GENERAL HASTINGS IS SO confident of election he has not lost a momeur's sleep since the campaign opened.

So FAR the political campaign in this county has been of a tame and listless kind. Stir 'em up, Chairmán Payne.

RAFFLING for turkeys and chickens has commenced again. This is one of the kinds of gambling which plays havon with the rising generation.

The voting on tax receipts on which the ink is hardly dry is one of the election iniquities which should receive the attention of the next Legislature.

THE striking New England operatives are going back to work on a compromise What is the use in standing out for their demands while this Democratic time lasts?

diet Arnolds in the Republican party, because they won't vote for certain candidates. We are glad to hear there are only a few.

THE sugar producers are blocked in their effort to get their bounty through the courts. That ought to help on the planters' movement toward the Republican party where alone prosperity is to be had-

Turns is considerable grambling among many of the election officers over the amount of work they must do for a pittance. The next Legislature will no. doubt amend the election laws to make them meet the requirements of the age;

OFFICERS in the War Department at Washington, with amused faces, are sticking pins in the maps at the places where troops are said to have been landed In the Chinese war and where hostilities are said to be going on. They find that Japan, with a standing army of 40,000 men and a reserve of a little over 100,000 more, has already placed in action more men than McClellan had on the Peninsula. One of the ports at which they are reported as having lately landed 45,000 men is on Russian soil.

Ir the President has ordered his officials to abstain from pernicious activity in the campaign, he is quite wise. His Ad min istration can escape much discredit if it refuses to be at all responsible for the conduct of the party this year. In New York a Democratic defeat of phenomenal proportions is threatened, and the best friends of the President himself are working to make Hill's election impossible If the President permits his Administra-tion to be identified with the Democratic machine there, he will only subject it to discredit without averting Democratic defeat. In New Jersey the Democrats are completly swamped with responsibility for all the infamles of the past years, and the Administration can only get diagrace for itself by trying to lift the party out of its mire. In Michigan the party is completely disorganized, candidates and members of the State Committee resign ing right and left. In other Western and the President on the eilver question has so angered the Populis's and the free silver voters that the active support of the Administration might hart more than it could help any canditate,

NEARLY all the Poles and Hungarians have left. Pottstown and many of them are bound for the West. Others found the low steerage rates an incentive for their return to the old country. Two thousand of these people were located at Pottatown, but now very few remain there. The papers of that place are con gratulating the citizens upon the departures, although they admit that many of the Poles made good cirizens. We have here many Poles who not only make good citizens, but pin their faith in the future of the town by investing their money in its real estate and places of business.

An uncontradicted ru mor is in circula tion, for which there seems unfortunately to be some foundation, that some of the gentlemen to whom the management of the Republican campaign has been intrusted are making the somewhat serious mistake of promoting, instead of assnaging, factional differences in the party. It hardly needs to be pointed out that this is not sound policy nor good sense. This is not a time for campaign managers to show favoritism to any faction of the party, when all are united in a common effort for success. The supreme endeavor should be to allay the animosities en gendered by recent differences, and solidify instead of dividing the party,

This more we read the opinions of British editors upon the advantages that will accrue to the British manufacturers from the passage of the Gorman Tariff bill, and how they regard it as merely the thin end of the Free-Trade wedge, so much the more important is it for every earnest American citizen to consider wherein is the benefit to the United States. If our Free-Trade is regarded with such satisfaction abroad it must be detrimental at home, and therefore should be stopped mmediately. It will be a good time to do this on November 6 next, and a careful reading of the English papers must prove the necessity for Protection to American

He Wouldn't Give Up His Foot.

"You would never think that I once had a hole clear through my ankle bone, would you?" asked a West Garland man who steps around as lively as any of them. "No? Well, that's what they all say. But it's a fact all the same. When I was in the army, I mer a bullet going in a different diarmy, I mer a halfed going in a differentidi-rection from what I was, and it declined to turn out to let me pass. It struck my-ankle fair on the side and bored its way similab through it. At the hospital the dectors in diesning it would draw a cleth-right through the ankle. They said the foot must be amputated, but I said no. They said I would die unless they cut it They said I would die unlass they cut it off, but I said I would die with my foot on my bedy, if at all. A farmer tells a story of his shooting I was very much troubled with these "I was very much troubled with these winged thieves (the birds), for they made terrible havoe among the corn. I put scarcerows up till I was tired, so I took my gun, loaded with powder and pollets, and you should have seen the quantity I brought down in one day. One morning my boy rushed indoors and yelled:

"Dad, hundreds of birds among the corn!"

"I took down my gun, put in the pow-der, but could not find the shot, so I thrust in a bandful of tacks, and off I ran. Get-ting to the corn. I yelled pretty hard, and up flow the birds jube a tree.
