It is to be hoped that if the masters find it necessary to make a reduction in wages, as one step toward cheaper and more economical cost a Mr. Garland left annuities to his monkey, of manufacture, that the men will submit his dog and his cost. with as good a grace as may be, and that it may be settled andeably without one of those deplorable strikes which have been so common in this country recently, and which are so disastrous to masters owned no less than 71 pairs of these uses and men alike. The timplaters must see that they are a very highly paid body of taken as they were and sold by public aucmen, and that this cannot last forever if then, no person being allowed to buy we are to compete with other countries than one pair. have no hope of regaining under the Gorman tariff their lost trade unless they can lose the American factories which have been recently established. This serves to show that the Republicans have been right in asserting that the Gorman tariff was designed to favor foreign industries at the expense of home manufactures. Finally, in order to enable the Welsh manufacturers to close up the American factories, where skilled workmen have been employed at good wages, there will he extensive reductions of wages in Great Bertain as a necessary step toward cheaper production of tinplate. This reveals the destructive character of the competition to which the American industry is to be subjected.

SOME CURIOUS WILLS

ECCENTRICITIES AND WHIMSICALITIES OF TESTATORS

Cutting Off With a Shilling a Favorite Pian Leaving Parts of the Body to Doctors-Some Wills Are Humorous, and Others Are Noticeable For Their Brevity.

There is a refreshing quaintness about one old bequests. Walter le Taillour, some old tequests. Waiter le Talliour, for instance, in 1805, according to the will recorded in the city of London court of husting left "to Richard, his son, the reversion of a tenement held by Richard le Bakere for life, receiving yearly imme-diately after the testator's death a rent of half a mark and weekly a penny tart in respect of the said tenement." He also left fourpence to London bridge. There is, however, a spirit of geniality about this will which is very different from that of the man who left his son-in-law "one penny to buy him a whistle."

penny to buy him a whistle."

The single shilling has of course been left in a large number of cases, but we do not often hear of a receipt being given for the money. Yet in 1699 Richard Harrington of Guilded Morden, in Cambridgeshire, left his daughter, Mary Martin, and her husband a shilling each, and his executrix paid it and got the receipt, still in existence, dated. March 17, 1709. There was a man who in 1791 left his wife a shilling to be paid to her within six months after. to be paid to her within six months after his death, and as his reason for doing so remarked. "Seeing that I have had the misfortune to be married to the aforesald Slizabeth, who ever since our union has ormented me in every possible way."

A good many single shillings have been left as a cheap advertisement with the object of keeping the testator's name alive much in the style of the man at Wath who left, among other et ceteras, a shil-ling to every poor woman in the parish, a guines to seven navvies for "puddling him up in his grave," a guinea to the old woman who had "tucked him up in his bed" and "40 dozen penny loaves to be thrown from the church roof at noon ev-ery Christmas day forever," Of this kind of thing there are many examples, but most of the shillings, sixpences, pennies and penny buns have to be displayed in all their glory on the testator's tombstone.

One man leaves his money to his son on condition that he shave off his mus-ache;" another leaves his to his nephews "on condition that they rise at a o'clock in the suramer and 5 o'clock in the win-ter," another leaves his to a friend "on condition that he always wears black;" another that the fortunate man should wear a mourning ring. There was John Rood, who left his head to be prepared so as to be used as the skull of Yorick in so as to be used as the skull of Yorick in the play of 'Hamlet' by Shakespeara,'' having evidentify felt the theoremismes of not inving an article of the kind in stock. Remarkable Scene in New York's Democratic Convention,

HILL NAMED BY ACCLAMATION.

Despite Repeated Declinations, the Son ator is Placed at the Head of the Ticket Lockwood for Lieutenant Governor and Gaynor for Court of Appeals.

SABATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 27.—A scene such as no delegate at the state Demo-cratic convention which closed yesterday ver witnessed before, and which is with out parallel in the history of conventions except perhaps that in 1876, when Sey mour was nominated by acclamation against the wishes of the majority of the delegates, took place in the Casino rink yesterday, when all mentioned candidates were forgotten and the advent of David were forgotten and the advent of David B. Hill's name caused a stampede in his favor. Fifteen hundred people stood upon their feet yelling themselves hourse, two bands of music tried to drown the tu-mult, and Senator David B. Hill pounded violently but in firstually with his gavel in an attempt to restore order.

It was a scene of disorder, but of enthusiasm, that will probably not be witnessed in a decade. It was the strange situation of a presiding officer of a convention, evidently against his expressed desires, being forced to accept a manimous nomination when other candidates had been appropriated and appropriate accept a manimum or accept and accept a manimum or accept and accept a manifest being the convention of the convention had been presented and apparently ac-cepted by the delegates. While the scene was a remarkable one, it was not an al-tegether unexpected one. The Associated Press dispatches of the past few days inve indicated that there was every prob ability that the convention would be stam peded for David B. Hill.

Mr. Hitt had fluished his speech nomi natingJohnBoyd Thacher, and had been re ceived with enthusiasm. Delegates looked at one another and expected the nomination would be made by acclamation. Ever Senator Hill himself, with the gavel in hand, had ordered the roll to be called and breathed a sigh of relief, evidently believing the crisis had passed. But slight built man from Allegany county who had never been known in the cou-cils of the party, threw a firebrand whic created a sensation almost beyond belief When the county was reached Delegat Reynolds arose and amidst the inten-

Delegates jumped upon the chairs, spectators crowded into the aisles, hats were thrown heavenward ance with ribbons waved wildly and me. guiled themselves hoarse in the cheer after cheer that almost rent the frail building in twaln. Senator Hill grew pale with emotion, but in an almost faint hope that he would be able to stem the tide pounded vigorously with the gavel and cried for order. The secretaries left their desks, and jumping upon chairs also cheered with the multitude. Bourke Cockran John R. Fellows, Mayor Gilroy, Thomas F. Graty and other leaders jumped upon the press tables and urged on the applause. The only persons in the hall who were scated were those few members of the press who, during the chaos, were en deavoring to complete their stories. Fi ually, from sheer exhaustion, the vast allow Senator Hill's voice to be heard, and in a husky voice he said: I am grateful to the Democracy of the Empire state for their courtesy and kind-ness and support in the past, but I must say to you that I cannot be your caudi-

There were cries of "No, no," and "You're the only one" from the delegates, and the applause was renewed. But in the intervals Senator Hill managed to insix that the roll of delegates should be

"We have been sent here to perform the most important duty in behalf of the Demo cratic party that has ever been performed in the state. It is incumbent upon us to select the man who in the largest measure represents the hopes, the expectations, the principles of the Democratic party, and who can best meet the needs of the pres who can best meet the lectus of the pres-ent hour. There is one man in the state of New York, Mr. Chairman, whose name is upon the lips of every live Democrat of the state. He has never failed the De-mocracy, and in its laster of need he cannot fall it now. He has led us to countle victories under adverse circumstances it the past, and he will and must lead us now. In the councils of the nation he has had added lustre to the name of the Em pure state, and in the heroic buttle Democratic principles which he wielded alds by side with our Democratic presi-dent he has won thousands and thousands of friends among those who were formerly

I present the name of that greatest living exponenof Democratic principles, Senator David B. Hill."

Mr. Guy had barely finished when the same scene that occurred when Hill's name was first mentioned was repeated. The delegates pushed down the aisles to ward the front and threatened to invade the stage. Senator Hill said, out of the

"All in favor of the nomination of David B. Hill will say aye."

There was a perfect howl from five hundred throats.

"Contrary, no," shouted Cockran, and there was not a voice. Turning to Senator Hill he said: "Now, Senator, we summon you to your duty."

Again the delegates went wild with excitement, and for five minutes there was great disorder.

Senator Cantor jumped to his feet and said: "All in favor of Senator Hill's nomination by acclamation will say aye." Another shout and more disorder followed. Senator Hill kept insisting upon order, and the roll call of assembly district was beginned. assembly districts was begun. Mr. Hitt, on behalf of the Albany county delegation, withdrew Mr. Thacher's name, and there was pandemonium once more. The leaders restored quiet, and the roll call proceeded. Each county named David B. Hill, and Clerk Defreest, amid great confusion, said: "David B. Hill has re-reved 383 votes, all that were cast."

Delegates rushed for the stage and shouted for recess so as to forbid Senator Hill from refusing. The leaders, however, opposed adjournment on the very same ground, and finally the convention went on with its work.

Lieutenant Governor Sheenan then arose and in a brief eulogium nominated Hon, Daniel M. Lockwood, of Buffale, for the office of lieutenant governor. The nomination was made by acclamation amid great applause. Mr. James D. Bell, of Brooklyn, named Judge Gaynor for judge of the court of appeals, and the convention nominated him by acclamation. The usual resolutions were adopted. The usual resolutions were adopted.

The motion to adjourn was carried, Senator Hill saying: "The convention that is running itself wants to adjourn. I declare it adjourned."

Hon. Daniel N. Lockwood, the candidates for governor and lieutemant governor, respectively, were seronaded last night at the Kenmore hotel, when they came from Saratoga, by the Albany Democratic club. "Fellow Democrats and Gentleman of the Albany Phalanx: For this gracious reception and the compliment of this ser-enade I tender you my sincere thanks. Unwilling as I was to receive the hono which the convention, in spite of my pro test, has sought to confer upon me, I am deeply touched by the unusual manifesta tion of confidence and esteem which accompanied the action of the convention and tonight I can only express in feeble language a small part of the gratitude which I feel towards the Democracy of

This interview was at once telegraphed to Saratoga, and when the delegates as-sembled at 1:50 p. m. they knew that Mr. Whitney was not to be mentioned.

The President "Out of Politics."

Buzzand's Bay, Mass., Sept. 27.—An Associated Press reporter called President Cleveland's attention to the nomination of Senator Hill at the Saratoga conven-tion last evening. It was the first infor-mation he had had of the result, and when asked for an opinion said, "I am out of politics now." The face of the chief executive was a study, but by no word of mouth could be be induced to ex press his satisfaction or regret at the ac tion of the Democratic convention.

The Valu Engagement.

SHANGHAL Sept. 27.—Captain Fong Blquen has been executed for cowardice. The cruiser Kwang Kai stranded on a reef near Tallen bay while trying to escape during the progress of the naval battle off the Yalu. She was afterwards blown up by the Japanese. This makes a total Chinese loss to the battle of five ships, incinding one which was accidentally ram med by the Chinese battleship Tai Yusu while the latter was endeavoring to ram a yessel of the enemy's fleet. The loss of in the Yalu engagement is confirmed.
