An Assistant Mine Foreman Disappears in a Hurry.

UGLY STATE OF AFFAIRS!

The Philadelphia and Reading Coal & Iron Company Takes an Active Interest in the Case.

The latest town sensation has been caused by the sudden disappearance of Joseph Whitehouse, who has been filling the position of assistant outside foreman at the Shenandoah City colliery. No on seems to know where he has gone. Even his wife pleads ignorance. She says she loes not know why he left or where he went to.

Sensation attaches itself to the case because the P. & R. C. & I. Co, has taken a lively interest in it and it is expected that there will be some very important developments in the near future. The P. & R. company has been working the case quietly and it is for that reason that the details are not public.

This case explains the presence of Capt. Christian, chief of Coal & Iron police with headquarters at Pottsville, in town on Tuesday. Whitehouse skipped on Monday night.

When a Henalus reporter called at the Whitehouse residence last night, Mrs. Whitehouse said she hadn't the slightest idea of the whereabouts of her husband. He left the house without saying anything to her and, so far as she knows, he may be sick in some strange place or, possibly, be dead. "One thing is sure," added Mrs. Whitehouse, "If he dossn't come back soon I will have to prepare to support myself."

Mrs. Whitehouse vigorously denied that the disappearence of her husband was due in any manner to trouble at the colliery.

Reports as to why Whitehouse disap-

Reports as to why Whitehouse disappeared are pretty well spread through the town, but there are very few people who know enough to speak positively on the subject.

A HERALD reporter got a clue last night which led him to the grocery store at the corner of South Jardiu and Laurel streets kept by one Joseph Salinski. Mr. Salinski was not at home, he was in consultation with some of the P. & R. officials on the was not at home, he was in consultation with some of the P. & R. officials on the case.

A party who seemed to know something of the matter stated that complaint had been made to the P. & R. officials that money had been drawn from the company as wages for men who did not work at the collier; that the collections were made upon flettilous names. It was also stated that money had been extorted for positions and when holidays approached men holding positions were expected to make contributions.

It is but just to say that no part of the investigation thus far made directs the least susplicion towards Mr. Marshal Baugh, the outside foreman of the collectors and all kinds of Temperance Drinks.

rived. It has been impossible to ascer-tain even an approximate amount of the money thus obtained.

There are two other versions as to the manner in which the case was brought to light. One is that one of the Polish allies asked a loan of a carriage and failed to get it and then decided to make trouble. The other is that a man who failed to get a job upset the pot of trouble.

The Jury's Verdict.

The Jury's Verdict.

Deputy Coroner Manley and a jury last night held an inquest in the case of Darby Shields, John Miller and the two other men who were killed by the boiler explosion at Packer No. 4 colliery and the following verdict was rendered: "That the deaths were caused by the explosion of a boiler in class B (90 pounds pressure of steam) at Packer No. 4 colliery. Said explosion was caused by John Miller, the fireman, neglecting and refusing to pull the fire after noticing the boiler was defective."

New Refrigerator.

New Refrigerator.

Sol. Haak has just taken the agency for Feigenspan's Newark, N. J., Export Lager and Saazer Pale Beer. The Feigenspan people will build a large refrigerator near the Pennsylvania R. R. station and make other arrangements to facilitate prompt delivery of their excellent beverage. This beer is clear and cool, and as it slips down the threat leaves a feeding like the touch of velvet. Mr. Haak anticipates large sales in Shenandosh and has already a good trade.

Soil, Haak received word from Potts-ville last evening that his son, George, was seriously ill, but as there is sickness in tils immediate family Mr. Haak has been unable as yet to visit his son.

Pièrce Butler, one of the employes at the News office, who went to the Wills tye hospital at Philadelphia several weeks ago to undergo an operation, re-turned to his home and resumed his position this morning.

R. C. Knight has just returned from a visit to Reading and says he was delighted to find that the report of the death of George R. Frill was unfounted. The latter gentleman is living a retired life at Reading and enjoying good health. He was one of the pioneers of this town and one of the original owners of the Kehley Run colliery.

George Wilde, who sustained a paralytic stroke on Tuesday, died at the residence of his son, G. A. Wilde, on East Coal atreet, at 1:30 o'clock this afternoom. Deceased was 73 years of age and had been a resident of this county since 1823. When he first reached Pottaville from Chester he imade passage on a canal boat, there being no railroads in existence through that part of the country at that time. He served as outside foreman at various collieries in this region for upwards of forty years and the last position of that kind he held was at the Kohimoor colliery. He resigned that position about twelve years ago on account of advancing age. Mr. Wilde had been a resident of this town since 1878. He owned considerable real estate here. He was a widower and is survived by five sons, William R., of Audearied; John F., of Clinton, Iowas; Summerfield C., Pattamonth, Nebraska, and G. A. and Prof. E. W. Wilde, of town. Announcement of the funeral will be made to-morrow.

some reason he couldn't keep upon his feet.

Musser's work at short was shady, but he redeemed himself by making a double play and a good hit at opportune momenets. Myers, Weikert and Messitt practically had the whole support of the pitcher on their shoulders.

The game was a nice one up to the swenth iming, when the home team broke badly and victory was placed beyond its reach.

Not a run made by the visitors was carned. They had a planic in the seventh and, seeing that Ross could not hold the ball, devoted all their energies to get it thrown to third. At this stage the game was a indicrous one.

thrown to third. At this stage the game was a ludicrous one.

In the eighth inning Manager Brennan took O'Hara out of the field and replaced Yenger in the box with Dunkle, but the reason the latter change was made did not seem clear, unless it was feared that Yenger's heart had been broken by the support given him.

The Philadelphias are heavy batters and for Yenger to hold them down to four hits was work which could win nine games out of ten wife anything like proper gupport. On the other hand, the support given the Philadelphia piccher was almost perfect. He was hit several times, but they were nearly all nice high flex which could easily be judged and bagged.

STRUCK IT RICH.

Very Satisfactory Result of Tunnel Driving at the Cambridge Colliery.

The operators of the Cambridge collier; are jubilant over the striking of the or chard vein in the mine. It was first struck on Monday, but yesterday it was revealed in all its richness. The vein is twelve feet thick. It will increase the produc tion of the coillery by 125 tons a day and prolong the life of the place by 15 or 25 years. The velo was reached by a tunnel driven through 440 feet of rock. The men who struck the velo were presented with a box of fine Havana cigars.

the people to the fact that the water supply of the town is very low and that it is absolutely necessary that strict economy should be exercised by the consumers.

This notice should be given strict observance. The thinand has louked into the matter and finds that the water supply is just as stated. Should the people become indifferent to the situation, they alone will be sufferers. In the first place, the supply is so scant that the collectes find it difficult to keep in operation and there is danger that they may be forced to suspend altogether until the supply can be repletished. It requires no argument to show the people how they would suffer in such an event. Secondly, continued wasts of water may so much decrease the crease the present limited supply as to cripple the departments in case of fire. These are two points of the greatest interest to the community and the people should lend all their energies to preserve them by heling as economical as possible in the use of water. The water company has acted timely and wisely and is doing all in its power to give the people at the water necessary without running the difficulties force shadowed above. The company should receive the hearty to operation of the people until such times as the crists is passed. One important matter to which attention is called in that people should see that the hydrants are shut off during the time the water supply is cut off. If this is not done there is danger of great waste while people are absent from their homes.
