THE APILLY DISASTER.

Paris, Sept. 11.—The disaster to the Paris and Cologne express train at Apilly between Noyon and Charoy, Sunday, was more serious than at first supposed. The first estimates placed the number of persons killed at ten with twenty injured. It is now stated that from forty to sixty were killed or injured. Twelve dead bodies have already been taken from the wreck. The minister of public works, M. Barthou, and a number of railway officials have gone to the scene of the accident.

It is definitely stated that the accident was due to the slow shunting of a freight train at Apilly. The engineer of the express saw the cars on the line and reversed his engine. The shock of the collision was borne by the three front cars, which sustained the brunt of the damage. As soon as the accident became known a number of priests and physicians hurried to the railroad station and did everything possible to assist the dying and injured travelers. The priests administered the last sacrament to several who were dying.

The report that the station master at Apilly had committed suicide by jumping in front of the express train when he saw that a collision was inevitable turns out to be incorrect. The station master ran along the track while trying to signal the express train and the freight train, which was in its way, and he was caught between the two trains and killed. It seems to be certain that there were no Americans among the killed or injured.
