attack on the Chinese transports which resulted in the sinking of the Kow Shing, the Japanese warships Takachiho and Hiyel made an attack upon the Chinese ironclad Chen Yuan. After a long and desperate fight the Japanese vessels were beaten off, the Hiyel being disabled and rendered helpless. The Chen Yuan, though badly damaged, succeeded in reaching port in safety, in company with two gunboats which also took part in the engagement, and immediately went into drydock for repairs.

Advices from Yashan state that the Chinese are strongly entrenched there, and that repeated attempts have been made by the Japanese troops to dislodge them. In every instance, however, the attacking forces, after hard fought engagements, were repulsed at all points with heavy losses. A portion of the Chinese soldiers engaged in these battles were the best troops in the northern army of Viceroy Li Hung Chang. The Chinese losses were small.

AN ACCOMPLISHED FORGER.

He Worked His Victims Through Activity in Religious Societies.

VINELAND, N. J., Aug. 2.—The arrest at South Vineland of Horace B. Dieker, alias a dozen other names, on a charge of forgery, is an important one, and will probably put a stop to his operations for a while. The prisoner's right name is Robert E. Hawey. Some time in the 80's he is said to have served a term of imprisonment in the California state prison, after which he went to Montana, and from there to Topeka, Kan. Where, under the name of Robert H. Alexander, he claimed to be engaged by the publishing house of Rand, McNally & Co., of Chicago.

Here he connected himself with the Order of Good Templars, Young Men's Christian association and other religious and charitable organizations, and it is said married the daughter of a very respectable family. His criminal operations extended over several western states notably Montana and Colorado. In 1888 he was arrested for forgery at the national capital, and sentenced to three years' imprisonment. After his release he continued his criminal career, committing forgeries in Elmira, Cleveland, Chicago and several other places.

He usually prepared for his forgeries by entering into correspondence with some minister or officer of some religious or fraternal organization in the city where he proposed to operate. He then followed up the correspondence. He is well versed in the ritual of the Order of Good Templars, understands the Bible thoroughly, is well acquainted with Christian Endeavor work, conversant with books and authors and the fluency of his addresses to meetings always brought him hosts of friends from whom he soon picked out some one to introduce him at the bank he proposed to swindle. He then deposited a small amount, and for a short time kept a running bank account and finally deposited a forged draft against which he would draw and then disappear. The prisoner is wanted by the police throughout the United States, and already requisitions are being prepared for him in several states, including Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

District Attorney Mitchell Retires.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—United States District Attorney Thomas E. Mitchell, who was brought into national prominence by the government proceedings against President Debs and his associates of the American Railway union, yesterday surrendered his office to Sherwood Dixon, of Dixon, Ill., who was nominated to the office a few weeks ago by President Cleveland. The new appointee will therefore have charge of the case against the labor men when their trials are reached.

Iowa's Democratic Ticket.

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 2.—The Democratic state convention made the following nominations: Secretary of state, H. F. Dale; auditor, John Whitfield; treasurer, L. W. White; supreme judge (long term), John Claggett; supreme judge (short term), Edward W. Mitchell; attorney general, J. D. F. Smith; of Cherokee railroad commissioner, W. L. Parker; clerk of supreme court, T. R. North; supreme court reporter, J. J. Shea.

Debs Opposed to Strikes.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—"I will never again be connected with any strike organization," said President Debs of the American Railway union, yesterday. "This strike has developed the fact that the sentiment of the people of the country is against strikes, and that the government stands ready to put down such movements at the point of the bayonet. I shall hereafter advise all workmen to seek redress by the ballot."

South Carolina's Dispensaries Reopened.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 2.—The dispensaries opened again yesterday throughout the state, but nowhere was there any trouble. People paid little attention to the matter. There is a tacit understanding that Governor Tillman will give the saloon men fifteen days in which to dispose of their stock. It is understood that he will after that time notify them that they must absolutely quit business.

Terrific Explosion of Mine Gas.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 2.—A terrific explosion of gas occurred in the Buttonwood colliery of the Parish Coal company near Plymouth late yesterday afternoon. Two miners, Robert H. Roberts and Thomas R. Lewis, were badly burned. They may not recover. The mine caught fire from the explosion, and a large force of men are now at work trying to extinguish the flames.

The Stolen Keg Found Empty.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—The keg of gold which was reported to have been stolen in transit from Havre to Paris has been found at a suburban railway station, but it was empty. Detectives are inquiring at all gold dealers in the city whether they have recently bought any American eagles, but thus far have met with negatives replies.

Too Ready with His Pistol.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 2.—Charles Brown accompanied Miss Ella Hubbard to a church picnic. The couple quarreled, and Brown took a stroll with another girl, Miss Hubbard followed, which so angered Brown that he whipped out a pistol and shot the girl in the arm, inflicting a dangerous wound.

Captain Price Acquitted.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The charges against Captain Price, on which he was tried on July 12, were yesterday dismissed by the police commissioners. The evidence failed to sustain the charges. Captain Price was tried for neglect of duty in permitting a gambling house to be open in his precinct.
