ANOTHER POSTPONEMENT!

But if Patience and Discretion Count Shenandoah Will Yet Have a Soldiers' Monument.

It is contended, and no doubt, with some degree of reason, that postponements are of great disadvantage to projectors. The testimony of many experienced men is that a postponement is a forerunner of depreciation, and sometimes a stepping stone to a failure of public confidence and, consequently, in itself entails a loss.

Theoretically, this is accepted by many as an incontrovertible truth. Whether it is such, practically, is to be decided after the Soldiers' Monument picnic is held.

About two months ago the Soldiers' Monument Association decided to hold a picnic to raise money to swell its fund for the erection of a monument to perpetuate the memory and gallant deeds of those who went forth when the country was in a state of unjustifiable revolution and, after four years of battle unequalled by any contest recorded in the annals of any civilized country, succeeded in snatching the cradle of liberty from the selfish and designing rascals. Many smaller towns than Shenandoah (among them Freedom) have already stepped to the front and attested their appreciation of the valor of the departed heroes, and why should not Shenandoah, with its 15,000 of liberty-protected inhabitants, do the same?

The committee selected last Labor Day for the picnic; but when the park was sought the date was found engaged. No attempt was made to induce those who had secured the date, the National Club, to relinquish it, for it was known that the organization was an active worker for good American political government and deserving of some popular encouragement.

The next step was to pick a suitable succeeding day, and the committee selected September 25th. Everything went along smoothly. The business men of the town prepared themselves for their annual outing on that day and volunteered the Monument Committee their co-operation for the picnic. But, as Pat said when the tent was pitched down his throat, "it slipped." It rained. There was nothing left to the discretion of the committee but a postponement.

The members of the committee then drilled themselves for a big day on the 27th. At the sun were on the deck. There was but one obstacle in the way—would the P. & R. coilleries work on the 27th? The secretary of the general committee was instructed to write and find out, and this was what he found:

PHILADELPHIA & READING C. & I. CO.,
POTTSVILLE, PA., Sept. 22, 1894.

W. J. Watkins, Secretary General Committee Soldiers' Monumental Association, Shenandoah, Pa.

DEAR SIR:—In reply to your communication of the 20th, I beg to advise you that the operations of our coilleries on Thursday next will say that, while we are in hearty sympathy with the object of your association, and wish you every success, yet we must say that to comply with your request will work a great hardship to both the railroad and Coal Iron Company, and we have lost so much time this summer and have been at such an expense in consequence that we would like to work every day possible until the end of the year. We will do our best to work until Friday night, 28th, and therefore request you to postpone your demonstration until Saturday. I do not say this positively, but would urge you to so arrange your matters as to enable us to do so if it is possible for us to dispose of the coal.

Hoping you will be able to see your way clear to do so, I am, yours truly,
R. C. LUTHER,
General Superintendent.

According to expectation Mr. R. C. Luther was at the Indian Ridge coillery yesterday and was met there in the presence of Superintendent John Veith, of Pottsville, and Mr. J. J. Bradigan, division superintendent of the Shenandoah district. Mr. Luther was the spokesman and he put the situation in striking form: "What is the best policy—four days' work with a possibility of five, or three days' work and a picnic?"

At the same time Mr. Luther gave assurance that the P. & R. C. & I. Company but he considered that a postponement to Saturday would be more agreeable to both the company and its employees. Mr. Luther also stated that should the committee decide upon the postponement the company would try to change its pay day from Saturday to the preceding Friday, an advantage to the picnic.

It was a case of clutch in the interest of all concerned and a meeting of the general committee was called. At the meeting last evening the facts were laid open for discussion and the arguments that followed were quite interesting.

One argued that the rains were spilling. Another said that the dodgers and other advertising material would go to wait for a second time. A third argued that "There is a tide in affairs of man which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune."

On the other hand it was argued that in the hard times which now over shadow the country every day's work counts; that while there was reason to believe that the coal production for October would be more restricted than the production for September the workmen should be allowed to take the flood; that, while the rains in soak might spoil, their value would not equal the amount which the working people would lose in the idleness of one or two days; but an inducement to have a pay day on Friday, the day before the picnic, would be detrimental to the business men. It was therefore decided, in order to meet the conditions conducive to the welfare of all parties concerned, that the picnic for the benefit of the Soldiers' Monument Association of Shenandoah, Penna., be postponed until Thursday, October 4th.

The committee has given way to what they believe is an argument for the benefit of all classes concerned, and it looks for an appreciation of the action by a swelled fund for the soldiers' monument. Members of the committee have volunteered to fund that there will be no loss on the bank.

THE BAND! THE BAND!

Pottsville Base Ball Enthusiasts are Overwhelmed With Grief.

How the mighty have fallen! "The Champions" are leveled to the earth and the Harrisburgers are walking away from them as fast as the championship games can be played. Yesterday the game resulted in favor of Harrisburg by a score of 10 to 5 and the record for the series is 3 in favor of the same team. The Pottsville battle cry of "No more tyrants!" has been changed to "I'm sick, where's McGuinness," and yet the band does not come out and the fireworks remain upon the shelf. The Nye's Golden opportunity which the inland county seaters thought they saw to catch the Potts has vanished. They find up Hill work before them and there is the Diggins to play. There is not even a chance for a Tigue. O, Pottsville! Pottsville! It will be over and the day is near at hand when the admirers who have been flocking to your ball grounds will stamp your team as a combination of clumps. Shenandoah sympathizes with you, for she knows you're as hard a loser as you are an arrogant winner. We have but one small offering to make. Will you accept the services of our star battery—Setley and Scully?

McElheny will have snapper, clam and oyster soup this evening.

Funerals.

The funeral of Walter Allen, infant son of George and Isabella Holland, took place this afternoon at 3 o'clock, from the family residence on North Bowers street. Interment was made in the Odd Fellows' cemetery.

The funeral of John George Smith, who met with a sudden death at his home in Brownsville, Saturday morning, took place to-day from the residence of his son, Henry, on Gilbert street.

NARROW ESCAPES.

Two Little Children Run Over by a Wagon.

NEITHER BADLY INJURED.

Miraculous Escape From Death of a Driver This Morning—Dragged by Runaway Horses.

Two children playing in the street at the corner of White and Oak streets yesterday had miraculous escapes from fatal injuries. That one or the other was not killed is considered a miracle by the physician in attendance.

The children were Callier, son of Charles Wasley, and Edith, daughter of Harry A. Acker, of the Grand Union Tea Company. They are about five years of age. They saw a heavy lumber wagon approach and one proposed to the other that they try to make the wheels of the wagon turn faster.

Before the driver could realize what the boy and girl intended they sprang towards the wagon and both were knocked down. One of the wheels passed over the little girl's right knee and left ankle and over the boy's right hip and the abdomen.

When the children were picked up and carried to their respective homes near the place where the accident occurred, but a careful examination showed that, while both were badly bruised, neither sustained a fracture or other very serious injury. The attending physicians say that other children would have suffered much more serious results.

To-day both children were reported as much improved. They will be about as usual within a few days. The parents exonerate the driver from all blame.

McElheny's ladies' dining rooms are the cosiest in town.

Injured in a Runaway.

Joseph Whitekawicz, a driver employed by A. P. Tabor, the butcher, had a narrow escape from death this morning. He was about to leave the stable on East Lloyd street with a team to start on his delivery wagon when his horses dashed away and got beyond his control. The wagon was upset in the turn from the stable and Whitekawicz fell beneath it in such a way that he could not release himself, and while prostrate under the vehicle was dragged along the ground for the distance of about a square, when the horses were stopped by running on either side of a telegraph pole. Whitekawicz was unconscious and bleeding from many wounds when picked up. He soon rallied, however, and the physician who examined him said there was no danger of fatal results. The man sustained no fractures but almost his entire body was cut or bruised.

The Phillips' Case.

The suit for $5,000 damages brought by Constable Talbot Phillips against the Pottsville Herald was taken up for trial before Judge Bechtel at Pottsville yesterday and continued. Shortly after noon the case was given to the jury. About three years ago, while Mr. Phillips' family was residing in the property on East Lloyd street formerly known as the Purcell property, one of his children died from scarlet fever. Mr. Phillips said the child contracted the disease from a filthy drain which passed in front of his door and that the borough was responsible because it had been repeatedly notified to do so. The jury was still out at three o'clock this afternoon.

Unfortunate Speculator.

E. B. Foley, the West Centre street grocer, has recently been turning his attention to speculation in goats to some disadvantage. The first goat he bought was stolen from him and what he purchased the second a First ward man charged him with stealing it, which charge, of course, was wholly without foundation. Foley has made up his mind that there is a hoodoo in the business and will give it up.

In a Predicament.

Michael Peters to-day tapped an out-house at the rear of his Main street property with the intention of making connection with a sewer, but instead of running into the pipes the contents of the out-house broke through into the cellar of his next-door neighbor, Lewis Kline, and flooded it. Naturally there was some excitement mingled with great disgust.

Property Purchased.

A deed was yesterday filed at Pottsville transferring the Minnie C. Harnett property, on West Centre street, to the children of Pierce Roberts. The negotiations for this sale dragged along for some time on account of proceedings required to settle the interests of minor children in the estate.

Hooks & Brown.

Messrs. Hooks & Brown are the authorized agents for the EVENING HERALD in Shenandoah and are empowered to collect all overdue subscriptions and give receipts for the same.

Alterations.

John A. Reilly, the South Main street liquor dealer, is making extensive alterations at his place of business. The front of the store is being changed so that the vestibule will be removed and the doors will be flush with the window.

A Chance to Invest.

If you have a few thousand dollars you can make a good investment in a 500-acre coal and timber tract in Tennessee. It will be sold at a sacrifice, the owner being pushed for money. Address HERALD office, Shenandoah, Pa.

Give Them Your Orders.

Hooks & Brown, the North Main street stationers, are the authorized town agents of the EVENING HERALD and all orders left in their care will be promptly attended to. The HERALD is also on sale at all the other leading stationery stores in the town.

AMUSEMENTS.

"SHE COULDN'T MARRY THREE."

This play is presented by one of the cleverest companies in existence, every one of them being especially selected for their adaptability in portraying the character they represent. The star, Miss Lillian Kennedy, is the brightest ingenue sourette in America, and in this comedy she has a role which gives full scope to her wonderful versatility.

"FAHO DOMANI."

Alden Benedict's "Fazio Romani" Company opened another Metropolitan engagement at the Grand opera house last night. Since last appearing here Mr. Benedict has engaged Miss Grace Hunter. The story of the play is sad, but mixed with the dark passages of the sombre story were many entrancing scenes that helped to make the whole a pleasant entertainment. The promised realism came at the end of the drama in the earthquake scene. The last commenced in a mausoleum which occupied the entire stage. At the climax of the subterranean commotion the huge tomb sank out of sight and revealed dwellings falling in ruins, the earth rocking and rent with fiery fissures, while Mt. Vesuvius in the background belched forth huge columns of fire and smoke, and poured red streams of lava on the city of Naples at its feet. Walter Lawrence assumed the title role, and was ably assisted by an excellent company. Miss Enzel Sumner, Miss Addie Farwell and Mr. Charles L. Farwell were heartily approved in their several parts, but the special feature was the living pictures, the most beautiful of all stage creations.—New York Sun. At Forgan's theatre Thursday evening, Sept. 27th.

No company that we have ever heard of has ever come to our city with such favorable couriers as "She Couldn't Marry Three." They have the unanimous endorsement of the New York press; and this, you may rest assured, will be your only chance to see this superior company, as they will make no stops going from San Francisco to New York City. We have no doubt of their success here.

Rupture.
