No household should be without a complete set of these marvelous productions.

While in Chicago, Mr. Charles L. Kahler, a prominent shoe merchant of Des Moines, Iowa, had quite a serious time of it. He took such a severe cold that he could hardly talk or navigate, but the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured him of his cold so quickly that others at the hotel who had bad colds followed his example and half a dozen persons ordered it from the nearest drug store. They were profuse in their thanks to Mr. Kahler for telling them how to cure a bad cold so quickly. For sale by Grubler Bros.

Work on the electric road in town has at last been started. A force of men are at work putting up poles. They commenced at Curry's Hotel and are working toward Mt. Carmel. It is said by employees of the company that we will have cars running to town by the middle of November. This is good news and is received with joy by all our townspeople.

At eight o'clock yesterday morning large crowds of people hurried toward St. Ignace's church. Their object was to witness a wedding ceremony, the happy pair this time being Michael Horan and Miss Kate Kealey, both well-known and highly respected young people of town. They were married by Rev. M. Power. Miss Mary Kealey, a sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid, and Stephen Horan, of Girardville, the groomsmen. The bride wore a lovely Bengaline dress of cream color, with gloves and slippers to match. The bridesmaid was attired in a dress of pink silk and wore gloves and slippers similar to the bride's. Both wore lovely Gainsboro hats. The groom and best man were conventionally attired. Annie and Lizzie Kenley, sisters of the bride, were the flower girls. It was a lovely scene as the bridal party glided noiselessly along the aisles of the church to the time of a beautiful wedding march, rendered by Prof. Strickland. After the ceremony the happy couple and their friends proceeded to the home of the bride, on Main street, where dinner was served. They left on the 12:15 train for Philadelphia, where they will spend a few days. The guests passed the day at the house in all sorts of amusements and returned home with the fall of day, loud in praises of the good time and wishing Mr. and Mrs. Horan joy and success.

Pittails. The species of wild ducks known as pittails have a peculiar habit, during the mating season, of descending from a great altitude at an angle of about 45 degrees, with the wings stiffly outspread and slightly curved downward. The bird is frequently so high that the noise produced by its passage through the air is heard for several seconds before the bird comes into sight. It descends like a meteor till within a few feet of the ground, when a slight change in the position of the wings sends the bird gliding away close to the ground several hundred yards without a strain of the wings. The sound produced by this swift passage through the air can only be compared to the rushing of the wind through tree tops. As first it is then murmur. Then it rises to a hiss, and as the bird spreads by it is almost a roar.—St Louis Globe-Democrat.
