PROBING THE GREAT STRIKE

Developments Made Before the National Commission.

BLACKLISTING LEADERS!

Those Who Took Leading Parts in the Pullman Boycott Unable to Procure Employment.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—The strike commission's investigation yesterday developed an enthusiastic disciple of Bellamy in the person of Roy M. Goodwin, a director of the American Railway union. After a long examination regarding the recent strike he declared that such troubles would be avoided by nationalizing railroads and all other extensive corporations and industries. He believed that the United States should be conducted after the manner laid down by the author of "Looking Backward."

Professor E. W. Bemis, associate professor of political economy in Chicago university, was also a witness. He advocated as a strike preventative a national and permanent board of arbitration. Professor Bemis cited the Massachusetts board of cancellation as an evidence of the good effect that such an organization would have, but said that a national arbitration board should have a wider scope and be endowed with greater powers than the Massachusetts board.

A number of railroad employees were examined, all of whom testified to having applied for work in different parts of the country since the strike, only to discover that they had been blacklisted because of the part they had taken in the boycott affair.

F. R. Mills, a Baltimore and Ohio engineer, of Garrett, Ind., was called and testified that he was discharged on July 1 and was told that he was not to be employed again. Since then he sent a letter to W. C. Bronson, president of the Illinois Steel company, asking for employment. After a few days Mr. Bronson replied that if the application had been received a week before he would have been glad to employ Mills, but now he had been informed of Mills' prominence in the American Railway union, and therefore could not employ him.

James H. Connors, a switchman, who had worked on the Grand Trunk road, testified that he had made application for work to the Union Stock Yards and Transit company, and was refused. The official to whom he applied told him that no man who had ever served on labor committees would be given employment.

Charles Naylor, fireman and engineer, and a member of the A. R. U., came next. He was dismissed June 29 from the Pennsylvania lines, and knew that he was blacklisted, because a general superintendent had told a friend of his that he could not get work. Mr. Naylor said the work men would have no confidence in a permanent board of arbitrators, whether elected or appointed. He thought a new board should be appointed for each case. These officers got too far away from the people, said Mr. Taylor.

Vice President Howard, of the American Railway union, was recalled. Mr. Howard desired to call the commission's attention to two facts: That the United States government was now blacklisting or boycotting 3,000 ex-employees of the Union Pacific railroad, because of their connection with the American Railway union, and that the railroads of the country were threatening to boycott the Missouri, Kansas and Texas road unless it withdrew its present low rate to Washington.

"We think that if the government can keep its hands off the railroads and let them settle their differences by boycott or any way they please, it should keep its hands off the employees as well," said Mr. Howard. A burst of applause from the audience greeted this sentiment.

W. H. Carwardine, pastor of the Methodist church at Pullman, was the next witness. His evidence consisted chiefly of a history of the strike, which he declared would never have occurred had the Pullman company reduced rents when it reduced wages. The witness became indignant when asked if he was an anarchist, and denied it with emphasis.

There will be no afternoon session of the commission today, and the first witness on Monday morning will be Eugene V. Debs.

The audience yesterday was larger than at any previous session. The court room was almost filled, all seats being occupied and many persons standing.

It is probable that the question of the extent of the jurisdiction of the commission will come up before the end of the investigation.

The Brig Indiana Wrecked.
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—The brig Indiana is a total wreck on the coast of Tasmania. The vessel was well known as the Hawaiian brig Douglas. She was for several years engaged in the sugar trade between this port and the islands, but a couple of years ago she was sold to an Auckland ship captain and the brig was put on a route between New Zealand and Australia. She was running in close to shore when the wind shifted, blowing the brig straight for the rocks. The vessel pounded to pieces in a few hours, but all hands reached shore in safety.

Three Mexican Bandits Killed.
CHILPANCINGO, Mex., Aug. 18.—In a fight between ruralites and bandits near the town of Tlacochistahuacan, in this state, three notorious outlaws named Crescencio Jauras, Pedro Francisco and Juan Romero were killed. The fight was a desperate one. The robbers were discovered by the government scouts with four stolen horses in their possession, and before they could make their escape or make defense were surrounded and put at bay. The bandits opened fire, but within a few minutes were all dead.

A BANK EXAMINER'S SUICIDE

He Had Just Finished a Report on an Altoona Bank.

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 18.—Bank Examiner William Miller, who has been working on the accounts of the suspended Second National bank, of this city, the past two weeks, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself through the head. He died instantly. The examiner had just returned from dinner, and after talking a moment with J. P. Levan, president of the bank, in the private office, walked into the counting room and shot himself.

Mr. Miller had just completed the examination of the affairs of the bank, and submitted the result to Washington. He had a letter in his pocket, addressed to Comptroller Eckels at Washington, saying that the directors of the Second National bank were very anxious to resume business, and asking permission to furnish them with a statement of the bank's condition. He also asked for information as to the requirements to be complied with prior to resumption, and paid a high compliment to the integrity of the directors of the institution.

Mr. Miller's home was at Mercersburg, Pa. He was about 45 years of age, and was appointed a bank examiner about two years ago, succeeding Hugh Young. No cause is assigned for the suicide except mental anxiety.

The Reduced Appropriations.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Chairman Sawyer, of the house committee on appropriations, has completed an official statement of the amount appropriated by the session of congress just closing as compared with past sessions. The appropriations made during the extraordinary session and the first regular session of the present congress, including permanent appropriations, show a reduction of $5,896,938. Under the appropriations made at the last session of the last congress, and deducting the amount of the river and harbor bill, $11,473,180, which should be done for the purpose of comparison, inasmuch as no river and harbor bill was passed by the last congress at its last session, the reduction is $40,300,109.

Texas Democratic Ticket Completed.
DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 18.—The Democratic state convention yesterday completed the ticket for state officers. The following are the nominees: Governor, Charles A. Culberson; lieutenant governor, George T. Jester; attorney general, M. M. Crane; commissioner of land office, A. J. Baker; comptroller, R. W. Finley; treasurer, W. B. Wertheimer; superintendent of public instruction, J. M. Carlisle; chief justice of the supreme court, R. P. Gaines. C. A. Culberson, son of Congressman Culberson, is a young man of 35, a finished scholar in law and literature, and a fluent and eloquent speaker. John H. Reagan's defeat for governor is regarded as closing finally his long political career. He is now 75 years old.

A Farmer's "Lock" at Gambling.
CANAJOHARIE, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Moses Walden, an aged farmer living a few miles from Fort Plain, was bounced out of $1,500 yesterday by two strangers whom he met on the highway. In the usual manner they induced him to play cards. Moses won $250, and became enthusiastic. One of the strangers then offered to play for $5,000. Walden, confident of winning, drew the money from the bank at Fort Plain, and proceeded to play again. It was agreed to put all the money in one box, which should be given to the winner. Walden won and was handed the box which he supposed contained the money. On returning home the farmer found only a couple of old newspapers, a stone, and a note warning all against the danger of gambling. No clue has been discovered as to the sharpers.

Murdered from Ambush.
WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 18.—Howard Radcliffe, a farmer, discovered the dead body of Major Russell lying in one of Russell's fields in Barbour county, with a rifle bullet through his heart. Russell and his wife were recently tried for the murder of Mrs. Russell's mother, Mrs. Amanda Welch, by poison. They were acquitted by the jury. After the trial Russell was warned by a notice on his door to leave the country, but paid no attention to it other than to go armed. At the time he was killed he carried a Winchester and a big revolver. He was evidently shot from ambush.

Arrested for an Old Time Crime.
NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Albert Perrin, 34 years old, living with his wife and children at 57 East Ninety-third street, was arrested yesterday by detectives for the alleged larceny of $10,000 worth of jewelry ten years ago. In 1884 Perrin was employed as traveling salesman for the jewelry firm of Nast, Gruening & Co., San Francisco. It is alleged by the firm that he decamped with $10,000 worth of their supplies. They learned lately that he was in this city.

THEY BATTLED THE GAME OUT

Shenandoah Succumbs to the Quaker City League Club.

GALLAGHER FELL AWAY!

The Home Club's Infield Was Very Ragged, But the Greatest Damage Was in the Box—New Players.

There was a vast contrast between the game the Shenandoah base ball club put up at the Trotting park, yesterday, and the games with Allentown on Wednesday and Thursday. From the record made in the latter games it was believed the club had struck a gait which would give it a record of victories for the balance of this week, but the hope was shattered.

The infield was very faulty yesterday, but it was not on account of the errors it made that the game was lost. The defeat was due entirely to Gallagher, one of the trial pitchers being knocked out of the box in the sixth inning. Notwithstanding the errors made by the infield the Shenandoahs held the lead up to the close of their half of the sixth inning by a score of 5 to 3. Then the Philadelphia went in and pounded six runs on Gallagher's delivery by making five singles and one double.

The game was a listless one during the most of its progress. Only once were the spectators aroused to enthusiasm, and that was when O'Hara made a phenomenal catch of Muesey's high fly to deep left in the first inning. O'Hara's fielding throughout was excellent.

Bradley, the old time Shenandoah pitcher, twirled for the Quakers and was quite effective, but he was not in the form he has been seen here. Gallagher was not equal to the occasion and in the sixth inning he remained in the box the Phillies batted him for ten singles and two double deckers.

In the fifth inning the Shenandoahs pounded Bradley hard, getting six singles off his delivery and netting four runs, but, as in the days when he played with Shenandoah, Bradley pulled himself together again and during the last four innings only a single and a two base hit were made by the home team. DIAMOND NOTES.
Carbondale will succeed Allentown in the State league.

Nearly all the Allentown players refused to sign Eastern league contracts.

Manager Brennan to-day released Gallagher, Edwards, Yerkes and Watkins.

McCooch and Sweeney, of the disbanded Allentown club, have been signed by the home team and will play with it to-morrow.

The home management is counting upon a victory over the Philadelphia club at the Trotting park to-morrow. It felt some over the dump it received yesterday.

The home team is not certain whether it will play State league games at Carbondale on Monday and Tuesday, next, or exhibition games at Atlantic City. All depends on to-night's telegraphic messages.

VISIT OF STATE OFFICERS.

Parade, Reception and Festival in their Honor by the Jr. O. U. A. M.

Members of the Jr. Order United American Mechanics of this and neighboring towns turned out in force last night to receive and honor Mr. William T. Kerr, of Pittsburg, the State Councillor of the organization, and Mr. C. N. Raymond, of Middletown, Jr. Past State Councillor. The former gentleman has been touring the State in the interest of the Jr. O. U. A. M. for the past three months, speaking in a different town each night. He is an eloquent and fluent speaker and expounds the cause of the order in a very clear, concise and effective manner.

At eight o'clock a line of parade was formed in front of the Jr. O. U. A. M. headquarters on West Centre street in the following order: Grant Band, Jennings Guards, state officers in carriage, drum corps and Major Jennings Council, No. 307, Jr. O. U. A. M., accompanied by delegations from the Mt. Carmel, Frankville, Girardville, Ashland and Mahanoy City councils. The line passed out on Jardin street to Coal, to Main, to Cherry, and then countermarched to Ferguson's theatre where the visitors made addresses and volunteers carried out a program of vocal and instrumental music.

The program was opened by the Grant Band, which rendered one of its choicest selections in its usual artistic manner, after which Chairman William H. Detrey introduced Jr. Past State Councillor Raymond. The gentlemen were cordially received by the large audience. His remarks were very brief. He dwelt upon the fact that notwithstanding the hard times the membership of the Jr. O. U. A. M. had made a great increase throughout the country and that in Pennsylvania alone there are 100,000 members, showing hard work on the part of the order; and in this work Shenandoah played a leading part. Mr. Raymond said Schuylkill county has many striking characteristics. One of them is the great number of patriotic people who have enrolled themselves as members of the various patriotic organizations within its borders. Mr. Raymond closed by complimenting Jennings Guards on its general appearance, march and drill. The address was very favorably received.

After singing by the Jennings glee club, which was given applause that required an encore, State Councillor Kerr was introduced and he was enthusiastically received. Mr. Kerr's great fight in the interests of the public schools has brought him into national prominence and wherever he has appeared on his tour through the state large crowds have received him cordially.

Mr. Kerr spoke about three-quarters of an hour, basing his discourse upon three topics—immigration, the public schools and naturalization. He denounced unrestricted immigration in most vigorous terms and pointed out the evils which must follow. We have protection on a thousand things, he said, but there is one thing on which there is not a bit of protection, and that is American labor. It is logical for the manufacturers to have a tariff on the class of goods they manufacture, it is equally true that the men, whose only weapon of defense in this country are the shrews, muscles and bones of their arms, ought to receive protection. There should be a system of protection to cover the whole country, not one to solely tax the goods that come from the foreign countries, letting labor in free of duty. The Jr. O. U. A. M. proposes to agitate this question until laws covering it shall be passed.

On the question of naturalization, Mr. Kerr said the Jr. O. U. A. M. protests against the existing methods, among them leaders of political factions seeking to injure people and rushing them to the judges of the courts to be naturalized, irrespective of their qualification to speak, read, or understand the English language, and their understanding of the principles of the American government and its laws. To illustrate the evil of this Mr. Kerr pointed out a case in Cambria county where an important election was decided by the votes of sixty men whose means of collecting their pay for labor was a comparison of their brass checks with the pay rolls.

Speaking of the public schools, Mr. Kerr said the Jr. O. U. A. M. would never have been obliged to take up the question if the people elected to look after it had properly performed their duty. The organization is not fanatical on the question. It does not antagonize anyone on account of his or her creed. It went into the courts and applied for an injunction to restrain the nuns from teaching in the public schools because it believed that no sect, under whatever name, has a right to go into the public schools. The Riverside school named because it is the 34th ward of Pittsburg, is built on the side of the Ohio river. It has thirteen or fourteen rooms and is as fine a building as any school house in the state. But, strange as it may seem, while the children of the ward number sufficient to fill every room in the building, only three were occupied by public school children.

Within a stone's throw is a parochial school building of three rooms and all crowded. Was there any harm in allowing the parochial school children with their teachers, who are sisters of the order of St. Joseph, to occupy the unoccupied rooms of the other building? There was. The public school building was not built for any particular denomination, but for public school education. It matters not whether there were twelve or only half a room unoccupied, no church has a right to go into the public school and assume authority there. The public schools of our land were intended by our forefathers to be non-sectarian. (Applause.)

After more singing by the glee club the audience dispersed and the state officers were escorted to Robbins' opera house, where an ice cream festival was in progress under the auspices of the Jr. O. U. A. M. While there the State Councillor was presented with a handsome doublet in stand in behalf of Major Jennings Council. The presentation address was made by Mr. Raymond, in responding Mr. Kerr said he would remember his visit to Shenandoah as the most pleasant during his tour. To-day Messrs. Kerr and Raymond visited the mines.
