CAUSE FOR REJOICING.

After Years of Kicking the People of the Fourth Ward Receive Attention.

THE UNSIGHTLY SCRAPERS.

OFFICIALS HAVE DECIDED TO REMOVE THE GILBERT STREET BRIDGE AND RESTORE THE THOROUGHFARE.

The Rest of the Structure Will Probably Remain as It is for Use at
Some Future Time—The Company Commended.

There is great rejoicing among the residents of the Fourth ward over a report that after years of unwarred patience and disregarded complaint, at least a part of the unsightly scraper line is to be removed. Several years ago the scraper line was hailed as a salvation. At that time the section of town where the line stands was very much undermined, so much so that it required heroic measures to convince some people that it was safe to remain in their houses. Nine experts, who gave the matter considerable attention, concluded that the threatened surface could be preserved by filling the worked out portion of the mines with culm from the banks at the colliery, which could be introduced into all parts of the mines by means of bore holes and the scraper line that has since become a source of so much annoyance. Everybody welcomed the project and the scraper line was looked upon as an ornament. But after the novelty of the affair wore off and the mines were filled with culm, the scraper line, blacked from use and idle for want of more fields to conquer, became an eye sore. Property owners along the line complained that the trestles and bridges were lowering the value of their places. When A. D. Gable was first elected Councilman in that ward the feeling against the scraper line was very hot and as soon as Gable took his seat he asked the Borough Council to take action in the matter. It was referred to a committee and died there. From that time up to within the past few days ago no attention was paid to the complaints by the Borough Council, the landowners, or other body, or individual, interested, except those who suffered. A gleam of hope has at last burst forth. Yesterday officials of the landowners visited the place and after inspecting the line decided to have that part on Gilbert street known as "the Brooklyn Bridge" removed. The removal will be made in such a manner as to allow the bridge to be replaced without much trouble at any time it may be deemed necessary to put the scraper line in operation again. In its present shape the scraper line runs along Juneberry alley and is spanned by a wagon and footpath bridge at Gilbert street. The bridge will be removed and the scraper line will be cut off on each side of Gilbert street, so that the street will be placed in its original condition. At present there is no indication that any other part of the line will be removed. In fact some of the officials have stated that they do not think any additional change can be made, as the line is likely to be called into use at almost any time and to replace an extended part of the line would require several weeks of work and a great expense.

"THE ARABIAN NIGHTS."

Another Excellent Performance Given at Ferguson's Theatre.

Certainly the Clair Patee Company has caught the town. Last night another large audience laughed and applauded at the merriment of one of the best comedies ever seen in Shenandoah. There was a dash and vim to the performance that elicited genuine hilarity at each stage in its progress. Miss Virginia Bray as "Bloss Columbia" thoroughly convinced those who had seen her the night before in a strong emotional part, that she was not only versatile but exceedingly clever in a comedy role, and Mr. Nichols gave a masterly rendition to the long and very active character of "Hummingtop," depicting with vivacity the woes of a much abused son-in-law. Next in prominence in the cast was Miss Julia Hanchett as "Mrs. Gillbrand," the ever-on the alert mother-in-law. This lady's rendition of a domestic iron clad was certainly the best bit of character acting ever seen in Shenandoah, and won rounds of applause. Miss Eva Taylor made a very susceptible and confiding wife, presenting the part with an artistic finish. Miss Florence Hadley rendered some excellent songs, among them "Molly O," which received enthusiastic applause, not only because of its excellent rendition, but in just memory of the great favorite, Mr. Scannan. As the "mother's darling boy," Mr. Livingston improved his already great hold upon all admirers of comedy, and Mr. Joseph Davenport was an ideal English servant. Of the other members of the cast, Mr. Gordon was most prominent and made considerable out of the character of "Mr. Ormevoild." Tonight this company will present the excellent comedy of "Our Boys," interspersing it with a number of songs and duets, of which the duet, "Miss Dunn," between Mr. Livingston and Miss Hadley, will be very pleasing.

THE NEWS GLEANINGS

Martin Fatroski, a Well Known Character, Died Suddenly at the Farmer's Hotel Today.

PNEUMONIA WAS THE CAUSE

THE AUTHORITIES HAVE CHARGE OF
THE REMAINS, BUT ARE TRYING TO LOCATE THE RELATIVES.

An Outcast Who Made Himself Agreeable to and Stood in Well With the Local Police Force for Many Years.

Martin Fatroski, a well known character of this town, died at the Farmers' hotel at about eight o'clock this morning under circumstances that led to sensational reports. An investigation has shown that there was nothing of a sensational character in the case and that the man died from natural causes, probably acute pneumonia.

The deceased was sitting on a bench in the hotel this morning and complained of a severe pain in his chest. A cup of coffee was tendered him, but he declined it. A few minutes later he slipped from the bench to the floor and rolled over upon his back, dead. Those who were present say his death was peaceful and apparently without the slightest pain.

Fatroski was a Polish man about thirty years of age and has been a well-known figure of the town for many years. He had been a favorite with the police and other authorities for a long time and it is said that some of the unlawful gangs among the foreign classes of the town were broken up through his assistance. Fatroski was not the kind of a man who furnished an example for the rising generation. He was shiftless and asked an existence by playing the violin at Polish and Lithuanian weddings and other celebrations. When these opportunities failed he sought lodgings at the look up and for a year or more was looked upon by the police as janitor of the place. He was a quiet, easy going man and some of the police of the past few years placed implicit confidence in him. Taken as a whole he was a very odd character. He was a steady and hard drinker, yet never caused the police any trouble. On the contrary, he always seemed of much use to them, whether drunk or sober, and seemed to take delight in serving them. For some time he was janitor of Justice Toomey's court in the First ward, keeping the place clean and in order in return for the privilege of lodging in the office. He alternated his lodging here with those in the look up and seemed contented in either place. During the last few weeks he was a guest at the Farmer's hotel. He had accommodations there until his money ran out about a week or so ago, when he changed his lodgings to the stable. Poor Director Derr was notified of the case and if relatives do not claim the remains by tonight he will have them interred at the expense of the county. It is said the deceased has two brothers in the town and efforts were being made to locate them today.

In Distress.

Chief Burgess Burns and Health Officer Miles discovered a case of distress on East Raspberry alley this morning. The sufferers are Thomas Clemmens, an Englishman, and his family. His four-month-old child died of pneumonia this morning and he was without means to provide for a funeral, or purchase food. He has a wife and three small children still depending upon him. Poor Director Derr has provided for the burial of the corpse and friends of the family have been notified of the condition of affairs. Clemmens is a miner. He has been out of work for two weeks. His last pay for two weeks amounted to $6.50 and he was obliged to pay $4.50 of that for rent.

Obituary.

John J. Slatery, of Tuscarora, died at that place Monday night. He was an uncle of John Slatery, the shoe dealer of town, and at one time was very prominent in the political circles of this county. John R. Phillips, who died of pneumonia at Mahanoy City on Monday night, was well known here, having been a resident of the town for several years. During the past eight years he was employed as clerk by H. Ball, the Mahanoy City lumber dealer. The funeral takes place at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

"INDEX'S" SENTIMENTS.

He Pens Several Additional Paragraphs of Interest to Our Readers.

To suppose that eight of the fifteen Councilmen shall do all the work of the Borough Council on committees seems preposterous and no fair-minded man would expect them to do it. Political squabbles should cease with the organization of Council and the business of the borough should be strictly and impartially attended to. Because the favorites of certain Councilmen failed to receive appointments is no reason for continued stubbornness. The Councilmen should remember the oath they have taken and act accordingly. If the Citizens members of Council persist in their refusal to serve on committees simply because one of their members is obnoxious to them they take a wrong course and will not be sustained by the party, because such a refusal simply lacks a brief formality to make their situation equal to a resignation from Council. In saying this I believe I voice the sentiment of a majority of the Citizens party.

Admitting that Councilman James did wrong in deserting the other Citizens members in the organization of Council, there is no reason in trying to cut off Mr. James in his declared determination to do everything for the best interests of the people. Why attempt to drive him to other pastures? It is certain policy to save everything possible from a wreck.

We have every reason to believe the Board of Health, through its efficient officer, Mr. Miles, will meet the demands of the public in stamping out nuisances. There is one very important duty the citizens of the town seem to neglect and that is their duty to make complaint of nuisances to the officers of the board. Anonymous communications will not receive attention. If you are bothered by a nuisance place your complaint at the president's office, or send a note with your name attached, and it will receive prompt attention. INDEX.

If your dealer tells you that something else is "just as good" as Doan's Ointment for Hives, Pin Worms, Itching Piles, or other itchiness of the skin, tell him you want the original. It is safe; never failing.

Women in the Work.

The Stroudsburg Times will celebrate its first anniversary on April 1 in a most unique manner. The women of that town will get out the paper. Discussions on timely topics will be presented and they will undertake to give a full list of deaths, information on court house and county affairs, the town and criminal news—in fact, they will act just as regular newspaper men.
