Another "wealthy farmer" has been bunkeed out of a large amount of money $7,000, by the tin box game. He was an Ohio man at that. In the tin box his $7,000 contained vast treasure, he found only a letter advising him to be a little shrewder next time he was ready to bet. On the whole, we put it to any fair minded man, is it any wonder city people call ruralists jays and hayseeds? Come, now. When a farmer does not read newspapers enough to be up to the most transparent swindling game, what can be expect himself to be called?

Yot another story comes of a farmer who has been bunkeed out of $4,000. O ye farmers, how long shall we labor with you to convince you that the sleek tongued stranger who makes your acquaintance and seems to know you is to be shuuned like a rattlesnake or a patent machine peddler?
