THE CASE OF KARPOWSKI

His Conviction to Go to the Supreme Court.

VERY NICE POINT OF LAW

The Case is One of Much Importance to Business Men—A Question of the Court's Jurisdiction.

A question of jurisdiction, which is of interest to merchants and others, and in which a Shenandoah business man stands convicted, has just been appealed to the Supreme Court of this state. It is an appeal from the Court of Quarter Sessions of Northampton county.

Andrew Karpowski, who keeps a store on West Coal street, in this town, and whose place was robbed on Thursday night, is the defendant in the case. Karpowski was convicted by a jury of his peers of an offence which the laws of Pennsylvania declare to be a misdemeanor and the question on appeal is whether the court in which the conviction was secured had the requisite jurisdiction.

The prosecutors are Messrs. J. Hay & Sons, proprietors of a dry goods and jobbing house in Easton. Stephen G. Reynolds, an employee of J. Hay & Sons, called at Karpowski's notion store on West Coal street to collect an amount due for bills of goods sold him. Karpowski stated that he had more than enough money in the Merchants' Bank to pay the account, but that he wanted to use it to purchase some real estate, and that he would like to keep the money for that purpose; that in case he did not buy the property he would send a check on the first of the month for the amount of the bill. He then gave to Reynolds an order for more goods amounting to about $150. This order was reduced to writing by Reynolds, the agent, and on his return to Easton later in the week was submitted to the firm, together with Karpowski's statement as to his ability to pay. The goods were shipped via the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company's lines, according to Karpowski's instructions. During the trial of the case at Easton the cashier of the Merchants' National Bank of Shenandoah proved from the books of the bank that Karpowski's statement was false and that instead of having $288 in bank on February 22, 1894, he had $330. The essential elements of the offence the prosecution proved were that Karpowski made a statement which was false and fraudulent; that he made it with the intent of deceiving; and that the firm, upon the faith of the statement, agreed to sell and the goods were delivered to the carriers designated by him and no payment was made.

On the facts as above stated the question on appeal was the offence committed in the jurisdiction of the Northampton county courts, or if not entirely and completely committed in their jurisdiction, were any of the constituent elements of the crime done within the jurisdiction to warrant the court in taking jurisdiction.

The counsel for the prosecution claim the offence was wholly committed within the jurisdiction on the argument that the essential purpose of Karpowski's false statement was not to deceive Reynolds, the salesman, but Hay & Sons, Reynolds' employers. The testimony showed that Reynolds had no power to sell; that he could only solicit orders, and after taking them and acquiring information as to the buyer's responsibility he submits it to his house and they decide whether the order shall be filled. Reynolds, the prosecution claims, was simply the means by which Karpowski's statement was conveyed to Hay & Sons. Had he, by long distance telephone, made the statement to Hay & Sons and transmitted his order, it is claimed, the fact that at the time he was standing in Schuykill county could not deprive the court of Northampton county of jurisdiction.

The judge at the trial reasoned: "Had Karpowski written a letter to J. Hay & Sons containing the statement as made to their agent, could it be successfully contended that because the letter was written in Schuykill county the false pretense had been made in that county? Could it be contended that if he had sent a messenger from Schuykill county to repeat verbally the statement which he made through Reynolds to J. Hay & Sons, and it had been so repeated to them by his messenger, and upon the strength of that the goods had been delivered to a common carrier, addressed to Karpowski, that the offence was not completed within this jurisdiction? Whether the messenger was one employed by himself, or one employed by J. Hay & Sons, could make no difference."

Both sides in the case say that the Supreme Court ought to settle this question of jurisdiction. The prosecution says that not only the bench and the bar, but the merchants of the Commonwealth, ought to know whether they can safely deal with a man in an adjoining county; whether when by making false representations to induce them to part with their goods, a man succeeds in cheating and defrauding them, no punishment can be meted out for such violation of the penal code.

POTTSVILLE EISTEDDFOD.

The Cambrian Eisteddfod held at Pottsville yesterday was one of the most successful musical events ever held in this county. It closed last evening amid great enthusiasm. The first prize awarded at the afternoon session was a beautiful silver cup, valued at $50, offered for the best rendition of "Sanctus," by Mozart. The St. Stephen's church choir, of Port Carbon, and St. Mary's, of St. Clair, were the competitors, and the former were the victors, and the prize awarded were as follows: Piano solo, "Titanic," won by Miss Helen Price, Shenandoah, prize, $5; recitation, "The American Flag," won by Daniel Evans, of Girardville, prize, $5; baritone solo, "I arise from Dreams of Thee," won by C. An Ugly Wound. Two youths named Thomas James Jr., and Edward Beddall quarreled last night and James was knocked down. As he fell the back of his head struck a porch in such a manner as to tear down the scalp. The hanging piece was about the size of the palm of a man's hand. In dressing the wound Dr. J. S. Kistler applied fourteen stitches. James is a son of Councilman Thomas J. James and Beddall is a son of George W. Beddall, the hardware merchant.

REPORTERS' GLEANINGS.

No Caucus Held Yet for the Council Re-organization.

EVERYTHING IN DARKNESS

There is Not Even the Shadow of a Slate in View—Democrats Laying Back for a Breach.

There has been a surprising change in the weather, but the circumstances surrounding the coming reorganization of the Borough Council remain unchanged. Everybody, even the Councilmen interested, seem to be as much in the dark as to the shape the organization will take as they were a week ago.

The report that there was a caucus last night is without foundation. Several of the Councilmen who will form the majority in the new body have been together in twos and threes, but at no time have they met in a body, nor has there been any attempt to form a slate.

A caucus to night is not expected. To-day being pay day at the Reading collieries and several of the Councilmen who are to caucus being in business, makes a formal meeting to-night quite improbable. One of the interested Councilmen said to-night that he was quite sure a caucus would not be held to-night. It would not be surprising if the caucus should be held to-morrow.

The postponement of the caucus has a favorable aspect from the Citizens party standpoint of view. It is believed that the delay is more intentional than otherwise, and that the object is to keep the Democratic members as much in the dark as possible as to the slate, so that they may not have any lines upon which to direct efforts for a break. It would not be surprising if the slate should be kept a profound secret until the very minute for making nominations in open Council arrives. The Democratic members profess to be perfectly reconciled to a fate of no say in the reorganization, but they have also been meeting in twos and threes during the past few days and will not be at a loss for a plan of operation should a hitch make itself apparent in any part of the Citizens ranks. There is said to be a standing offer of five of the best appointments to any member of the Citizens party who will jump the traces and give the remaining three appointments to the Democrats. The ostensible object of this big bribe is to save three of the present police force from the sinking ship, but the real object is to get a hold on the appointment of the superintendent of water works after Council is re-organized.

The Same Great Lunch at McElhenney's, Chicken and Waffles, Free. McElhenney is certainly deserving of the public patronage. Just think of it, chicken and waffles for free lunch, one of the greatest free lunches ever presented to an indulgent public. Remember there will be enough for everybody. Chicken and waffles for everybody to-night.

Dangerous Pavements. Mrs. George Lambert, of East Lloyd street, slipped on a pavement on that street, between White and Main streets, at noon to-day, and badly injured her right ankle. Henry Shaffer, of Kelter's store, went to Mrs. Lambert's assistance and took her home in a sleigh. Dr. Hamilton was called. It will be impossible to say for a day or two whether there is a fracture in the ankle. The wife of Letter Carrier John M. Bock also suffers from an injury to one of her ankles, sustained by falling on a slippery pavement. These falls were due to ice patches being left on pavements. The fall of snow covered them and pedestrians are unable to avoid them.

Moving Sale. Our entire stock of clothing and gents' furnishing goods, hats, etc., must be sold before April 1st, without reserve. Call early and secure bargains. This is your last chance.

COUNCIL CHAT.

Give us a good Supervisor and the d— take the rest.

Some of the Councilmen are glad they will not be in it this year.

Do not let it be said that either of the new policemen can't read or write.

It is settled, we understand, that we are to have a day policeman. Good, if true.

The "knowing ones" say it is all "fixed," and that there will not be any caucus held. It is wonderful how each member of the majority can read each other's thoughts.

It is said there is going to be a split on the Treasurer'ship. We don't believe it. Such a little thing like that is not going to interfere with the harmonious organization of the Council by the Citizens party.

Councilman McElhenney, who was supposed to have gone to Alaska, and would not return in time for the organization, is home again. He did not get any further than Philadelphia, when his friend, Jerry Donahue, tried to induce him to go to Florida for his health.

Church News. The Salvation Army has opened meetings in Robbins' opera house, on North Main street. To-night, to-morrow and Monday nights the meetings will be conducted by Captain and Mrs. Howe.

Rev. Robert O'Boyle will to-morrow evening begin a series of special sermons for the Lenten season in the Trinity Reformed church. The subjects for the series have been arranged as follows: "The Awful Crisis," "The Kiss of Betrayal," "The Base Denial," "The Bitter Cup," "The Warning of Pilo's Wife," "The Broken Seal."

Owing to the attendance of the pastor, Rev. R. M. Lichtenwalner, at conference the regular service will be dispensed with in the Evangelical church, on West Cherry street, to-morrow morning, and a prayer meeting will be substituted. In the evening, at 6:30, Rev. A. M. Samsel, of Reading, will preach. The revival services will be continued next week. There have been twenty conversions and there are fifteen penitents at the altar.

Obituary. A child of Louis Kilme, of West Coal street, died yesterday. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon.

Mrs. Sarah Erwin, of West Coal street, died yesterday, in her 66th year. The funeral will take place to-morrow morning and the remains will be taken to Beaver Valley for interment.

Removal Notice. I have removed my meat market from East Centre street to 119 North Main street, and respectfully request a continuance of patronage at my new stand. My place is always stocked with best meats the market affords and the prices are always reasonable. Cleanliness is a marked feature of my place. Polite attention is always accorded customers and orders are promptly filled.

GEORGE H. ROLAND.

Another Business Change. C. L. Fay, late of Cleveland, Ohio, has purchased F. J. Brennan's steam laundry, but will not assume active control until the 11th inst. In the meantime Mr. Fay will put in additional machinery and otherwise improve the plant.

Fall of Coal. Anthony Balakiewicz, employed in the Kehley Run mines, had two ribs and one of his legs fractured by a fall of coal yesterday. He was sent to the Miners' Hospital.

Remember that Fay's enlarged and improved steam laundry will be in full operation at 139 South Main street, after
