Republican State Ticket.

- For Governor, GENL. DANIEL H. HASTINGS, Centre county. For Lieutenant-Governor, WALTER LYON, Allegheny county. For Auditor-General, AMOS H. MYLIN, Lancaster county. For Secretary Internal Affairs, JAMES W. LATTI, Philadelphia county. For Congressmen-at-Large, GALCERIA A. O'ROU, Susquehanna county, GEORGE F. HUFF, Westmoreland county. County Ticket. For Congress, CHARLES N. DRUMM, Of Milesville. For Senator, 30th District, JOHN J. GOYLE, Of McLanahan City. For Representative, 1st District, JOSEPH WYATT, Of Shenandoah. For Sheriff, ALEXANDER SCOTT, Of Frackville. For Director of the Poor, RICH DETHICK, Of Wayne Township. For Jury Commissioner, THOMAS J. RICHARDS, Of Kelly Township.

It will not take much to break the Solid South. It is working its own salvation.

Our next representative to the Legislature, Joe Wyatt, will have a handsome majority.

ALEX. SCOTT is making an aggressive campaign. The next Sheriff has no trouble in making friends.

The Democrats in New York are so badly partitioned that even Hill, the "only" Democrat, cannot rally them to make any kind of a fight.

ELECT Neri Dietrick Poor Director and there will be a general cleaning out of the Almshouse and a saving of many thousands of dollars to the taxpayers.

In Russia the cholera continues to spread with increasing virulence, and there seems much danger that it may complete its progress as usual by visiting all the European countries, and even menacing our own. It is most to be dreaded among communities where the condition of sanitation is defective, and as Russia is behind all the European countries in this respect, it is not surprising that the Eastern plague, in its recurrent Western progress, always visits her with severity. The disease has its root in uncleanly social and communal and personal conditions, and where those prevail its spread is always most rapid, and its attacks upon the individuals attacked most dangerous.

CANT BE FOOLED. Business as seen through political spectacles differs materially from the business which is seen by the men who earn wages and the men who have bills to pay.

The political spectacles furnished by the tariff reform show have the interesting power of imparting a rosate hue to all things. They also possess magnifying power for certain facts, but curiously enough, they reduce other facts in size, as if they were seen through the wrong end of a telescope.

The wearer of these spectacles can see with ease at a distance of a thousand miles the resumption of work by a factory employing half a dozen hands, with an aggregate payroll of $100 a week, but is quite unable to detect the stoppage of a concern employing several thousand hands or the reduction of 30 per cent. in wages paid by a concern whose payroll is $25,000 a week.

It has not been established as yet that these spectacles will increase the balance in the pocket of any wage earner at the end of the week, or the bank account of any merchant, though such results are earnestly desired.

It is a fine thing to be able to see a boom of prosperity rising, and glowing, and all the while rising, and some good men have been watching that brilliant spectacle ever since Congress passed the Silver bill last year. They privately state that they have not made very much money personally meanwhile, perhaps because they have been doing business on an economy basis, caring only to record large transactions with no regard to profits. But most men are not satisfied to face the unavoidable risks of business unless they can make something, and fall to enjoy an occasion which yields the maximum of hazard with the minimum of gain. That business done on such narrow margins and at such prices as now prevail is extra hazardous, and not extra profitable, every man in business knows. It may also be set down as a solid fact that the average workman does not prefer wages which leave the narrowest possible margin between him and starvation. If he used to be saving a tenth of his earnings, and his wages have been cut down a fifth, he does not consider that to be prosperity, and all the tariff reform editorials ever written will not satisfy him that it is.

The plain people, whose sturdy common sense governs their votes and also their interpretation of the votes cast by others, see that the change of tariff is the one cause which operates in all the Northern states that have voted this year. Oregon and Maine, Vermont, Rhode Island and Connecticut have nothing directly to do with Democratic crimes in New York or New Jersey, and they differ widely from each other in political, local and industrial conditions. But in one thing they are all alike, for they have all felt the blighting influence upon their industries by the Democratic "change." In each of these states many thousand men have been out of employment for the greater part of the last year. In each of these states the great body of workmen have been compelled to submit to a material reduction of their wages. The dissatisfaction of these working people, who attribute their losses to the Democratic change of National policy, is the one obvious cause of a revolution in their politics. Common sense at once infers that the cause which effects all the states alike is the cause that has brought about unprecedented Democratic loss in all the states.

EXTENSIVE PENSION FRAUDS.

Agent Van Luen Had a Regular Trade in Disability Affidavits. DEPENDENT, in Oct. 10-Special Examiner E. P. Wade, of the pension bureau, in obedience to the order of Judge Shires, in the federal court, has filed the documents captured in the famous tin box in Pension Agent George H. Van Luen's private office at Little Springs, Pa. These documents are mostly in the form of correspondence, intermingling upon its face, between Van Luen and certain boards of medical examiners, with whom he had relations. Nearly all of the numerous affidavits found against the pension attorney are based upon these letters.

Some of the documents show that affidavits as to physical disability were brought from physicians at an average rate of about fifty cents a line. One letter makes an offer to a physician at Elmira, N. Y., to pay $5 for an affidavit covering diseases of the stomach, deafness and heart disease. The doctor sent the affidavit, but demanded $10 for it. This physician, whose name is not revealed, has since testified that he has made a large number of affidavits, and that his price ranged from $5 to $10.

Affidavits were made to cover nearly all the diseases known, and in order to get the applicants before examining boards with whom he was friendly printed forms were used for affidavits, and the claimants were asked to copy these in their own handwriting. Many did so, not realizing what they were doing. The filing of the papers is a surprise to the defense, which did not want them made public, its idea being simply to get access to them.

Three More Mine Victims. SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 16.-An explosion occurred in New Castle mine yesterday afternoon. One man was killed and two fatally injured.

A Bloody Hot Moment. ATLANTA, Oct. 16.-Judge Chambers, a white Democrat, and Edith James Wagner, a white Republican, in early morning in a quarrel over a stationery bill, both passionately abused. Chambers is in jail, and Wagner threatened to take him out of jail and shoot him.

Princeton Versus Pennsylvania. PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 16.-The Princeton management have agreed to play the Princeton-Pennsylvania football game at Trenton on Nov. 10. The management have not yet signed the agreement, but they state that in all probability the two teams will meet on that day.

Spirit in the Spanish Cabinet. MADRID, Oct. 16.-Serious differences have arisen in the cabinet regarding the reforms proposed to be put into effect in Cuba and Porto Rico. The minister of the colonies, as a consequence, announces that he will surrender his portfolio.

DISSIPATION KILLS.

Too Much Pleasure the Tendency of the Day.

We Exert Ourselves in Many Ways More Than We Ought.

A Valuable Rule Which It Will Pay You to Follow.

There never was a time when diseases were so common as now. And we bring them on ourselves by careless living. The system cannot stand everything, and it will surely rebel in time. One of the most common ailments is rheumatism. It indicates bad blood and low vitality. It may be caused by exposure, dissipation, or overwork. It is a dangerous complaint to neglect as it often involves other organs, especially the heart. There is a way to be cured of it and all nervous and chronic diseases and it never fails to cure. Here is a letter giving positive proof of it. Mr. M. J. Fraull, a well-known man of Waterbury, Vt., writes as follows:

"About three years ago I was attacked by severe rheumatism. It was so bad that when it took hold of me it made me drop down in my tracks, and would cause me most intense suffering. Whenever I was attacked by it I was confined to the house. "I was fearfully worried over my condition and began to think I should never recover. I consulted eminent doctors, but got no permanent benefit from them. I saw Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy advertised, and concluded to try it as I knew it was highly recommended.

MR. M. J. FRAULL.

"I am happy to say that since using his medicine I have had no return of my disease. The pain has all left me and I am entirely cured of all my troubles. That was over a year ago. I was cured and have had no return since. Thanks to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I am well and strong. It is a splendid medicine for its cure disease, and I heartily recommend it to everybody. "Please publish this record of my wonderful cure, for the good of others. I believe they can all be cured as I have been by this remedy. It is the best medicine I have ever seen."

Here is the most certain and positive cure for disease known. It is acknowledged so by all who have taken it, and why? Because it always cures them. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is purely vegetable and harmless, and is the discovery of Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th street, New York City. He is the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, and can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

THE NEW YORK BOLTERS.

They Nominate Everett P. Wheeler to Oppose Senator Hill.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.-A third state ticket has been put in the field by the Standard Democracy of Kings county, and it is expected that it will be endorsed by the Independent Democrats throughout the state.

The ticket presents as the candidate of the anti-Hill Democracy for governor Everett P. Wheeler of New York city, and indorses the candidacy of the regular Democratic nominees for lieutenant governor and judge of the court of appeals-Daniel N. Lockwood and Charles Frank Brown.

After having decided upon its candidates, Mr. Shepard's committee proceeded to nominate Hon. Charles S. Fairchild for chairman of the campaign committee.

As the Shepards are said to have received assurances that their nominee for governor will accept all that remains to be done to make the ticket the regular choice of the third party is to secure the signatures of 3,000 persons as indorses of the candidates and to file these with the secretary of state on or before Oct. 15. On this showing the secretary of state will issue the order for the printing of the third party ballot.

Everett P. Wheeler is about 60 years of age, and a lawyer in this city. He is the senior member of the firm of Wheeler, Curtis & Goshkin, with offices in this city. He was chairman of the New York Civil Service Reform association, and was a member of the New York Board of education from 1880 to 1887. He was one of the original founders of the old County Democratic organization, helped organize the New York state Democracy, and is a member of the present committee of seventy. For five years he was the president of the New York Free Trade club.

Bloody Arkansas Tragedy.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., Oct. 16.-Another bloody tragedy was enacted at Texarkana yesterday afternoon, when Dick Johnson, a gambler, struck a double barrel shot-gun into the face of C. E. Dixon, and blew his head literally off, scattering his brains on the pavement. Dixon threatened to kill Johnson in case he failed to procure a certain letter by 6 o'clock, and took up a position in front of a saloon. A few minutes later Johnson emerged from the resort armed with a shotgun, and without warning, raised the weapon and fired.

Plimmer to Fight Kelley.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.-Martin Dowling, backer of Billy Plimmer, the bantam champion, yesterday put up a deposit of $500 to bind the match with Charley Kelley, who recently challenged the English lad. Plimmer will fight Kelley for $1,500 to $5,000 a side, and is not particular whether the contest is a limited round affair or to a finish. It is understood that one of the Coney Island clubs has made a bid for the fight.

HERE'S A NOTION.

A Secretly Flawless Plan to Make Hard Exercise Delightful.

"There is a lot of talk going around these days about the best way to take exercise," he said, "and most of the suggestions smack of hard work. This business of getting up in the morning and pushing dumbbells or swinging Indian clubs is all well enough for energetic men, but it doesn't suit me. My physician advised me to reduce my weight by exercise, and I tried the Indian club business. Probably it did me good, but it unbalanced my mind for the rest of the day, and it was torture. I had to make so many swings with the Indian clubs and so many punches with the balls before breakfast. The prospect of this exercise disturbed my rest at night, and the memory of it interfered with my work by day. On the whole, it did me more harm than good.

"Now, I have an idea that I think is a good one. I fell in behind a band that was leading a procession the other day. I don't like to walk, but I do like the music of a brass band when it doesn't attempt anything unusual. This band was playing a march. It was a vigorous, lifting sort of a march, with the clang of the basses to bring out the time. I followed, and I walked, in time to the music and enjoyed every moment of it. When the procession reached the boat and the band stopped playing, I found that I was tired. I had walked nearly three miles.

"That was good exercise, and I didn't realize that I was taking exercise. Now, there are lots of men in this town who need exercise, and who don't like to walk. They do like the music of a good brass band. Now, why not form a walking club and hire a band for it? Do you catch the idea? It's great, isn't it? And it's new. If 50 men would subscribe for such a club, the dues wouldn't be heavy. Form the procession up town, you know, and pick up the different members of the club and walk them down town every morning to their places of business. Liberty Bell, Washington Post, 'Rolling Stone,' and all that, you know. It's great! I think it will pay to run-tum-tum-to-tum-tum-tum-tum. I'm going to see some friends about it and find out the cost of a band. Exercise Made Easy club! How's that?"-New York Sun.

SHELLED BY THE ENEMY.

A Presentation of Death and a Moment of Supreme Peril.

"During the war," said Judge Morrow of the United States district court, "I was sent by the war department at Washington to accompany Army Paymaster Sabin from City Point to the Yellow House, where General Warren's command was entrenched. The Confederates had been shelling the railroad line for several days, but had suddenly ceased. Paymaster Sabin, myself and a detachment of infantry took a locomotive and car and started for Yellow House. There was an open place along the railroad where we knew the Confederate batteries would have fair play at us. We all dreaded the moment when we should run through the cuts and hills and reach it, for we were in no position to fight, our only intention when we started being to make a run for it and get through if we could.

"Just before we reached the open Paymaster Sabin gave me his watch, money and papers, saying he felt he was going to be killed. We were both in the cab of the engine, but I had no presentiment of that sort, and told him so. I had hardly uttered the words when the train reached the open line, and the Confederates opened fire. The shells flew thick and fast and kept hitting closer and closer to us as we fairly flew along. A shell struck the cab of the engine and exploded. The engine tore along, the smoke blew away, and we found that we had been carried out of range. Strange as it may seem, not a man in the cab was even bruised, although the cab itself was torn to pieces. How we escaped death I do not know, but the grim messenger passed us by. It was a narrow escape for all of us, a moment of supreme peril."-San Francisco Chronicle.

Not So Bad a Shot.

Rulers have always been flattered, from Canute's time downward, it being, it would seem, an unwritten law that monarch's weak points should pass unmentioned. Napoleon III once said, in consulting a friend who chanced to be shooting with him for his poor marksmanship: "You need not fret about it. The emperor by which he meant his uncle, the great Napoleon I, was even a worse shot than you are. The only time they put a gun in his hand he killed a poor hound and went away thinking he had killed a stag.

"In those days the stag, wherever brought in by, was left for the emperor to kill. One day, however, the emperor was not to be found, and the master of the staghounds finished the animal with his rifle. Just then the emperor came in sight.

"They hurriedly got the dead stag on its legs, cropping it up with branches, etc., and handed the emperor the carabine of honor, as it was called. The emperor fired, and of course the stag tumbled over, but at the same time there was a pitious whine from one of the hounds, which had been shot through the head.

"The emperor wheeled round, unconsciously of the mischief he had done, saying to one of his aids-de-camp, 'After all, I am not as bad a shot as they pretend!'"-Youth's Companion.

Some Wonders of Seed Vitality.

In the gardens adjoining the buildings of the London Horticultural society are three raspberry canes which have a most wonderful history. They were grown from seeds found in the stomach of a man who had been found at a depth of 30 feet in one of the many "barrows," or old time burial mounds, in North Britain. From data furnished by the coins found with the skeleton, it is believed that the berries which furnished these seeds were eaten not less than 1,700 and probably 2,000 years ago.

The Gardeners' Chronicle for 1848, page 700, gives an account of several varieties of seeds which were found in a Roman tomb, where they had lain from 1,500 to 2,000 years, which burst into life and vigorous growth as soon as they were transferred to the warm, damp soil.-St. Louis Republic.

Love's Test.

"I don't believe Jack loves me as well as he ought to."

Bertha-Has he been neglecting you, dear?"

"Oh, dear, no. He refuses to break our engagement when he knows I could marry Mr. de Million if he would."-Chicago Inter Ocean.

"In science, as in common life, we frequently see that a novelty in system or in practice cannot be appreciated until time has subdued the enthusiasm of its advocates."-Maud.
