Mr. Ferguson Defles the Masses and Acts at Leisure.

At about eight o'clock last evening several members of the Phoenix Hose Company wended their way along East Centre and South White streets, drawing the hose carriage with mulled bell. Many of the people who saw the carriage ex-claimed "Fire" and prepared themselves for the sounding of the fire alarm bell, buil-t didn't ring. The firemen were not on their way to respond to a call of dury, but to indulge in a little frolic. Arriving in front of Mr. P. J. Ferguson's mansion on South White street they inited the hose carriage and commenced to ring the Centre and South White streets, drawing
