WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1896.

It is easy to imagine that Cleveland's hardest task must be that of continuing to be a Democrat.

GROVER CLEVELAND'S financial policy epitomized: Give me the pleasure of piling up the public debt, and I care not who has to pay it.

THERE are repeated assurances from Washington that financial legislation is dead. It is a queer thing to say of that which was never alive.

AS LONG as labor leaders keep up fighting each other like the bear and the lion in the fable, they must expect to see the capitalistic fox get away with the booty.

MR. BLAND has discovered a way to free coinage through an old statute requiring the government to receive and pay out Spanish pillar dollars and the parts thereof. What he wants to solve now is the problem as to where the pillar dollars are to come from.

THE enemies to the Protection of American industries are daily reading a lesson which should impress them as has nothing before in their entire lives. The financial condition of the government to-day affords one of the most remarkable and most effectual illustrations of the damaging effect of the Democratic Free-Trade policy the most skeptical could desire. Restore adequate Protection to the great industries of a great country and the revenues will increase and the country will steadily advance toward prosperity and happiness. But we cannot look to the destructive policy of the party now in power for this.

THE spectacle of a doctor containing an overdose of his own medicine driving with infuriate speed across a long stretch of country to reach another doctor and obtain relief is not so common as it might be, but when it does occur is a thrilling episode, exciting as much local attention as the ride of John Gilpin. The last recorded incident of the kind took place near Schenectady, N. Y., to which latter place the imperiled physician betook himself at such a headlong rate of speed as to leave one horse dead behind him, and seriously to impair the market value of a second one which was hurriedly impressed into the service. The doctor had swallowed a teaspoonful of tincture of aconite, mistaking it for a harmless tonic which was kept upon the same shelf, a practice which he should have known was sure to issue in accidents of that sort and from which he should have warned his patients, instead of carelessly adopting it himself. The lesson of care in this particular is so urgent, and unfortunately so little heeded, as many a fatal incident testifies, that all suitable occasions of emphasizing it should be improved.

FOR all the cost of getting and maintaining a gold reserve, whatever that cost may be, the responsibility rests directly upon the President himself, because the serious curtailment of revenue could not have taken effect had he refused; and because it was by him, or at his desire, that one partisan scheme after another has been forced upon the attention of Congress since the session began. The Cabinet and the majority in Congress have their share of responsibility, of course, for they should have checked the President's headstrong unwisdom. The great body of Democratic leaders, managers and journals have their responsibility also, for instead of protesting with vigor against ruinous partisan measures they have spent months in demanding them, in velleitating that each in its turn was the one and only thing to save the country, and in abusing those who have pointed out their defects. In short, a party has been on trial, and has shown what it can do in the government of the country. All the cost, however great it may be, must be charged to the account of the party as a whole, and to those who have represented or directed it. That the charge is a heavy one everybody is already aware.

What Are We Coming To?
Senator Morgan of Alabama has prepared a bill for the reconstruction of the United States consular service. It is a severe blow, this bill, to the good old doctrine that a public office is a private snip. Senator Morgan actually proposes that our consuls shall be put through an examination for all the world like college students or letter carriers. He thinks that the time has come when the United States consular service will have to make a strenuous effort, and that a steady one, not to be outdone by the consular service of other nations and not to show off shamefully and scandalously in comparison with that. Our commercial interests demand this, and we shall be criminally negligent unless we attend to it.

Meantime the branches in which the candidate will have to pass examination, if the Morgan bill becomes a law, are first of all the common school studies. The embryo foreign consul must even know the constitution of the United States, and besides that must actually understand how to spell at night. As if this were not tyrannical enough, he must be between the ages of 21 and 45 and must be familiar with the history of all the world's most important treaties "from the peace of Westphalia to the present time." That is tough. Can no old political heeler who has been voting the boys straight for 40 years any longer get the small recognition of a foreign consulship? What are we coming to?

The last indignity, however, the feather that breaks the camel's back, so to speak, will be the requirement that a candidate for consul must know at least one foreign language and pass examination therein. If the day has come when an appointee to a foreign consulship must actually be required to understand the language of the land he is going to transact business in, then indeed it is time to quit.

What England Would Like In China.

In The Cosmopolitan, Lord Wolsey says that unless China can at once organize an efficient army of 100,000 men "under English or other foreign officers she ought by June next to be under the heel of her present invader." He wants, does Wolsey, an Englishman to jump in right quick and save China. It must be an Englishman because "we seem to have greater aptitude for that sort of thing than gentlemen of other nationalities." Dear, dear, how modest! But Englishmen are nothing if not modest. Wolsey points with pride to how Englishmen saved Egypt and concludes that they could "save" China in a similar manner. Just so. But heaven save the saving.

One would think that England's course in Egypt would scarcely be a chapter which Englishmen would be proud of. Her rule is an iron yoke, from which the young khedive has tried, and tried in vain, to free his neck. He will never do it. When England sets her good sized foot down upon a weak nation, she sets it to stay. Look at India. Look at Matabeleland in Africa. As India, Egypt and South Africa now are, so China will be once she lets Englishmen officer her army and fight the Japs for a consideration. Wolsey speaks out the desire of every one of his fellow countrymen when he recommends China to reorganize her army and officer it by Englishmen. Then she would whip Japan, he says. No doubt. But better trust to the tender mercies of Japan than do that. China's last estate under the benevolent oversight of Great Britain would be worse than her first.

"The powers" are very ready with their ultimatum to Japan about what she shall not do to China. They hope, "the powers" do, that the United States will join them in their say. The principal point in their dictum is that Japan shall not be allowed to annex an inch of Chinese mainland. What is it the blessed business of the powers anyhow? They have not done any of the fighting and have not furnished a dollar or a man to win the victory. China would be better off today and so would all the rest of the world if she were handed over body and bones to Japan. In some respects Japan is a more civilized country than England herself.

There are now present in the United States senate 87 members. There are 43 Democrats, 39 Republicans and 5 Populists. If the Republicans and Populists acted together, they could overcome the Democrats. If the Democrats and one Populist hung solid together, they could defeat the Republicans and the rest of the Populists. But there is no chance of anybody hanging to anybody.

One likes that—the recommendation of the American congress to Great Britain to arbitrate the British Guiana boundary line dispute with Venezuela. It sounds as though the United States were getting to be one of "the powers."

Three weeks after the new diphtheria remedy, antitoxine, was introduced into New York city deaths from that disease had fallen off 25 per cent.

The pleasing, pensive melancholy in the pictured countenance of Mr. Thomas C. Platt can only be compared to the soft glint of sunset upon the waves.

Queen Liliuokalani as the sworn, faithful subject of a healthy and thriving Hawaiian-Yankee republic is a most pleasing spectacle.

WARWICK THE WINNER.

Republicans Elect Their Candidate for Mayor of Philadelphia.

MAJORITY LARGER THAN HOPED.

It is Estimated That Warwick's Vote Exceeds That of Ex-Governor Pattison by 50,000 to 60,000—Decreased Republican Majority in Senator Penrose's Ward.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 20.—All indications point to the election of Charles F. Warwick as mayor of this city by a majority estimated at from 50,000 to 60,000 over Robert E. Pattison, the ex-governor of the state. William J. Roney, the Republican candidate for receiver of taxes, has evidently been largely cut by his party, but his majority over Colonel Sylvester Bonaffon, the Democratic and reform candidate, is estimated at 40,000. Twelve police magistrates, eleven select councilmen and seventy-nine common councilmen have been elected, and present indications are that the Republicans have these offices.

Unusual interest was manifested in the election, and a remarkably large vote was polled. It was ideal "Republican weather"—mild and springlike, with a bright sun shining. The day was generally observed as a holiday, and the streets were crowded.

CHARLES FRANKLIN WARWICK.

The fight waged by the two reform organizations—the Municipal League and the Citizens' Committee of Ninety-five—was directed against the councilmen whose records justified their "turning down."

The most sanguine of the Republican leaders did not hope for a majority higher than 35,000 or 40,000, while Governor Pattison yesterday expressed himself as confident that he would be elected by about 50,000 plurality.

That the Pennsylvania Democracy—the faction opposed to the leadership of National Chairman Harry—cut Pattison is indicated by the fact that the Twelfth ward, which usually goes Democratic, gave Warwick 400 majority.

The Municipal League made a strenuous effort to prevent fraud, and had watchers employed in nearly every one of the almost 1,000 divisions in the city. It also notified every election officer that any one caught signing an election return before the polls closed would be prosecuted and sent to jail. In some divisions it has been the practice to prepare the returns early in the day, giving whatever majority may be mutually agreed upon, without the vote usually cast.

The returns came in very slowly, but in fifteen wards out of the thirty-seven there was a majority of 28,000 for Warwick. These same wards gave Hastings 35,000 over Slingerly in the late gubernatorial election, when the total municipal majority was 85,000.

The greatest interest was manifested in this election, as it long since assumed the shape of a desperate fight against the Republican "combine," headed by David Martin and Senator Charles A. Porter. The "throwing down" by these leaders of Governor Penrose just before the convention at which it was generally supposed he would be nominated, created a great deal of disaffection among Republicans, and led to the open breach between Senator Quay and the leaders of the "combine." From that time it was thought that Quay would give his support to Mr. Pattison, but the overwhelming majority rolled up by the Republicans yesterday clearly demonstrates that Mr. Quay decided to sacrifice his personal feelings to the good of his party, and turned in for the support of the ticket.

Mr. Warwick received the returns at Mayor Stuart's office, and expressed his great satisfaction at the result, though somewhat surprised at the large figures. Mr. Pattison remained at his country home at Overbrook, and received the returns over a special wire.

The returns from the Eighth ward—Senator Penrose's ward—show a majority for Warwick of 1,007. Hastings' majority in the ward last November was 1,808.

IN OTHER PENNSYLVANIA CITIES.

Governor Hastings Did Not Leave the Capital to Cast His Vote.

Harrisburg—This city has never seen a less exciting municipal election than that of yesterday. A light vote was polled and comparatively little interest was taken by either party. Business was practically suspended at the capital, as, with few exceptions, the heads of departments and their assistants went home to vote. Governor Hastings, however, was at his post, his candidates at Bellefonte being sure of election.

Lancaster—The election here was for councilmen and school directors. The Republicans carried every ward but the Eighth. They elected 34 out of 37 common councilmen and the selectmen in the Fifth, Sixth and Seventh wards. The latter has always been Democratic. Each party elected six school directors. The proposition to increase the city debt $170,000 was defeated.

Tunkhannock—A light vote has been polled in this county, owing to the bad roads. The election of E. J. Jordan and James H. Coddling, Republican candidates to fill the unexpired term of Myron B. Wright in the present congress and the full term in the Fifty-fourth congress, respectively, is assured.

Pittsburg—The election here passed off quietly, with a light vote cast. The only contest of any consequence was that over the issue by the city of $4,700,000 worth of bonds for street improvements, water extension, sewers, etc. The indications are that the bond issue has been agreed to by at least 15 to 1.

Sunbury—The Republicans in Sunbury and East Sunbury boroughs have elected a majority of councilmen. The other borough offices are divided. Sunbury defeated the proposition to increase the school debt (12,000) by 10 votes. East Sunbury voted for electric lights.

Hazleton—The vote in this city is very close, but the indications are that the following having been elected: Altmire (rep.) for mayor, Greveling (rep.) for treasurer, Jacobs (dem.) for controller. The township ticket is Republican.

Reading—Reading defeated a proposition to borrow $900,000 for permanent improvements by a majority of 1,500. The Republicans will have a majority of about three on joint ballot in the new council. Chambersburg—The Republicans elected their borough ticket by 275 majority, and carried every ward except the Third, where the Democrats elected the assessor and school director.

Carlisle—The Carlisle Democrats gain one councilman, making that body Democratic by a majority of 9 to 3. The Republicans elected their candidates for assessor and auditor.

Erie—The election in Erie for council and school directors resulted in a majority in both for the Republicans. The government is entirely Republican now.

Wilkesbarre—Francis M. Nichols was re-elected mayor of Wilkesbarre by 300 plurality. He was a non-partisan candidate.

AN INDIANA SENSATION.

Legislators Charged with Keeping Whisky on Tap While Talking Temperance.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 20.—While the house of representatives was discussing the Nicholson temperance bill a bombshell was exploded by Mr. Jackson, of Carroll county. Speaking to galleries which were filled with friends of the bill from all over the state he exclaimed dramatically:

"You say this house is not subsidized, and you get angry when you are charged with it. No wonder you raise your hypocritical eyes in horror. Here you are talking this temperance legislation to these good people in the galleries, and all the time there is a barrel of whisky in the basement of this state house which is free to the members on this floor."

Pandemonium reigned immediately and personal encounters were with difficulty avoided. There were cries of "Prove it," and Mr. Jackson continued: "I repeat just what I said. And now you want to hush me up. There is a barrel of whisky down there, and it was furnished you by the whisky league. You are shackled by it." Mr. Jackson claimed he had been invited to partake of the whisky, and when the uproar had subsided a committee of three was appointed by the speaker to locate the barrel and report.

Pardoned by Michigan's Governor.

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 20.—Governor Rich, upon recommendation of the pardon board, issued a pardon yesterday for Harold O. Henderson, convicted of burglary and sentenced to three years' imprisonment. Henderson is a civil engineer, a graduate of Yale and has wealthy parents in California, who have not heard of their son's disgrace. Henderson, while calling upon a married woman, was attacked by her husband, and in his eagerness to escape jumped through a window. He had in his possession the woman's watch, and the husband had him arrested for burglary. For fear of blasting the wife's reputation Henderson would not explain his presence in the house, and was convicted. He has served two years of his term.

Deserted Their Vessel Through Fear.

SAVANNAH, Feb. 20.—The entire crew of the schooner Junny Thomas, from Baltimore, left the vessel yesterday and sought the protection of United States Commissioner Connolly. The five sailors claim that they are in fear of death at the hands of First Mate Lauer, and refuse to return to Baltimore on the vessel, as he has threatened to kill one and to violently treat the others as soon as the schooner gets to sea. The captain, the sailors claim, give them no protection.

Shipwrecked Crew Landed.

QUEENSTOWN, Feb. 20.—The Cunard line steamer Catalonia, which arrived here yesterday from Boston, reports that on the 18th inst. the Norwegian bark Lindsay, Captain Peterson, was sighted disabled. One of the Catalonia's lifeboats was sent to her assistance and rescued her captain and crew, who were brought to this city.

Baltimore Banks Swindled.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 20.—William Crozier, of the firm of H. S. Lanfair & Co., who committed suicide a few weeks ago, is found to have swindled three banks out of several thousand dollars each by hypothecating receipts for a stock of canned oysters, which was in reality corn, etc.

Murderers Got a Receipt.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 20.—The governor has resented Henry Kaiser and Jacob Heinze, who were to hang tomorrow for the murder of Stockman Brown. This additional time is given by the governor in order that they may prepare for the solemn ordeal which falls to them.

Death of General John L. Swift.

BOSTON, Feb. 20.—General John L. Swift, deputy collector of customs at this port, died last night of heart disease. He was for years a popular Republican campaign orator.

A Specific

is a remedy that will remove a particular disease rather than any other. DANA'S Sarsaparilla is a specific for all diseases having their origin in Impure Blood; or those in which the cleaning of the Blood means good-by to the disease. These comprise nearly all the ills human flesh is heir to. Rheumatism, Catarrh, La Grippe, Malaria, are all constitutional diseases of the blood. Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation, Liver Complaints, Kidney Diseases, all cause Impure Blood. Purify the blood and the disease goes out of the system with the impurities.

Dana's Sarsaparilla

is the most thorough, energetic, yet gentle blood purifier known. It is not we alone who say this; those that use it do.

C. R. BARNES, of BEACH POND, Wayne Co., Pa., had Erysipelas two successive springs; culminating in a severe attack of Eczema. The burning and itching was intense, and the presence of both these blood diseases showed how full of impurities his system must have been. DANA'S cleaned his blood thoroughly. He says it took five bottles of DANA'S Sarsaparilla to do it; but it was done. That was what he was after.

See that you get DANA'S.
