SECRETARY CARLISLE Is still anxious "to relieve the Treasury," but he need not worry. The gold grabbers of Europe will do the business for him.

THE nitimate object of the Democratic currency tinkers is to drive the country back to the old system of state banks, under which the value of a note depended very largely upon its distance from the concern that issued it. Back of all the tinkering, arguing and theorizing of the currency quacks lies a determined and fil-concealed purpose to destroy the present National banking system and replace it with a scheme that will unbalance the existing safety and equality of the circutating medium and develop speculation in bank notes into a flourishing industry.

True establishment of a system of rudimentary instruction in Russia, prom-Ised by the new Czar, will be one of the most important educational procedures of the motern or any other period, and is a necessary probable to the complete civilination of that country. That and Parliamentary government will give them a long lift ahead, and perhaps mittigate some of the National and social discon tents which make the lives of Czars and other high personages so uncomfortable. Russia is far behind all the European countries in the matter of education as of civilization in general, and has a long road to travel before she overtakes them But her people are quick, ingenious and teachable, and there is no telling what destinies may await them when they are educated up to the Prusslan or United States standard. Instead of constituting, as now, a buffer between Europe and Asia, It may come to absorb both these great territorial divisions of the globe and look out upon the United States, its only rival, across both the Atlantic and the Pacific. Anything is possible to a land of such situation and resources. It is not kind in the President to threaten us with an extra session of Congress, un less his currency plans are adopted before March 4th. Aut there is consolation in the fact that if he calls an extra session, it will be a Republican Congress that will weet. Apparently the threat was intended to drive the present Congress into some action on revenue and currency bills. But members know right well that the President does not want a Republican Congress to act on these matters. His threats in truth, are the empthest and most foolish imaginable. The Democratic members to whom they are addressed are per feetly aware that he does not want to have sent to him for approval or veto pending in the United States, their hold such bills as a Republican Congress would freed standars, as well as their public on assuredly pass. Moreover, he does not desvers to disparage the importal government to have the Hawalian business investigated, or the Samean business, or who in reality compose the Armonian the Natural to be business or the Roberts. the Nisaragua husiness, or the Behring the Nisaragua husiness, or the Behring Bea husiness. Still less does he wan to have the Nava Scotla off dr investigated. Not the President is not hangry to have any Republican majority in Congress look. into things this year. What he professadly wants is provision for the revenue and the anticipated deficit. But the quick response of Democrats in both houses to private suggestions from the White House | hellion to be organized and propagated in appears to indicate that the President has an idea that his state bank scheme can be ity of the circumstances and of the justice forced through Congress at this session, and thorough equity of the plot which and his free coal and free iron ore bills as hold the honor to set forth in my note of well. He will find it slow work. Although States, with its well known sense of the members of the House and the Senate, partiality will now take it under imme who are particularly subservient to his, wishes, begin to talk and act as if they wanted to do something in these matters they are all well aware that they have no Wenver in which he says: "The Baltipower. On the tariff they cannot actourjuore currency scheme is a kold and barepower. On the tariff they cannot actounless in direction of smashing the Sugar faced proposition to apply the methods of the stock exchange, the trust and the board of trade combined to the entire basis unless the Democratic Congress sends to the President a free silver bill to be vetoed. His party may readily advocate his state banking plan, ingeniously devised to kill the National banks, but it will never get through the senate. The President knows only too well that nothing he really de stres will get passed in al Republican Con-

The Bailroad Pooling Bill Passes the House by a Decisive Vote, Washington, Dec. 12.—The struggle

over the bill to authorize railroad pooling was terminated yesterday by the passage of the bill by the decisive vote of 1654, 110. The Cooper substitute, which placed the entire control of the conditions of pooling In the hands of the interstate commerce commission and gave them absolute power in the matter of revoking pooling order was defeated, as were all subsequent a focts to amend and recommit it, and th bill passed as reported from the commit ter. Several attempts were made to defeat the bill by fillbustering, but they, to were unsuccessful. Mr Springer later duced in the house Secretary Carlisle' banking bill. It was ordered to be printed and referred to the committee on banking

The consideration of the Nicaragua canal bill was continued in the senate. Senator Dolph made a long speech in favor of the pending bill, in the course of which of the pending bill, in the course of which be advocated the abrogation of the Clay-ton-Bulwer treaty. The venerable senator from Vermont (Mr. Morrill) made some remarks in which he criticized the cur-rency inflation bills reported adversely from the finance committee. Sarah H. Smith, Pineville, Bucks county, Pa., says: "I was a great sufferer from rheumatism. I had the disease for over twenty-five years, and the torture I have undergone during the past quarter of a century no pen could describe. Every attack I had, my entire body was racked with pain, and I was in a terrible condition. I tried doctor after doctor and every remedy that could be suggested, but all with the same result. None of themever gave me the slightest relief. I had had the disease so long that it had become chronic when I began to use Munyon's Rheumatism Cure. It was not long before I felt a great deal better, and after using it a short time the rheumatism left me. I have not had a trace of it since, and am convinced that I am permanently cured."

BUILT 1,200 YEARS AGO.

A Wooden Building Which Has Been Treasure House For the Mikados, Japan possesses what is undoutbedly the oldest wooden structure in the world. It oldest wooden structure in the world. It contains the art treasures of the mikade and is situated at Nara, which for some years was the imperial residence. The building is oblong in shape and is built of triangular legs of wood. It rests on piles. The wood used is of native growth and shows extraordinary lasting power, considering the trying climate which it has had to endure for over 1,200 years. A peculiar feature about the logs of which the building is constructed is that in the parts building is constructed is that in the parts most exposed to the weather the loss in thinner by several inches than those in mere sheltered position, the wood having gradually worn away. The treasure which the storchouse contains are of greaantiquity and have only been seen by Eu-ropeans during the last three years. They consist of rare and beautiful fabrics of Persian, Indian, Chinese and Turkish manufacture and ancient articles of "vertu" from all parts of the world. Among the objects of interest is the earliest known specimen of Japanese printing. Even to iny many of the words are easily decipher able. The treasures have remained un disturbed in the same building for 1,200 years, and despite the troubleus times through which it has been in existence it has never been injured or disturbed. Many of the treasures are still packed up in the storehouse chamber underground, where they have lain for hundreds of years, and when they are brought to view some new light may be thrown upon the early history of the country. They may and probably will disclose much valuable information about the other Asiatic countries, because the collection is culled from all parts of Asia, and it is to treasures such as these that we are indebted for most of our knowledge of the early nations of the east.

CAN ANTS TALK!

Another Tribute to the Brain Power of These Remarkable Insects.

I was one day standing in my garden near the trunk of an old willow tree, up which a scattered line of ants was crawlling. After a time I observed an occasional struggler coming down in the opposite direction. Here and there a couple of anis, ascending and descending, chanced to meet, but there was no stoppage and no talk. Presently, at about five feet from the ground, I suscared a little bollow in the trunk with a large spoonful of thick trea-cie to see how long it would remain undis-covered. I then went away for a short time, and on my return found about a dozen anta buslly feasting on the treasure. A relaute or two later one of the feastrs erawled slowly down the trunk with heavy feet, and when near the ground met a friend, whom he suddenly arrested or his way up, and with his antennie, which he plied vigorously, held a good talk. What was said I know not, but the friend knew and thereupon marched steadily on up the tree to the newly found treasure.

Meanwhile the bearer of the good tidings made his own way quickly back to the nest a few yards off in the grass, to which I watched him. He was soon lost to view, but beyond all doubt soon spread the news of treasure trove throughout the colony. Within half an hour of that time a long unbroken line of hungry ants was marching direct to the tree, making straight for the feast, remaining there for a time and then returning to the nest in another line on the other side of the willow. This process of ascending and descending termites went on for some hours—in fact, until dusk—when the numbers of advancing guests grew less and less and finally consed. Before it was dark not a single ant was to be seen, though early the next morning a fresh band of adventurers set out in the same fashion, coming and going all day until every morsel of the sweet had disappeared.

Here, therefore, clearly some talk of the surprising dainty had taken place between the two ants meeting on the road to it, while things had been carried to the colony, which at once roused all the inmates to go forth direct to the fenst, possibly led by the very guide who had first discovered it. So much for the general intelligence which enlightens and guides the whole life and work of this wise nation of inects.—London Quiver.

Yawning as a Remedy.

Yawning, though contrary to the canons of good society, is admittedly very bene-ficial to the individual. Muscles are brought into play during a good yawr which otherwise would never obtain any exercise at all, and its value as a sort of natural massage is considerable. The muscles which move the lower law and first open used during the process of gap ing; then the tongue is rounded and arched, the pulste tightly stretched and the uvula raised. The eyes generally clos-tightly toward the termination of the tightly toward the termination of the yawn, the ears are raised slightly and the nostrils dilated. The crack sometimes heard in the ear proves that the sural membranes are also stretched and exe-cised, something impossible by any proc-oss but a yawn. It has recently been re-ommended by some doctors that sufferers from massi catarrh should make a practice of yawning six or meven times a day and good results will follow. It is also consid-ered valuable in inflammation of the palate, sore throat and carache.—New York Herald.

Wire sents are, we hear, being experi-entally introduced by the North British rallway into a number of their carriages. The seat is composed of a series of specially manufactured steel rings knit together and firmly stretched, the chief features claimed being comfort and durability, although though an important point is the facility with which the scats can be rigged up thereby materially expediting the process of coach construction. This system of metallic scating has already been used ev-erywhere, we believe, both in England and alread, with a certain measure of success
