A MONSTER CAVE IN. The Mining Town of Scotch Valley Swallowed Up.

ESCAPE OF FIFTY MINE WORKERS.

Their Daual Means of Exit Cut Off, the Mon Flually Make Their Way to the Surface, Aided by Bescuors, Through an Air Shaft.

LOFTT, Pa., Sept. 6 -- The little mining town of Scotch Valley, in Lackawanna county, near this place, was swallowed up last night in one of the most complete mine cave ins ever known in this region. The scene of the disaster is on the sastern alope of Mount Lookout, the score of houses composing the hamlet being at the mouth of the shaft of Mount Lookout colliery. The wildest excitement prevails throughout the region, and details of the cave in are fragmentary. It is known, however, that the dozen houses on either side of the principal street of the hamlet are completely swallowed up in the gap-ing sinkhole, and nothing can be seen of the other buildings of the town but the roof gables and chimneys. It is impossi-ble to estimate accurately the number of fatalities. Rescuing parties are now ex-erting every moans to release the occu-pants of the englifed dwellings. For-tunately, but one of the buried houses has thus far taken fire.

thus far taken fire. The cave in was caused by the giving away of the timber supports in workings of the Mount Lookout colliery, which have not been in operation for about two years. About 5 o'clock last evening the inhabitants of the hamlet wars startled by the rumbling, thunder like reports which warned them of the falling of tons of nock and debris into the desarted car.

of rock and debris into the deserted cav-erns of the abandoned mine, many feet beneath them. The terror stricken peo-ple were still further horrified when the ground trembled and swayed like an earthquake beneath them, and then the III fated village sank out of sight in the

If fated village sank out of sight in the gaping cavity. Meanwhile some fifty miners were im-prisoned in the colliery, blindly stumbling through the dark passages, looking for a means of escaping from their living grave. They had been at work in a new portion of the mine, and were suddenly terrified by the thrunder of the crashing rock and stone between them and due. rock and stone between them and day light. Their usual means of exit from the mine was completely wiped out by the cave in James Perrin, one of the oldest of the miners, got the handful of men to-used as in air shaft, but which led to the surface through a series of steep slopes. The men had not zone far, however, be-fore the accumulation of coal damp warned them of the danger lurking in the air. It was necessary for them to extin-guish their lamps to guard against an ex-plosion, and the remainder of their desperate journey became a blind groping about in the dark in the footsteps of their leader. Meanwhile a rescuing party on the sur-face had made an attempt to cut a pas-sage through the mass of debris which blocked the main entrance. Failing in blocked the main entrance. Failing in this some of the more daring of the res-cuers descended the air passage, and hap-pened to penetrate the slope where the imprisoned miners were struggling up-wards. The men were carried to the surwards. The men were carried to the sur-face, where a great crowd of excited, pank stricken people were awaiting them. The work of rescaing the persons impris-oned in the engulfed houses is still in DFORTERS.

TIMES ARE CHANGED.

An Old Woman's Beflectious on the Virtues of Long Ago.

"Law," said one of the wealthiest old ladies of Clark county, Ind., the other day, "girls are not what they used to be. This is the first time that I have been in This is the first time that I have been in town for 30 years, and I had no idea that there were such carryings on. Why, there is a man who works for a living at so much per week, and his family has a car-riage, and they spend nearly everything he makes. The dimers they have at their houses are nicer than I have, and their thildrum are dressed finer than any I ever saw before. I waved 15 oblighter mesself saw before. I reserved 15 ohldren myself, but none of them ever had such clothes as those children of this man have. Still all of mine now have good farms and bank accounts and go to church and try to be Christians.

When I was married, my husband had a horse and I owned a cow. They were all that we had. We rented a place, and now we not only own that place, but several more in that neighborhood, besides some business property in Louisville. I have never worked hard and have enjoyed myself in a quiet way. These people who are spending everything they get and would be in a bad fix if the husband were suddenly thrown out of work can hardly be having a better time than I am, be cause they must be continually worrying as to how long they can keep it up. I an positively alarmed when I think of it my Louisville Commercial.

How the Beard Should Be Cut.

Men with long, this faces should have Men with long, but faces should have round beards if any. But if a man's face is abnormally round and fat he should wear an "imperial," as the marrow, long variety of the Vandyke beard is called. Oddly enough, it is the Americans who chiefly favor this form, though their faces. being long and narrow, need it less than any other and would often be improved by a round, full beard, trimmed rather short.

There is one good argument against the beard which ought to have some weight. It nearly always rols the head of hair. It is very seldom that a man can maintain a luxuriant growth of both after the age of 40. Perhaps this may be one reason that whenever long-beards have been worn the half has been cut short, and whenever the head locks have been permitted to be long the beard has almost entirely disappeared. It is a mistake for short men to wear the board too long. The head should be a little less than one-seventh the length of the less than one-seventh the length of the whole body, and the capillary addition to its size throws it quite out of proportion. On a very tail man, inclined to learness and angularity, a long beard is almost equally a mistake unless he should happen equally a mistake unless he should happen to be so bountifully supplied by nature that he can have it of which properformate to its length and so blick as to convey an idea of almost superalundant fullness. He will probably pay for this heavever, by being vary hald on the top of his head.— London News.

A ourious custom that once prevailed in the south more widely than in the north was that of giving the woman whom one invited for a drive or outing a small sum with which to buy flowers, full on invited for a drive or outing a small sum with which to buy flowers, fruit or con-fectionary to enhance the pleasure of the event. This money, which probably varied with the fortness of the gallant, was called "pin money."
