> Five Men Arrested and Held Under Bail for Destroying the Fence of the Base Ball Grounds-Other Local Happenings.

Deputy Coroner Manley and a jury last night held an inquest on the body of the Pole who died suddenly at the Farmer's hotel, on North Main street, yesterday morning. It was held at the hotel. Dr. S. C. Spalding and George F. Leitzel, the proprietor of the hotel, were the principal witnesses. The latter made a statement of the case substantially as given in the HERALD yesterday. The man had been omplaining of not feeling well for pains in the chest.

Dr. Spalding testified that he made an examination of the body and was of the opinion that death was caused by la grippe and influenza. There were no marks of violence upon the body. The jury rendered a verdict in accordance with the facts as stated by the doctor.

There has been some discussion as to the proper name of the deceased. He was known to the authorities as Martin Fatroski. A correction is made by Martin Fadrowski, the East Centre street cigar dealer, who says his identity has been confounded with that of the deceased on account of the similarity of the names Mr. Fadrowski says the deceased's proper name was Martin Wierbicki. third name was furnished at the inquest, the deceased being designated as Martin Berbiskey. The remains remained at the hotel until last night when they were claimed by a stepbrother of the deceased and taken to a residence on Line street.

The Real Estate Market.

An important real estate deal was con summated today. L. J. Wilkinson, the South Main street dry goods merchant, has become the owner of the property located at the southeast corner of Main and Lloyd streets. Although Mr. Wilkinson becomes the immediate owner of the place, he does not take actual possession until April 1st, 1896, as the lease of Mr. George W. Keiter, the present occu Mr. Wilkinson says that when he gets possession he will begin improvements property entirely and he will establish in it the largest dry goods house in the county. Another story will be added to the building, the lodge room will be abolished and an imposing corner entrance will be made. It will be one of the most attractive buildings in the town. The property has one of the best locations in the town and is especially desirable as a site for a large business building. At least five townsmen in addition to Mr. Wilkinson were trying to make the purchase. The stables at the Market street end of the property will be re-

"OUR BOYS."

This Clever Comedy as Seen at Ferguson's Theatre Last Night. Each performance of the Clair Pates

Company has been far above the average, but last night this excellent organization fairly outdone themselves in the very funny comedy of "Our Boys." Every person on the stage was specially suited to the characters assumed, and there was not one who did not make the most of their work. The "boys" were well taken by William Nichols and Albert Livings ton, and the "girls" were in the monthan capable hands of Miss Virginia Bray and Miss Eva Taylor, and through out the play these excellent artists caused merriment and pathos to move the audience to both laughter and tears. The character lines were in the hands of W. J Clark and Miss Julia Hanchett. Mr. Davenport, as the retired butterman, kept the audience convulsed with his assumption of aristocratic dignity, and his num erous blunders. As Belinda, Miss Florence Hadley presented an element of comedy which was a surprise to those who had seen her in other and more refined characters. Her song of "Miss Dunn' received repeated encores. Taken as a whole this was certainly one of the best comedies presented in Shenandoah this season and is a great credit to this com pany, as in the bands of less capable and experienced artists it would not be as effectual. It was the intention to present everal days. He complained of severe tonight the great drama, "Infatuation," by the author of "Jim, the Penman," but sary effects this play will not be given until tomorrow (Friday) evening, and as there has been a universal demand for a repetition of "The Arabian Nights," that very funny comedy will be presented. A number of new specialties will be intro duced, and besides the song of "Mary" and "Jane," Miss Hadley will sing severa new ones. No doubt all who saw this play before will be present and those who did not should certainly attend as it is one of the best comedies ever presented in Shot the Wrong Dog.

B. J. Yost, the local hunting dog admirer, has met with another misfortune. When Jeff kept a barber shop he was put to an expense on an average of once a week in replacing the large pane of glass in his shop window which one of his dogs destroyed with the frequency stated by jumping through the pane to follow his 'master. Jeff became famous as a very unfortunate dog owner. When he gave up the shop it was quarters were first occupied about hoped his luck would change, but it two months ago and at the time they didn't. Now he is losing his dogs. Sev eral days ago one of the animals behaved tself in such a manner that the owner decided to have it shot. He left a message at Justice Cardin's office instructing a constable to call for the dog and end size, to the rear of the building. The its existence. Constable Boland was detailed for the deed. He found two hunting dogs at Yost's house. Both animals were profuse in their welcome of the officer and be concluded that each deserved shooting, but as the death warrant was issued for only one he proceeded to judge the actions of the animals to decide which facturers of hats and caps on North was the guilty one. After some reflection he threw a rope over one of the animals' neck and hauled it off to the shooting grounds. When Mr. Yost returned home he found the wrong dog had been shot. He has since killed the condemned animal. Jeff took the affair good naturedly and laughed with the given. constable over it today.

Opening of Springs Brings With it Tidings of More Prosperous Times.

THE HAT FACTORIES BUSY.

ONE OF THE COMPANIES HAS COM-MENCED TO ENLARGE ITS PLANT TO MEET THE DEMANDS.

The Outlook for the Balance of th Year is Very Promising and Additional Operatives are in Demand.

The spring indications in the local industrial field are exceedingly favorable -that is, the prospects of the home manufacturing establishments are bright, much more so then the output at the mines. All but two of the latter places continue working six three-quarter days a week, but the idleness of two of the principal collieries, Shenandoah City and West Shenandoah, is a drawback to what would otherwise be a pretty good state of affairs so far as the mining operations are concerned. The days when mining operations could be classed as prosperous so far as they relate to the wage earners, went by several years ago and there is little hope that they will ever return. Full time at the collieries is a matter of history. The present system of opera tions is such that full time will quite likely remain a matter of history to the miner and his laborer. When the market is not blocked with coal the companies keep the product on their hands for higher prices; when the demand and prices are good some of the collieries are found to be in need of repairs and at no time are all the collieries given the benefit of a simultaneous schedule of full time. If a crowded market, low prices, or repairs, are not in the road, then some place is declared unprofitable, or worked out. By some hook, or crook, the opera tions are so regulated that the good old times cannot reach us.

But the industrial outlook so far as it applies to the home manufacturing concerns is quite the reverse. It is such as to afford unlimited gratification to those who have been in the ranks of the advocates of home industry and those who had the courage to put their beliefs in practice. Take for instance the Schuyl klll Hat & Cap Manufacturing Company This concern started a few years ago with about half a dozen operatives in very limited quarters on North White street, It is now located in a large brick building on East Coal street and has an immense force of hands employed. The new quarters were first occupied about were supposed to be large enough for all requirements, but the company now finds itself again pressed for quarters and yesterday a force of men were put to work to erect a two-story addition, 30x40 feet in company has sufficient orders in hand to keep its present force of operatives working full time until January 1st, 1896. The force will be increased as soon as the new structure is completed.

Report of good times also comes from the New York Progress Company, manu-Bowers street. This company has also met with prosperity and is extending its business rapidly. Its orders are multiplying daily and there is a demand for operatives. In another column of this paper is an advertisement calling for a number of giris, to whom steady work will be The Shenaudoah Hat & Cap Manufacturing Company is another industry that has realized that great things from little acorns grow. This company has a paper box factory in connection with its plant and the former is kept busy keeping up with the demand for boxes required for the hats and caps the factory turns out. May the evidences of prosperity increase and may Shenandoah hats and caps spread throughout the country.
