What Reporters Hear on the Streets and Other Places.

BASE BALLISTS PINCHED!

Heroes of the Summer Days Bemoan the Financial Depression and go Home on Subscription.

Half a dozen disgruntled base ball players went about the town last night bemoaning the uncertainties of life, especially base ball life. They complained bitterly of the treatment the Shenandoah management had given them. Ashenbach, the center fielder, was especially loud in his complaint and claimed that when the management called him into the office for final settlement yesterday he received but six out of thirty-five dollars balance due, and how he would get back to Ohio he couldn't tell. "Pinky little Toman stood by when 'Ashy' told his tale of woe and promptly volunteered, 'Never mind, Ashy, I only got five dollars out of what was coming to me, but I can get home to Phillie on that. Setley and me went around with the basket last year to help keep some of the good players here, and I will go around with the hat this year to help get you home.' And he kept his word. Last night the hat went around with excellent result and this morning Ashenbach went home with the rest of the boys on the 6 o'clock Pennsylvania train. Welkert was in about as bad a box as any of them. His home is in St. Louis and he had a surplus of thirty cents after buying his railroad ticket. "Never mind, 'Welk,'" said Ashenbach to the St. Louis lad, "hold on to your ticket, trust in God and remember Shenandoah." Messitt also had a bitter complaint, but the indebtedness of the club to him was not as much as to some of the others. It is announced that Messitt and one of our town young ladies will be united in marriage in the near future.

The approach to the electric railway bridge on East Oak street, at Plum alley, has been completely transformed in appearance. The old, uneven road has been filled up and graded, and the earth used for that purpose has been covered with broken stone. It is said that the rents of the houses immediately in the vicinity of that part of Oak street have advanced fifty cents per month and one enterprising man has opened a barber shop in one of the buildings.

The sweeping attack against Sabbath transgressions in Rev. Powiek's sermon in the Methodist Episcopal church, on Sunday last, has since been the subject of much discussion. It is true that the Sabbath is ignored to a great extent in the town and that if the authorities did their duty there would be less complaint about transgressions. There are many, however, who are inclined to think that in extending the attack to the operation of electric and steam railway cars the reverend gentleman was somewhat radical. The writer remembers well when one Sunday the authorities of a city were induced to stop the operation of express and milk routes in a city. The regulation came as a thunder clap, but its effect was only temporary. The people seemed to rise as in a body in protest and injunction suits became as thick as mushrooms in a thriving bed, and from that day to this the old law thus revived has remained a dead letter. Shenandoah could get along without its express wagons and milk wagons; in fact, it is very seldom they are seen on the streets of the town on Sundays, but it is doubtful if in these days it could get along without either the electric or steam cars. Of course, the location and advancement of a place must be taken into consideration in such matters. For instance, the blue laws could be enforced in Ringtown with much less inconvenience to the people than they could in Shenandoah, Mahanoy City, or Pottsville. It may be argued that in years past the people got along without either electric or steam railway cars on Sunday; but it is also true that in years past the worshippers got along immensely with a church costing only a few hundred dollars, but now a church that doesn't cost several thousands runs a risk of escaping recognition.

COLLIERY ON FIRE.

A Mine Lamp Exploded—Four Men Were Entombed.

Mine Inspector Stein was summoned to Shamokin this morning to consult with mine officials on the best method by which to fight a fire which has started in the Lake Elder colliery. The exact nature or extent of the fire is not known, as the message gave no particulars. A dispatch received this afternoon stated that the fire was caused by the explosion of a lamp. A resulting party found the dead body of Irwin Bullington, one of the victims. George Brown, — Zierze, Anthony Ober and Michael Duzotakie are still entombed.

A Bottling War.

It would not be surprising if a war should be precipitated between the bottlers and the brewing company of the town. It is said the latter has put in an improved plant to embark in the bottling business and that when it does so the old bottlers will be forced to compete. The bottlers had a small war on hand some time ago when another brewery started in the business and they came out victorious by getting beer down to six dollars a barrel.

The residence of Miles White, a farmer residing in the Catawissa Valley and about three miles from this town, was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon with all the household effects. FORMING FOR THE FRAY.

Daniel H. Hastings Club Organized Last Night.

THE OFFICERS ELECTED!

A Committee Has Been Appointed to Arrange for Parades and Meetings to Make the Campaign Lively.

In response to a call for the members of the old Don Cameron Club and all other Republicans who wished to enrol themselves in an organization for campaign work this fall, a number of Republicans appeared at Robbins' hall, corner of Main and Oak streets, last night.
The meeting was called to order by Mr. B. J. Yost, who was president of the old Cameron Club, and several addresses were made in favor of an organization and an aggressive campaign for the whole Republican ticket. Among the speakers were Alex. Strouse, the humorous politician of the Third ward, who told how a speech by Hon. C. N. Brumm had won him over from Democracy.
Addresses were made by Mr. Yost, Hon. M. P. Fowler, Joseph Wyatt, Republican candidate for the Legislature, and P. W. Bierstein, the energetic young Lithuanian Republican of town.
It was decided to call the organization the Daniel H. Hastings Club, and the following officers were elected: President, William Neiswender; Vice President, David Henne; Secretaries, H. E. Dengler and R. D. Reese.
A committee of fifteen was appointed to make arrangements for meetings, parades, etc., during the campaign, and the club will hold a regular meeting every Monday evening.

RALLY AT GIRARDVILLE.

The Palace Theatre. Crowded by Enthusiastic Republicans Last Night.
The Republicans of Girardville opened the campaign last night by holding a grand rally in the Palace Theatre. It was presided by a street parade headed by the Girardville Cornet Band. John Davis was chairman of the meeting and introduced Hon. Elias Davis as the first speaker. Hon. J. J. Coyle and Hon. C. N. Brumm also spoke. The latter made a speech in which he denounced the tariff juggling by the Democratic party in a manner that evoked frequent outbursts of cheers. County Chairman Payne and Alex. Scott were among the other prominent Republicans in attendance at the meeting.

Pension Granted.
John Grady, of Yatesville, was yesterday granted a pension by the department at Washington. This is another of the successful claims which Justice Shoemaker has been handling.

Hazen's Story.

Before being taken to Pottsville yesterday afternoon Louis Hazen, the youthful burglar who was recaptured after his escape from the lockup by Constable Boland, made a clean breast of everything in connection with the burglary at Coffee's store last Friday morning. He states that the job was first concocted by himself, Thomas Cannon, alias "The Gun," and Nick Preston, but at the last moment Preston backed out and John Shrader was taken into the arrangement. That Cannon and Shrader forced open the transom of the store door. Hazen was then lifted to the opening and after dropping into the store he opened the door and left the other two in. Hazen also says that the goods he stole were those found in a trunk in a West Coal street house, and the goods Cannon stole were those found in the stable at the rear of the same house. Cannon did not want to take the goods to his house because, he said, he would in all probability be arrested on suspicion and a search warrant might lead to a discovery of the stolen property. A quantity of jewelry was stolen at the time, but Hazen says he knows nothing of it. He saw Shrader take a ring, and if there is any jewelry missing Shrader must know where it is. Hazen's confession is important, in that it confirms Shrader's story of the robbery as against Cannon's plea of innocence and the attempt of the latter's mother to prove an alibi.
