Washington, Aug. 1.—The Democratic tariff conferrees did not make as market progress yesterday as they had hoped when they went into session. When they adjeurned on Wednesday the situation was so much better than it had been or previous days that some of the members thought an understanding might be reached before adjournment yesterday Members of the conference say, however that the same good feeling still exist and that there is the same belief of a witimate amicable settlement, and the today or tomorrow may see the end of their deliberations.

Ther admit, though, that it is imposed ble to fix the day. for the reason that i few minutes often serves to undo the accomplishments of an entire day. The senate generally understands this to be the situation, and the prevailing opinion on the floor is that the report will not be made this week. When asked today if it was true, as has been generally unde stood, that there had been an agreemen stood, that there had been an agreement on all the schedules except sugar, a member of the committee said that such was not the fact, but he admitted that he thought with sugar our of the way the other differences might be harmonized. "Yet," he said, "there are some very knotty questions to deal with outside of the sugar schedule."

One of the difficulties the house conferrees have found in accepting the senate sugar schedule is the fact, as they claim.

augar schedule is the fact, as they claim, that the refiners would not only receive the advantage of the protection given them in the one-eighth of a cent differen-tial, but that they would also receive certain additional protection because of the difference in the price of raw and refined sugar, and they have intimated that they would be inclined to grant the one-eighth of a cent if the duty on the refined article could be confined to that figure. The con-ferrees admit the justice of this repre-sentation, and, it is understood, have indicated a willingness to adjust the sched-ule so as to remove this objection if a way could be found to definitely fix the rate

One of the many stories current during the day was that the senate conferrees had proposed to the house managers the alternative of accepting either the senate or house bill without amendment, and that it had been declined, but the truth of the story is denied, and no foundation could be found for it except in a conversa-tion between Senator Jones and a member of the house, not in the conference, in which Mr. Jones had told the house member that he would be willing to come to an agreement, if it could be done, that would permit each house to vole on the hill of the other.

The house conferrees went to Speaker Crisp's private office at the close of the meeting and discussed the situation. Chairman Wilson and his associates expressed satisfaction with the progress being made. Mr. Wilson said, however, that even if an agreement were reached it could not be prepared in time to report this week.

I would be compelled to sit up in bed and belch gas from my stomach until I thought that every minute would be my last. There was a feelling of oppression about my heart, and I was afraid to draw a full breath. I could not sweep a room without resting. My husband induced me to try
