Evening Herald.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 19, 1895.

WHAT a blessing it would be if the members of President Cleveland's Cabinet would go out on strikes.

The Tennessee Democrats will oust the Republican Governor of that state if any virtue remains in their old plan of counting out.

SECRETARY CARLISLE will never have any durable comfort with his eccentric financial policy until he gets a gold reserve that is warranted non-shrinkable.

The latest illicit still seized in Alabama was run by steam and had a capacity of 9 gallons. That helps to explain the impossibility of breaking the back of Bourbonism down there.

NO FREE railroad passes for the clergy after March 31, although salvation will remain free, as heretofore. The Trunk Line Association is not stirred by the noble impulses of reciprocity, and we are ashamed of it.

A BILL to provide for the incorporation of companies to construct underground railroads was laid before the Pennsylvania Senate. In due time we shall hear of one to incorporate companies to navigate the air, and then progress will be complete.

PRESIDENT FRIELHITS the contempt of the world in the letter with which he accompanied his resignation. A man who confesses that he was driven from a great public duty by the howling of his enemies does not deserve the honor of a presidency.

GOV. HASTINGS hopes to see the day when every boy and girl in this state can have a "thorough preparation for any calling or profession as free from cost in the higher branches as are the rudiments now in our township schools." Amen, brother!

CHILE, Argentinae and Brazil talk of naval disarmament and the appointing of Uncle Sam as umpire to see that the agreement is lived up to. They know he is big enough to compel respect for his decisions, but it will likely be a long time before he consents to this arrangement.

WHAT with Statesmen Springer howling for currency reform in the House, and Statesman Voorhees doing the same thing in the Senate, the project of any useful legislation in that line during the present session is indeed dreary and dismal. The quacks are in charge of the case, and there will be no show for the patient until they stop quacking.

It appears that Senators Hill and Gorham each regard the other as guilty of party perjury and party dishonor, whose reason like a poison blight comes o'er the councils of the brave and blasts them in the hour of night. Though the contention he what it may, let the battle rage. Whatever is left of the Democratic party should be permitted to destroy itself.

HILL GOES, the Oklahoma outlaw, demands justice. He declares he has always done his "work" on the "open highway," has never killed any one and never has robbed a poor man, "unless a horse or food," which he was "compelled" to have when doling the law. It will thus be seen that Hill, according to his own statement, was the victim of circumstances and never pulled his gun behind a tree.

Of course, Waite has been a great affliction to the people of Colorado, but they have at last got rid of him, and now he proposes to inflict himself on the whole country by going on the lecture platform. If Waite really feels moved to show himself to the public, the place for him is a dime museum. No doubt profitable engagements could be promptly secured. But as a lecturer he deserves no greater success than attended the recent appearances of W. C. P. Breckinridge. For widely different reasons the people can have little patience with either one of them.

Admit Its Efficacy.
The interest taken in the almost miraculous cures made by Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, at Athens, N. Y., and other places, resulted in the Albany, N. Y., Journal sending a special representative to Athens to investigate the cases, and it was found that many of the cures made by this medicine were simply wonderful.

In the cases of Mr. Lewis Clow, who had chronic kidney disease, Mrs. Casper Brooks suffering from female troubles, and Mrs. Wm. Tiffany, who suffered from general prostration, all of these cases were abandoned by their attending physicians. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was then used by them and in every case an absolute cure was effected.

Fire Alarm Boxes.
The following list shows the location of the alarm boxes of the Shenandoah fire department:

- 15—Coal and Bowers streets.
- 16—Bowers and Centre streets.
- 23—Bridge and Centre streets.
- 24—Main and Centre streets.
- 34—Main and Poplar streets.
- 45—Main and Coal streets.
- 46—Gilbert and Centre streets.
- 48—Gilbert and Cherry streets.
- 53—Chestnut and Coal streets.

To send an alarm open the box, pull down the hook once and let go. When an alarm is sent in the fire bell will sound the number of the box and repeat the alarm four times.

HOW TO LOCATE ALARMS.
If the alarm is sounded from box 15 the fire bell will strike one, then pause and strike five, which will indicate that the fire is in the vicinity of No. 15 box. Every alarm is repeated four times.

You Don't Have to Swear Off, Says the St. Louis Journal of Agriculture in an editorial about No-To-Bac, the famous tobacco habit cure. "We know of many cases cured by No-To-Bac, one a prominent St. Louis architect, smoked and chewed for twenty years; two boxes cured him so that even the smell of tobacco makes him sick." No-To-Bac sold and guaranteed by Mrs. A. Wasley. No cure no pay. Book free. Sterling Remedy Co., New York or Chicago.

Notice to Subscribers.
Subscribers to the EVENING HERALD who are not receiving their paper regularly and people who wish to receive the paper as new subscribers, are requested to leave their addresses at Hooks & Brown's stationery store, on North Main street.

A woman who has tried to live abroad in "refinement and strict economy" epitomizes as follows: "In Italy, well, there are many families who take pensionnaires, but comfort is not always great there. England without a shadow of doubt provides the best comfort all around, the best table, with the most wholesome food and the most refined style of living. After this comes Germany, with a bountiful table; France, with a more delicate one perhaps, and Switzerland, with a combination of the two."

Mr. Geo. H. Dietterich

The Plain Facts
Are that I have had Cataract 10 Years. No cataract did me any good, but Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures.

THREE FOOLS.
There was a business man who failed To win the longest for prize Of riches and prosperity— He did not advertise.
There was a lover once who died Quite wretched, I suppose, Because all through his life he was Too lushful to propose.
There was another man whose ways His neighbors greatly praised, Because he didn't know enough To go in when it rained.
All three were fools, but worst of all To every body they were wise, Was he who was a business man And didn't advertise. —Somerville Journal.

MISTAKES OF NOVELISTS.

Some of Them Shoot Wide of the Mark Now and Then.
All novelists and writers make slips or blunders in greater or less abundance, but it is among the lady novelists that most frequent and amusing blunders must be looked for, and in "Quilda" works they abound with greater frequency than in the works of any other living novelist.

In one of them will be found a horse winning the Derby three years in succession; guardsman sitting up all night drinking hard, smoking perfumed cigarettes, gambling for fabulous sums and starting forth in the morning after a breakfast of ortolans and green champagne, fresh as daisies and prepared to do deeds of prowess in the hunting fields or at the covert side, and that great feat, too, performed by a man with a "lumpy moustache and flanks like a greyhound," while snipe shooting, espies an eagle, "a dim speck in the overhead vault."
What cures he that cartridges only contain tiny snipe shot? Not he! He bangs away with unerring aim, and "slowly the king of birds, with his glorious plumes outstretched, sinks at his feet a corpse."

In another of her books a gentleman performs a similar feat, but this time, for the sake of variety, with a rifle bullet.
Mr. Walter Besant, in his novel "St. Catherine by the Tower," speaking of the riverside inhabitants, says: "They go to church but three times in their lives—when they are baptized, when they are married and when they are buried." It is surely in novels who go to be buried during their lives.
Mr. Rider Haggard, in his "King Solomon's Mines," made an eclipse of the moon take place at the new moon instead of at the full, when the earth is between the sun and the moon.—Pearson's Weekly.

He Wasn't There.
Somehow or other when anybody ever writes anything about Senator Hoar the description is always accompanied with a reference to his cherubic face. This is not surprising. It is a cherubic face—all round and rosy, with the constant semblance of Innocence which is truly bland.
But nobody would ever take Senator Hoar for an Apollo Belvedere or for any other old Greek or Roman gentleman whose shape has been sculptured in enduring marble. His figure is stocky and pudgy and even leans back—to find a simile which is appropriately Bostonian—and this fact makes rather entertaining a little incident which happened on the floor of the senate once. Senator McMillan was telling some colleagues of the quick and fatal effects of grip and sudden cold that had come to his notice. He recalled, for instance, that a fine looking, handsome gentleman, who had been at church on Sunday, was dead on the following Wednesday.
"What is that?" asked Senator Hoar, joining the group.
"I was just saying," replied Senator McMillan, "that a remarkably well built, handsome man who was at the Congressional church last Sunday, is now dead."
"My dear Mac," said Senator Hoar, "you really must be mistaken. I was not there."—Washington Post.

Decorated Dogs.
In France there exists an order of merit, founded by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, of which the members are dogs who have distinguished themselves by deeds of bravery. A tastefully designed "collar of honor" is awarded to the nominees of the order.
Among the animals already decorated in this way one of the most celebrated is Baechus, a large bulldog, whose speciality it is to stop runaway horses by jumping up and seizing them by the bridle. Baechus' master resides in the Rue Bissonnet, and it is calculated that the intelligent animal has already saved the lives of eight persons, if not more, in this way. Paulel, another bulldog, received a collar in 1887 for saving his mistress from the attack of a footpad, and Turk, a splendid Newfoundland, has had a similar honor for saving three young children from drowning on different occasions.—Paris Letter.

Living Abroad.
A woman who has tried to live abroad in "refinement and strict economy" epitomizes as follows: "In Italy, well, there are many families who take pensionnaires, but comfort is not always great there. England without a shadow of doubt provides the best comfort all around, the best table, with the most wholesome food and the most refined style of living. After this comes Germany, with a bountiful table; France, with a more delicate one perhaps, and Switzerland, with a combination of the two."

President Wilson's Victory.
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—The contest for the control of the Lehigh Valley Railroad company was a sweeping victory for President Editha P. Wilson and his associates in the board of directors, but the leaders of the opposition accepted their defeat complacently, and appeared quite satisfied with their achievement in polling upwards of 100,000 shares and with the prominence in the eyes of the public the campaign has given them.

Quadruple Tragedy in Minnesota.
FAIRMONT, Minn., Jan. 19.—Sam G. Rowland shot and killed his wife's father and mother and his wife. He then fled to an unoccupied house, where a sheriff's posse pursued him. He was killed by a shot in the temple while resisting arrest. Domestic trouble was the cause of the killing. T. B. Whitney, the murdered man, was a prominent man in this city.

DOVER, Del., Jan. 19.—Two more fruitless ballots were taken by the legislature in joint session for United States senator. The vote was practically the same as the previous ballots.

SECTIONALISM RAMPANT

Congressman of the North and South in a War of Words.

MANY BITTER PERSONALITIES.

The Row Precipitated Over a Proposed Pension for the Widow of General Abner Doubleday—Southerners Declare Their Loyalty to the Lost Cause.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The senate yesterday passed the army appropriation bill, carrying $21,000,000, and the bill which in effect advances General Schofield in command of the army to the rank of lieutenant general held by Generals Sherman and Sheridan. Aside from this day was given to the debate on the Neargaur canal. Mr. Morgan, in charge of the measure, sought to fix a time for bringing the question to a vote, but without success, and the tedious discussion goes on with little prospect of a speedy vote. Mr. Caffery (La.) presented a resolution urging the subject by offering a resolution giving a new treaty with Nicaragua and Costa Rica for the occasion of a canal route entirely under the jurisdiction of the United States.

The consideration of the Indian appropriation bill was enlivened by Mr. Grosvenor, who brought up the subject of A. P. A. in connection with the appropriation for Indian schools. He denounced the manner in which he had been misrepresented during the last campaign by the agents of that organization, and declared that although himself a Protestant he had never made war on any man because of his religious faith, and if the time ever came when he was forced to do so he would voluntarily retire from politics. The final disposition of the paragraph relating to Indian schools was postponed.

There was another big row at the night session of the house, which grew out of the events which transpired last week. Feeling ran high and bitter words were spoken. It started after the failure of an effort to increase the pension of the widow of General Abner Doubleday and to pension another widow who performed services as a voluntary nurse during the rebellion. Both bills were blocked by the obstruction of Mr. Jones, of Virginia.

Mr. Cooper (Ind.) resented this and turned on Mr. Jones savagely, and with much temper he charged him with lack of chivalry in assaulting the fair sex.

Mr. Jones absolutely denied that there was any foundation for the statement that he was fighting women. "All I am fighting for," said he, "is against the granting of large pensions to the rich, powerful and influential."

"Question the motives of the gentleman from Virginia," retorted Mr. Cooper hotly. "I believe he is actuated by the sentiment expressed by him last Friday night, when he said he was proud of the cause he fought for in the trenches. Although he has taken an oath now to support the flag that floats above your head, Mr. Speaker, he now displays toward it the same spirit of opposition he did when he struck at that flag thirty years ago. I have a right to say it because he himself has said it."

Mr. Simpson (Kan.) Mr. Cox (Tenn.) and Mr. Moses (Ga.) were drawn into the controversy. Feeling ran high, and it looked for several minutes as if a personal encounter might occur. Mr. Simpson continued to taunt Mr. Jones, declaring that he was not only surprised, but ashamed that a man should come from the south and say that he still believed in the lost cause.

Mr. Talbert (S. C.) at last came to Mr. Jones' rescue. He was white with rage, and while deprecating the continual appeal to sectional passions, asserted that such appeals usually came from men who were invisible in time of war and invincible in time of peace. "As to the lost cause," he shouted, "it is the everlasting cause and never can be lost!"

Mr. Jones got the floor just before the time for adjournment was reached. He branded Cooper's language toward him as language unworthy of a gentleman. "I want to say," he added, "that when the question was asked me last week I answered that I was proud of the lost cause. To say I believed every cause was right was a slander. I always said and maintained everywhere, as I do now, that I know that cause was right."

At this point the hour of 10:30 arrived and the house stood adjourned under the rule.

Like the Lambert Case.
SAVANNAH, Jan. 19.—Eddie Davis, found guilty of murder, was respited yesterday. Davis, in his death clothes, was just about to step upon the death trap, a coffin awaited him in the corridor and deputies were about to bind him and affix a noose when his lawyer arrived and urged a delay of two hours, as he had hopes of securing a telegram from Governor Atkins. Davis was taken from the gallows and soon afterward the respite came.

Wilson and his associates in the board of directors, but the leaders of the opposition accepted their defeat complacently, and appeared quite satisfied with their achievement in polling upwards of 100,000 shares and with the prominence in the eyes of the public the campaign has given them.

COTTOLENE.

It is not

An experiment—but a Proved Success. Thousands of housekeepers who at first thought they never could use any shortening but lard, now use COTTOLENE and couldn't be induced to change, simply because it is better, cheaper and more healthful. The genuine has this trade mark—steer's head in cotton-plant wreath—on every pail. Look for it.
