VANDERBILT SCANDAL.

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt Seeking Legal Separation.

A PARISIAN BEAUTY THE CAUSE.

The American Millionaire Spent Money Lavishly and Set His Face Up in a Princely Establishment—Has Been Separated from His Wife Since Last Spring.

New York, Aug. 30.—The published statement that Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt is about to begin separation or divorce proceedings has not, it is alleged, created surprise in circles where the relations of the pair have been known.

"Mr. Vanderbilt," says the same authority, "won 40,000 francs on the race, and almost immediately after receiving his winnings was introduced to a woman well known for her beauty and numerous following among the lights in swiftdom.

"The story of how he fitted up a magnificent establishment for her in Paris, and subsequently gave her a residence at Beaulieu, with servants and every luxury she desired, is true. It shocked and surprised the American residents of Paris, but Mr. Vanderbilt was so open in his attention as to puzzle everybody.

When this news reached Mrs. Vanderbilt she immediately communicated with her friends in America and set about to procure a divorce.

Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt went over to Paris hastily to patch up matters, and the story is that he met William K., his brother, with whom he has great influence, and hearing his story secured from him a promise not to make the details of his differences with his wife public.

Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt also saw Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt and heard her story. He made every effort to bring about a reconciliation, but failed in everything except the stopping of divorce proceedings.

It was at this time that Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt began to suffer from nervous prostration. During her illness it is generally understood that she changed her mind about going to the courts, and was willing to do anything to avoid the publicity that must follow a suit for divorce.

Colonel and Mrs. Jay, both friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, then went over, and they are even now trying to effect a reconciliation and save the publicity of a scandal, but are not meeting with exceptional success.

It is the general impression on this side of the water that Mrs. Vanderbilt will not seek a divorce, and it is said on excellent authority that Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt has a promise from William K. that he will not attempt a proceeding of that nature on his own behalf.

The Vanderbilts, according to another afternoon paper, have lived apart since early last spring. Mrs. Vanderbilt has spent the summer in England at an extensive estate on the Thames near London, which had been rented for her, while Mr. Vanderbilt has spent his time in Paris. It is alleged that when some time ago a tentative agreement of separation was reached Mr. Vanderbilt agreed to settle on his wife $100,000.

Mrs. Vanderbilt was formerly a Miss Smith, of Mobile. Her family was not wealthy, as the Vanderbilts would consider, but what the Smiths of Mobile lacked in wealth they made up in aristocratic lineage.

CUT HIS VISIT SHORT.

The Visitor Had to Take a Bath and Then Had to Go to the Toilet.

A certain lady of this city, who had never been used to the luxury of life until after her husband made a large sum of money in the real estate business, moved into an elegant house which had, among other conveniences, a fine bathroom.

"Now, I know you are tired and dusty after your long journey, just go right up to the bathroom, and you can have a refreshing bath at once." This worked well in most cases, but one day she made a mistake.

"In vain the young man tried to expose her. She hid him by the arm and started him up the stairway before he could get in a word. In half an hour he came down and took up his hat and stick. "I thank you very much," he said. "I enjoyed the bath very much."

"Why, where are you going?" asked the hostess. "To catch my train," he answered. "I only had 40 minutes to stay, and my bath took half an hour, so I must hustle now to catch the Chicago train."

Slam's White Elephants. "Among the ancient customs which are passing away in the kingdom of Slam," said Captain W. E. Grantley of the British army, "is the worship of the white elephant. These elephants, however, are not white in any strict sense of the word, but merely lighter colored than other elephants and are worshipped because they are supposed to contain the souls of some dead kings.

Two Rochester women were discussing the subject of salads and their construction. The first said, "Now, for lobster salad I always get a nice live lobster that weighs about 1 1/2 pounds or 2 pounds and boil it nicely." The second broke in with: "How do you kill the lobster? You know, I never buy live lobsters because I think it is so inhuman to kill them by putting them into a kettle of hot water."

THE DUTCH DEFEATS.

They Are Causing Great Excitement Throughout Holland.

THE LOSS OVER FIVE HUNDRED.

In the Latest Engagement Near Mataram, Capital of the Island of Lombok, the Troops Were Slain from Ambush.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 30.—Later advices received from Lombok say that the attacks upon the different columns of Dutch troops were the result of a preconcerted plan upon the part of the leading native chiefs of the Balinese natives.

After a harassing retreat the Van Pabst column was approaching Tjakra Negara without seeing any further signs of the enemy, when suddenly from the walls of that place, from every loophole and every point of vantage, a hailstorm of bullets was poured into the column of Dutch troops.

To make matters worse the Balinese had no sooner opened fire upon the head of the column than its rear was also exposed to a terrific rifle fire. Thus, the advance and the retreat of the column were alike cut off and impossible.

It is admitted, even in military circles, that the almost simultaneous defeat of the three columns of troops is the most severe reverse which the Dutch army has sustained at the hands of savage troops in all the wars ever fought.
