MONDAY, MARCH 4, 1805,

THE Fifty-third Congress is at an end. Shout the glad tidings from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

In the ranks of the tinkers and bunglers they count that day lost which brings no tresh proof of Democratic incompetence in financial legislation.

THE public joy over the adjournment of Congress is dashed with the reflection that Jerry Simpson and Colonel Breckinridge will immediately start on lecturing

THE people of Savannah are very much in favor of free speech, which is a good thing. It is a privilege and a right guaranteed under the Constitution, and it would be a great shock to have it abridged. Some of the ablest Catholics in the country are among the strongest advocates of free speech.

THE nomination and confirmation of "'Professor" Wilson to succeed Post master-General Bissell, resigned, will cause no one heart disease on account of its unexpectedness. Ever since his ignomin ions failure to induce his West Virginia constituents to "vindicate" him at the polls last fall he has been regarded as a standing candidate for any fat plum which might chance to be in the gift of the President. Within the last few months he has been mentioned for variety of posts, ranging from the United States Beach down to a foreign consul suip. The people do not need to be made acquainted with Mr. Wilson. They know mim too well and are not likely to forge him easily. He will be distinguished in history as the nominal author of the most destructive law that ever crushed. American industry, impoverished the American people and beggared the National Treasury. He will be remembered as the Cleveland leader who solemnly denounced the policy of "party perfidy and party dis-He will be recalled as the un American free trade tinkerer who was dined and British manufacturers and monopolists. He will live in American recollection as the personification of all which a genuine American statesman should not be. It is needless to say that Mr. Wilson's nomination is simply a reward for his servility to Mr. Cleveland's personal interests and ambition.

So FAR the new tariff has reduced duties on imports half of 1 per cent. This is the relief of the people from burdens for the sinke of which the country has been prostrated in its industries and subjected to the worst disaster for half a century. Five months of the new tariff, ending with January, have yielded $00,362,707 duties on imports amounting to #200,908,074. The rate of duty to imports was therefore 22.51 per cent. and for three years under the Republican tariff it had been 23.33 per cent. The real reduction was made by the McKinley tariff itself, since the saverage rate for three years under the previous tariff had been 20.54 per cent. More than a fifth of the entire burden of duties on imports was thrown off by the met of 1890; about a fiftieth of the burden under the act of 1800 was taken off by the act of 1894. Such is Democratic "reform." It may be granted that the party intended to accomplish much more, but did not know enough. The actual reduction effected in the burdens of the people thus. far has been nothing like what Demo strate promised to misguided supporters, and nothing like what the defenders of the new tariff expected when they passed st. If voters had known in 1892 what they now know of the consequences of a change of policy, few Democrats would have voted for it. If Messrs, Cleveland and Wilson had known how insignificant would be their accomplishment in the direction they desired, they would hardly have bumilated themselves by allowing the bill framed for them by Whiskey and Singar rings and other monopolies to be enjoyments above the scale of childish come a law.

Pages at European Courts, Their Pay and Their Gorgeous Uniforms

It is only at the imperial and royal ourts of Europe that the pretty page with the dimpied chin," so sweetly sung by the poet, and who constituted one of the most picturesque and romantic fea-tures of mediaval times, still survives Royal and imperial pages range in age from 12 to 16 years. They are appointed by the sovereign, enjoy pay, prerogatives and perquisite, much as do the grown attendants on royalty, and are ascribed certain definite duties. Gentle birth is the first qualification for the post of royal page. At the courts of Vienna and Mu-nich an ancestry of no less than 16 generations free from any plebelan strains on either father's or mother's side is required. In Britain and Russia so long a nobility is not demanded. The pages of honor in the court of Queen Victoria are generally the sons of distinguished officers of the army or of high dignitaries of the royal ousehold.

These boys receive $500 a year each, and when they have served a period of five years each is presented with a commission in the guards. On state occusions they wear gorgeous uniforms of blue and silver Besides serving on such occasions they have to devote a certain number of weeks every year to more private service at Windsor or at Osborne. One of their chief functions is to bear the queen's Unin when she holds a meeting of the privy council. The queen is rigid in her etiquette and ever presides at councils without wearing her long black slik court train.

At the court of Berlin the pages figure at all state ceremonics, clad, like those of longland, in blue and silver, and at the court banquets they stand behind the chairs of the royal and imperial personages. These personages, on rising from the table, sometimes address a few kindly words to the boys and present them with sweetmeats from the opergnes. These pages are chosen only from among the best lookkonor," and then suddenly faced about ing boys of the School of Cadets, nearly and unblushingly championed that policy. birth. At the court of St. Petersburg the corps of pages is a sort of imperial school where a number of lads, sons of noblemer wined in London in grateful recognition and state dignitaries, both civil and miliwined in London in grateful recognition tary, are educated at the ezar's expense of the great service he had performed for and under his supervision. On attaining eighteenth year they usually obtain commissions as officers of the regiment of Chevalier guards. - Pearson's Weekly.

Catalani and Goethe.

One of the best stories told of Catalani s associated with an occasion when at Welmar she was placed next to Goethe at a fashionable dinner party. Catalani knew nothing of Goethe; but being struck by the fine appearance of the poet she sked the sentleman on her other side that was his name. "The celebrated hat was his name. 'The celebrated Goothe, madam,' was the reply. 'Ah, yes. Pray on what instrument does he play?' was the rejoinder. 'He is not a performer, madam. He is the renowned author of 'Werther.' " "Oh, yes, yes, I renumber," said Catalani, and, turning to the venerable poet, she addressed him, "Ah, sir, what an admirer I am of 'Wer-A low bow followed in acknowledgment in all my life. What a capital farce it is, sir!" "Madam," said the poet, looking serious,"the Sorrows of Werther a farce!" "Oh, yes. Never was anything so exqui-sitely ridiculous," rejoined Catalani, still aughing heartily. It turned out that the lady had been talking all the while of a parody of 'Werther," which had been per-formed at one of the minor theaters of Paris But lancy the mortification of the poets—Cornhill Magazine.

Startling Charges Against Minnesota's Governor and Bank Examiner.

St. Paul, March 2,-Thursday's sensation in the house of representatives, when a petition for the impeachment of Judge Ives, or Crookston, was presented, was sent into the background late yesterday afternoon in the house, when Representative Brevig, a Populist member from Renville county, presented a long preamble and resolution charging that Moses D. Kenyon, public examiner and superintendent of banks, had certified to the good condition of certain prominent financial institutions of St. Paul and Minneapolis, when in fact those institutions were in-solvent; that such facts had been called to the attention of former governors by state ments submitted, and that the present governor, D. M. Clough, had now had one month in which to have looked over such papers. It is, therefore, resolved that a ommittee of five be appointed to examine thoroughly all the charges, and if the evi-dence warrants such action to draw up the proper papers for impeachment pro-seedings against Bank Examiner Kenyon and Governor Clough.

Notice of debate sent the resolution over until today. The resolutions are alleged to be the work of John N. Barke, of Minneapolis, who has been agituting the same matter for a long time, having at one time filed charges again. Bank Examiner Kenyon with Governor Nelson, but the latter did not find sufficient grounds for the charges to warrant the disminal of Mr. Kenyon, as demanded by Mr. Burke.

It is not thought likely that the resolution will be adopted, although the friends of the governor and bank examiner may insist on the adoption of the resolution in order to prove their innocence of any of ficial or personal wrongdoing.

The Senate Passes the Bills Providing for Additional Warships and the Interna tional Monetary Conference, While the Hawalian Cable Scheme Is Defeated.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Both houses of congress began the last legislative day of the session Saturday forenoon, and con tinued it until noon today. The most important work of Saturday was the agree ment by the house in the senate amend ments providing for the sugar bountles Both houses were in session, with brief recesses, until the small hours of Sunday morning, the bouse recessing at 3:30 a. m. and the senate an hour later.

When the vice president's gavel called the senate to order at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon by ancient legislative fiction it was still Saturday, March 2. There was much discussion over an amendment to the naval appropriation bill reducing the number of battleships during the after moon, but the only real business transacted was the passage, with an amendment, of a bouse bill appropriating $50,000 for the payment of salaries of judges and court officers in Oklahoma. At 6 p. m. a recess was taken until 8:30 o'clock. At 8:30 o'clock the senate galleries wor filled to overflowing, great crowds stand-ing in line in the corridors seeking to get The attendance of senators was small and scattering early in the evening but was augmented to nearly its full strength as the time for a final vote on the naval bill drew near.

At 10 o'clock the vote was taken on the amendment fixing the number of battle-ships at two instead of three, and it was agreed to by a vote of 33 to 29.

The provisions striking out twelve to: pedo boats and inserting six light draught composite gunboats of about 1,000 tons displacement at $230,000 was agreed to Another provision for three torpedoboats me to be built on the Pacific coast, one the Mississippi river and one on the Gulf of Mexico, was also adopted.

A new amendment was adopted remit-ting the penalties against the builders of Yorktown, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Newark.

The naval appropriation bill was then assed without division.

Mr. Blackburn presented another conference report on the diplomatic consular appropriation bill, stating that no agreent had been reached on the Hawatian cable and no prospect that the house would ever yield. Mr. Blackburn warned the senate that another insistence on the sable might mean an extra session. After much discussion Mr. Blackburn's motion to recede on the cable item was then put o a vote and carried without divisi-The consular report on the diplomatic and consular bill was then agreed to.

As the gray dawn was breaking the house took a recess until 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and the worn out members hurried home to catch a few hours of rest. When the speaker again took the chair at 2 o'clock more than half the mem bers were in their seats. No conference reports were ready when the house recon reped, and the speaker recognized severa of the half hundred members clamoring for an opportunity to secure considera-tion of measures of local or personal in terest to them.

The following were passed: Senate bill to increase the pension of the widow of General Joseph H. Potter from $30 to $50; a joint resolution providing for the paron of the two houses of cor through their presiding officers, in the dedicatory exercises of the Chickamauga military park next September; senate res plution making provision for a digest of the laws and decisions relating to the appointment, salary and compensation of officers of United States courts, and also senate bill for the relief of Silas P. Keller. A motion to suspend the rules and pass a bill granting a pension of $100 a month to Major General John A. McClernand neountered the aggressive opposition of Mr. Sickles made an eloquent appeal for the bill, and at the conclusion of his speech the bill was passed.

At 0:10 p. m. another recess was taken. There were but few members present when the house met after recess at 7:30. At 8 o'clock the conference report on the sundry civil bill was called up.
