BATTLESHIP MAINE A SUCCESS.

The Trial of Her Engines Proves Entirely Satisfactory.

New York, Oct. 18.—The official trial of the United States battleship Maine, which took place yesterday on Long Island sound, promises good results, as the ship passed through it very creditably and every one concerned has expressed himself satisfied with the workings of the engines and machinery.

Mr. N. F. Palmer, Jr., representing the contractors, was very anxious to have the trial take place out at sea in deep water, as the sound is too shallow, he said, for a fair test, and yesterday's run showed this very plainly, as she banked the water on each side of her instead of its going underneath. It is claimed that had the trial been made in twenty to thirty fathoms of water, instead of eight or ten, a much better horse power would have resulted.

As the ship was passing Race Point light-house the log showed that she was making eighteen knots an hour. When the twenty-five Erlanson's trial course was rounded a close watch was kept, and the Maine traversed the distance in one hour and thirty-four minutes, an average of 15.95 knots an hour. Taking into consideration the adverse wind and tide this is as good as seventeen knots, and the general verdict is that she will be an eighteen knot boat.

This not being a trial of speed, but one of development of horse power, the most interesting work took place below decks. Engineer-in-Chief G. W. Melville, was not very communicative after the trial, but he acknowledged that the engines had worked satisfactorily and there was no doubt that the horse power would reach, if not exceed, the requisite 9,000.

A policeman found the doors of the house open at 2 o'clock in the morning, and on searching the house found Allen O. Dutton, a brother of the owner, asleep in an upper room. Soon after Mr. and Mrs. Dutton returned from a party and the loss of the bonds was discovered.
