THIRDEDITION

THE STOCK MARKET.

This Morning's Operations Were of an Interesting Character.

The stock market report for to day given by Cooper & Co., Main and Centre streets will be of interest to our readers from the fact that their recent predictions are proving somewhat true as regards the Philadelphia & Reading road, Quite recently they made the statement that "h makes in the end no practical difference whether it gets a larger profit on less goal, a smaller profit on more coal. Controlling as it does 55 per cent. of coal, in there any reason why it should concede anything to its competitors, even in its present had condition I" It now appears that the Reading is going to not very independently of the other roads as regarding its mining coal as to-day, for the first time in a period of about two years, they are working.

During the recent depreciation of other coal stocks the Reading securities were searcely visibly affected. It is true this stock is exceedingly low, nevertheless, with all of its load of debt and general had condition, it seemed remarkable that it held strongly at about one figure with scarcely a fluctuation. On this morning' New York opening price Reading was quoted at 18%, a quarter lighter than last night's closing. Immediately following Jersey Central broke two dollars; D. & H. one dollar. This clearly demonstrates that something is working in the dark towards Reading's successful re organimation and that it will sometime in the mear future see more prosperous times, else with the repeated hammering of the other coal stocks Reading would have been very visibly affected in the disposition of its shares. From the fact of its working it collieries to-day for the first time in quite a period, as already stated, it very plainly appears the Reading road is not going to take water from its competitors in the present coal war, but will meet the issue squarely with only one intention. that of making the other coal roads sec ond in the disposition of their products.

The rest of the market was dull, with prices ranging about the same as quoted

THE WATER QUESTION.

Should Give Attention.

chall be again increased for the purpose of on-tructing public water works go before the people on Tuesday next without are times when the sentiments of a news and we helleve there are many minda in doubt as to the advisability of the pro osed increase. If space would permit everal columns could be filled with sound, ogical arguments against the increase We must be brief. There has not been an act on the part of the borough authorities in connection with the public water works that has created the slightest confidence in their ability to ultimately give the porough the works promised. On the con trary nearly every promise made by the promoters has been broken and every esimate upon which the promises were and having it printed to-night. are based stands before the public to day admittedly false. When the first request for an increase was made the official address in support of it set forth that "We present to you for your consideration our work in the past, the prospective work necessary for the COMPLETION of water works * * * and what amounts will be required to COM-PLETE the same." This declaration proved deception. The works were to have been COMPLETED for $93,000, there has already been expended upon them at least $116,C00, and yet $50,000 more is asked for What guarantee have the people that they will not be called upon for a third or fourth increase ? Some of the Counclimen say the works are about com pleted, but only on last Thursday night Councilman Gable announced at a meet-ing of the Borough Council that the breastwork at Davis' Run, which broke once and has only just been repaired, is leaking again. Further than this, not a length of pipe laid in the ground has been tested and the people in authority are as much in the dark as to whether the pipes are ready to receive water as anyone who has had nothing whatever to to with the project.

The water company has made a fair, business-like proposition to the people and if they are wise they will accept it. If the borough can to-day sell its plant to the water company at anywhere near what has actually been expended upon it. by all means let a sale be made. We have repeatedly predicted, and we say now, that the water works will always be a hot bed of political jobbery; a tool fushioned after the spoils system by which the question as to who shall be policeman or supervisor, always controls the elections of Councilmen in the bor ough.

Some people have asked what will be come of the work the borough has expended on the plant. The problem is by no means a difficult one. If the people should not vote down the proposed second increase of debt the work expended by the borough will be calculated, as it should be, as part of the actual cost of the plant as far as completed and form a part of the amount fixed as the purchase price, which the water company suggests be done by appraisement.

Another thing, we do not believe the people can legally vote to increase the borough debt at the election on Tuesday. The arrangements for the election provide that the voter shall vote for the increase of debt and his respective candidates for office by casting one ballot. Mark this! Judge Ewing last Wednesday handed down at Pittsburg a decision which sets at rest a question that has bothered a number of cities and borough of the state. In a suit brought by Millvale borough to determine whether or not a separate ballot should be used when a vote is taken on a proposed increase of in debtedness. Judge Ewing decided that a separate ballot must be used. He further decided that the county commissioners are v obligations to furnish bal
