HIT AN INNOCENT DUMMY!

A Pole Who Was Loaded With Beer Knocked the Wooden Figure Through a Show Window.

Anthony Willakawicz staggered down East Centre street under a heavy load of beer. A clothing dummy standing in front of Max Supowitz's store attracted his attention, and he stopped. Whether Willakawicz imagined that the dummy was a human being and was staring at him insolently is not known, but, at all events, he exclaimed, "This Jew must die!" and dealt the dummy a blow on its impassive face that sent the thing bodily through the show window. Mr. Supowitz and his son protested and Willakawicz attacked them, after which he ran away. Constable Giblin chased and caught him and Justice Shoemaker put him under $300 bail for trial at court.

John P. Boehm, the North Main street saloonkeeper, was prosecutor before Justice Shoemaker last night in a case against two young men named George Beresford and John Prosser, Jr., in which he charged them with stealing a keg of beer. It was taken from the porch in front of the saloon. The accused made good the loss, paid the costs and were discharged.

A large pane of glass in the front door of Hooks & Brown's store, on North Main street, was smashed Saturday night by some young men who were skyarking about the place. The firm is out about four dollars for repairs and there is no clue to the mischief-makers. They ran away after the glass was broken and the police did not put in an appearance until some time after. The affair occurred at about seven o'clock in the evening.

Slippery Larkin.

Joe Larkin, of Lost Creek, who has been a terror to the people of that and neighboring places for some time, was arrested Saturday morning by Constable Peters, of Wm. Penna, assisted by Constable Boland, of town, and a constable of Colorado. Larkin had been a fugitive from justice ever since he escaped from Peters by jumping from a train bound for Pottsville. Larkin was handcuffed at the time, but sustained no injury and made good his escape. On Saturday he accompanied Peters and the Colorado constable to Pottsville without causing trouble, but while walking to the jail he again escaped. Peters alone was with Larkin at the time. When near the jail the prisoner asked for a chew of tobacco. As Peters was in the act of putting it in the prisoner's mouth the latter dealt the officer a staggering blow in the face and darted away. He has not been found.

The Sampsell Funeral.

The funeral of the late Henry Sampsell will take place next Wednesday afternoon. It will leave the family residence at Ellengowan at 1 p. m., and services will be held in the Evangelical church, on West Cherry street, at 2 o'clock. Mr. Sampsell's death had a distressing effect upon many of the Evangelical congregation yesterday, especially the older members. The deceased had been a member and class leader of the church from the time of its organization. Rev. Lichtenwalner, the pastor, was so much affected that he was obliged to dispense with the regular preaching service last night. Rev. Schultz, of Allentown, will conduct the funeral service. Mrs. Sampsell, the wife of the deceased, and who is a victim of pneumonia, has rallied somewhat, but is by no means out of danger. She has been informed of her husband's death.

OBITUARY.

Pneumonia Adds More Victims to the Death List.

Mrs. Mary Catherine Anspach, wife of Daniel Anspach, died at 9 o'clock last evening at her residence on North Pearl alley, of pneumonia, which she contracted last Monday. Mrs. Anspach was very widely and favorably known. She is survived by her husband and six children, Mrs. Arthur Trexler, Ailan, William, Nancy, Martha and Jacob Anspach. The funeral will take place at two o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. John Jennings died at her residence on South Main street, Saturday afternoon, of pneumonia. She was in her 64th year. The funeral will take place at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Surprise was occasioned to-day by the announcement of the death of Mrs. Edward T. Westervelt. She died at her home in Hazleton yesterday of acute pneumonia, having been ill only since last Thursday. Mrs. Westervelt was about 35 years of age and is survived by her husband and a daughter three years old. The deceased was an accomplished lady of exceedingly pleasant disposition and had many friends here who join her husband in mourning her death. Mrs. Westervelt was a resident of this place up to about three months ago, when she moved to Hazleton, where her husband opened an office as superintendent of the Home Friendly Society of Baltimore, Md. Mr. Westervelt has the sympathy of this community. The severe blow comes to him at a time when he had succeeded in laying the foundation for a brilliant business career. The remains were taken from Hazleton to Treverton this afternoon, and the funeral will take place from the residence of the deceased's parents at the latter place at 10 a. m. on Wednesday.

A Jolly Party.

A number of employees of the Kolnhoor colliery enjoyed a sleighing trip to Hazleton and return Saturday evening and had a jolly time. The party consisted of Andrew Crawford, David B. Jones, Murt. J. Reese, the next Condemner of the Fifth ward; William Trexler, Councilman Patrick Gaffigan, T. J. O'Hearn, P. J. Murphy, Daniel Sterner, John Brown and James Dougherty.

Dabb has removed his gallery to Hoffman's old stand, West Centre street.

It Is Progressive.

The National Social Club, an organization composed of upwards of a hundred very popular and influential young men of town, has met with such a successful career that an enlargement of headquarters has been necessary. The club has leased the entire third floor of the Beddall building, at the corner of Main and Centre streets, and will convert part of it into a gymnasium with modern outfit.

A DEMAND FOR FLOUR.

Midnight Raid Made on a Grocer's Warehouse.

TWO MEN UNDER ARREST.

They and a Third Marauder Carried Off a Thousand Pounds of Flour—Little of the Booty Recovered.

A burglary was committed at Meluskey & Sons' warehouse, on North Bowers street, Saturday night, and two of the guilty parties are in jail. A third one is still at large, but will in all probability be caught soon. About ten hundred pounds of flour was carried from the warehouse and only 150 pounds has been recovered.

Yesterday morning Councilman Meluskey, who is a member of the firm robbed, was notified that the warehouse door was open and showed marks of violence. A visit to the place showed that the lock of the door had been broken and an investigation inside led to the discovery of the loss of flour. Chief of Police O'Hara was notified and upon descriptions furnished by residents in the vicinity he arrested Samuel Starr, of East Apple alley, and Edward Walters, of West Oak street. The men at first denied their guilt, but subsequently confessed to stealing two 100-pound bags of flour. They claimed that the lock was broken when they visited the place. They were committed to the Pottsville jail this morning by Justice Cardin.

Three 50-pound bags of flour were found in a closet of the garret in Walters' house, thus disproving the story of the men that they only stole two bags. They also claimed that they had no accomplice, but residents of the neighborhood say that one man stood guard outside the warehouse while two men were at work inside. No alarm was given because it was thought at the time that the men were employees of the Meluskey's.

Starr is 29 years of age and has a wife and two children. He denies that he has ever been arrested before and asserts that he was half drunk Saturday when he stole the flour. He is a miner and says he worked every day the Indian Ridge breaker worked.

Walters is better known to the police. He has been in jail several times and served a term for stealing meat from Tabor's butcher shop, on East Centre street.

The wives of the men were trying to bring about a settlement of the case to-day, but the Meluskeys refused to consider overtures in the absence of a restoration of the eight hundred or more pounds of missing flour.

Suit for Slander Follows an Exchange in Court.

A suit for slander was on Saturday instituted in the Pottsville court by Congressman C. N. Brumm against W. D. Seltzer, Esq. Mr. Seltzer has furnished $200 bail and will ask that the case be referred for arbitration.

The suit is a sequel to a hot exchange the lawyers had in court one day last week during the hearing of a license case. The specific charge is that Seltzer referred to Brumm in the following language: "I have never been guilty of robbing the widow, nor have I ever visited prisons of bad repute in Baltimore; nor have I been familiar with the well-known rebel spy, Belle Boyd." Brumm demands $1,000 damages.
