SATURDAY, JANUARY 12, 1906.

SPRINGEN is still hopeful for the currency bill. He was doubtless named after the hope which springs eternal.

Oh, do give us some postage stamps that will stick and not make the Father of His Country look as if he had been out all night!

Now that Mr. Hill has received the confirmation, he can pass the White House entry box at any hour, day or night, without risk of having a charge of deadly blight fired into him by the sentinel on duty.

They say that Gladstone is feeling so young and vigorous that he contemplates acting as peacemaker for the warring Irish parliamentary factions. If he does and succeeds, Samson and Methuselah will have to take back seats.

SECRETARY CARLISLE is said to have given earnest warning to the Democratic leaders that unless his latest bill passed the Treasury would at once go to a silver basis by payment of Treasury notes in all ver only. It is more probable that some earnest and excited remark may have been misconstrued, but President Cleveland would do well to look into this matter without much delay. He knows how talk of that kind brought on the panic last year, and should have learned what sensitiveness there is regarding note redemption. Only a few days ago he declared in strong language that the Government would use to the utmost all its powers to maintain gold payments, and it is not to be imagined that he will allow any vexation of the Secretary to cause even serious fears of peril.

AFTER much reflection and delay, the English Government has at length decided to abstain from assisting the United States Naval Department in its philanthropic labor of ridding the ocean highways of those derelicts that constitute so grave a peril to navigation. At the Washington Conference of 1889, which was attended by delegates from Great Britain and every other maritime nation, a resolution was unanimously adopted recommending all Powers to come to an agreement respecting the removal of abandoned hulks in the North Atlantic. This recommendation has remained a dead letter; our Government has been left to continue the task alone, no less than seventy-two floating wrecks of this kind having been sunk by two of our cruisers specially assigned to that service since the Conference; and all that has come of our negotiations with the English Government about the matter has been the manifestation on its part of a disposition to question and belittle the usefulness of our work.

NEVER was there such a mixture of progressive and retrograde ideas as is contained in the new criminal code now under discussion by the Imperial Parliament of Austria, which is to replace the one that has been in existence since 1803. Several reforms have been borrowed from England, such as the ticket-of-leave system for convicts, the detention during the sovereign's pleasure of criminal lunatics, the exemption from punishment for first offences and the right of a magistrate to commit minors to industrial schools. Capital punishment, abolished by Emperor Joseph II and reintroduced by the code of 1803, is retained, but restricted to murder with premeditation and attempts on the person of the sovereign, while in many cases in which it is now prescribed it is abolished. These are the real reforms, but there are reactionary clauses in abundance, and some ridiculous ones. Thus, if two persons box each other ears, the offence is, so to speak, condoned, but, if one of them hits harder than the other he is liable to punishment. It is rendered a penal offence to organize for a strike, or even for workmen to combine, while the freedom of the press is restricted in such a way that if the code passes in its present shape it will only be possible for the newspapers to praise everything that is done by the government of the day.

SMALLPOX AT ROBY.

The Notorious Indiana Gambling Resort Invaded by Disease.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Aid from an unexpected source has come to the Indiana authorities, who have for months been tracking their brains as to the best method of closing and keeping closed the race track at Roby. An epidemic of smallpox has broken out and there is a wild scrambling among the sports, stambled and jockeys to reach a more healthful locality. The authorities of Illinois have for some time been keeping a close watch on the track to prevent too many of the hangers on of the place from invading Chicago. Every jockey or stambled who cannot show an approximation to a clean bill of health is told that Chicago has troubles enough of its own, without importing them from the Roby race track. When the man shows symptoms of smallpox he is promptly taken to the pest house.

Seven men from the Roby track, all with smallpox in its worst form, have been brought to the pest house within three days. The Chicago authorities are powerless to move against the plague spot, as it is under the jurisdiction of the Indiana board of health. That body promptly received notice of the prevalence of the disease and of the danger which threatened Chicago from its continued existence.

It is probable that a corps of physicians from the Indiana board will be sent to the track to vaccinate everybody in the place and to thoroughly fumigate the stables and other buildings of the track. The track is closed at present, and it is not likely that the state medical authorities will allow it to reopen, even if the management wishes to do so.

Another Income Tax Fighter.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Louis H. Hyde, who resides at Orange, N. J., commenced a suit in equity yesterday in the United States circuit court against the Continental Trust company, of which he is a shareholder, to test the constitutionality of the new income tax law. Mr. Hyde is represented by Messrs. Seward, Guthrie, Morawetz and Steele and Mr. Joseph H. Choate as his counsel. It is understood that a number of corporations and individuals largely affected by the income tax have combined to protect their interest and to test the constitutionality of the act.

Hood's Saved My Life

I Can Honestly Say This

"For years I was in a very serious condition with catarrh of the stomach, bowels and bladder. I suffered intensely from dyspepsia, and in fact was a miserable wreck, merely a skeleton. I seemed to go from bad to worse. I really wished I was dead. I had no rest day or night. I did not know what to do. I had taken so much medicine of the wrong kind that I had poisoned me, and my finger nails began to turn black and come off. I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I had faith in the medicine, and it did more for me than all prescriptions. I was gradually regaining perfect health, am entirely free from catarrh of the bowels, and pain in my back. My recovery is simply marvelous." W. B. Young, Potter's Mills, Pa.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE ROBBED.

Major Alford, President of the College at Stillwater, O. T., Declares That the Regents Have Been Misappropriating the Money of the Institution.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Jan. 12.—Major Henry E. Alford, president of the Agricultural and Mercantile college at Stillwater, in his annual report, makes sensational charges against the college officials. He declares both the Republican and Democratic boards of regents have plundered the institution. During the first seven months of the existence of the college, he says, $17,000 was spent, though not a dollar went into buildings, and the institution occupied a small rented church.

Mr. Alford said that in less than two years the members of the board of regents drew $8,000 in salary and that a secretary has been employed to fill an honorary office, he drawing $115 a month. The treasurer, he says, although he handled nearly $40,000, turned over no records and has never made a settlement with the treasurer.

Major Alford concludes by saying the regents refuse to heed his protests, and tenders his immediate resignation, with the promise of laying the matter fully before the secretary of the interior and the secretary of agriculture. The college draws most of its funds from the general government. President Alford is one of the leading agricultural college men of the nation, and came here from Washington only a few months ago.

Japan's Heavy Demands.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The Standard's Berlin correspondent telegraphs that he hears that Japan has formulated her conditions for peace with China. Approximately these conditions are the independence of Korea under Japanese suzerainty, the cession of certain Chinese islands, the raising of the Taku forts, the deprivation of Port Arthur and Wei Hai Wei of their character as naval ports and their dismantling, the demolition of all forts on the way from Corea to China, admission of Japan's rights to prescribe the number and type of China's men-of-war, the payment of a heavy indemnity and, if possible, the negotiation of a Chinese-Japanese alliance.

For Offering a Human Sacrifice.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 12.—The trial has been concluded at Viatica, capital of the government of the same name, of eleven persons belonging to the sect known as Volakas. They were accused of human sacrifice in order to propitiate the wrath of their evil God, Dyabole. One of the prisoners was 70 years old. Three of the prisoners were acquitted, some of them were sentenced to penal servitude for life and others were deported to Siberia.

Japs Advancing on Chin Chow.

TRINIDAD, Jan. 12.—The Japanese are steadily advancing on Chin Chow. The Chinese are retiring slowly to the great wall, where it is expected they will make a stand. Heavy snows impede the progress of the armies. Several skirmishes have occurred, and in their retreat the Chinese have left numbers of their wounded behind them.
