Gaston, who was formerly in Atlanta Gaston, who was formerly in Atlanta and worked up a deportation scheme, has been in Hancock county for three or four months. He collected $1 from every man, woman and child enrolled as a colonist for Liberia. He is a plansible talker, and had $3,000 of his race pledged. Time and again he appointed a day for the departure, but when the time arrived Gaston was somewhere else.

After frequent disappointments some of the emigrants began to believe what Jenkins and their white friends had told them. But it was too late. They had

Some of them became desperate, and a number of them armed themselves and ealled on Gaston for the purpose of hav-ing him refund their money. Gaston rai-lied a number of negroes to his assistance and a battle ensued.

The planters sympathized with Jen kins, who was working for the best inter-ests of his people. This fact has been dis-forted into active participation by the whites in Monday night's fight.

Judge Scars granted an injunction restraining the attorney from interfering with the estate.

THE WELCOME RAIN.

It Had a Refreshing Effect, but Much More is Required.

Hall to the rain ! The moisture which fell upon the dustladen and mud-caked streets of our town was welcomed with delight by the few people who remained upon the streets late enough last night to receive the comfort-Ing embrace.

At the office of the water company on West Lloyd street joy was unbounded.

West Lloyd street joy was unbounded.

"Relief has come at last." was the cry, and the officials who have been so studiously engaged for the past two weeks in warning the people against a water fam ine could hardly restrain their delight.

The rain is certainly a blessing to this town. The drought has been felt severely in many sections and had the relief been postponed much longer there is not the slightest doubt that the Board of Health would soon be taxed to keep up an obedience to its regulations.

The privation caused by the scarcity of water has been much more severe than some people imagine. In the miners' homes water had increased to value almost on a par of milk. People who can get along with "a hand and face wash," as some term it, cannot appreciate the true situation. It is only in the homes of those who come out of the bowels of the earth, blackened from head to foot by the accumulating coal dust, and thirsted by a long walk from the place of labor, the circumstances can be found that bring out the real value of the unadulterated liguid.

One man said last night, a well-known out the real value of the unadulterated liquid.

One man said last night, a well-known miner, too, "I've suffered more the past week than a man could suffer outside an abandonment on an arid plain. I got home to-day expecting to take the usual wash, but before I got in the house the woman said, "The water is mighty scarce and I filled everything I could lay hands on this morning, but I ran short, and now I've only got two hours to refill them and keep the mill a-going until to-morrow morning, so when you wash, give the dirta lick and a promise and pray for rain." Well do you know I've said the miner, "I hadn's the heart to take the dip I usually take, but I never said a word, went into the shanty and took as little water as I could get along with and I've got as preity a pair of black stockings on me to-night ever sold over a counter."

Another man met on Main street actually confessed that he was obliged to take his whisky straight, but he had the laugh on the man who sold it to him, because there was not water enough in the house to keep the demijohn up to the ligh water mark.

e house to keep the demijohn up to the gh water mark.

There were two very serious conse-quences of the drought yesterday. The first was that the Indian Ridge colliery only worked a quarter of a shift on ac-count of the scarcity of water and at about half past ten o'clock last night the upply of the incandescent electric lights cave out.
The "water yer say !" jokes which filled the air after the pavements received the refreshing drops became so malignant that the arch lights were in danger of that the arch lights were in danger of obscurity.

But the rain came at last and it is safe to say that the prayer for a continuance is almost universal. As to the continuance hope may be placed on the one two-three predictions of an old lady who stood at the corner of Main and Centre streets last night, waiting for an electric car to take her down to the "Rap." She was jubliant. "And shure," said she "it's a foline day whin it don't rain, but never the toine day with it don't rain, but never the day afther. Shure the change of the moon was on the night of Friday lasth and I noticed—let me see have of me foice claris — shure and I have—I noticed that the horn of the mean hing down, and whin the horn of the mean hing down, and whin the horn of the mean hing down, and whin the horn of the mean fring the interval of the mean hing down, and whin the horn of the mean fitting that it is goin ter rain, and it did and it has, and be blessin' to fit and ton't stay but it is a fit and it will rain for a day or two, or more, if it only stop—hall on that car, there, I want will rain for a day or two, or more, If it on't step—build on that car, there, I was pet home and fell them I'm a what d s call that FO, yes, I'm a water mocket."

Water Notice.

On account of the continued drought the supply of water will be formed off after 6 p. m. on Saturday, September 1st, 1894, and remain shut off until 7 o'clock Sunday morning, when the water will be turned on again until 9 a. m. After that hour the water will remain turned off until 4 p. m. and remain in force from that time until 9 p. m. This arrangement will give the people a water supply two hours in the evening and two hours in the morning and will remain in force until the reservoirs are replenished. A watehman will be stationed at Fowler's lumber yard, on East Coal street, to turn on the water at a moment's notice in case the fire alarm is sounded. People should be careful and not leave their hydrants open during the time the water supply is cut off.
