PROPERTY IMPROVEMENTS.

The Price of Real Estate Shows no Perceptive Diminution.

The recent transfer of the property at the southeast corner of Main and Lloyd streets, has caused a feeling among local property holders favorable to high prices for their respective properties. The sum paid is said to have been $18,000, and the property was owned by the J. R. Reber estate. Up to within a short time ago $11,000 was offered, and it was generally supposed at the time the figure was too high. The executors, however, held on and by the deal mentioned secured the additional $7,000.

If the ideas of the new proprietor are carried out it will cost from $5,000 to $7,000 more to make the improvements.

I was of the opinion, and so expressed it in this column, that after the Harlington property changed hands at $37,000 there would be a drop in the local real estate market. The Wilkinson deal has slightly changed my mind in this respect. I know of three other properties on Main street, one of them a corner location, that are held from $16,000 to $18,000 each.

When you take into consideration the original cost of the properties on our principal thoroughfare, and what they have subsequently been sold for and held at today, the prices appear marvelous. Twenty years ago wise ones confidently predicted that the bottom would drop out of the town, but recent events fail to substantiate the prediction. These same properties, some years ago, could have been purchased for one third less than is demanded for them today.

The new dwellings of C. E. Titman, on West Oak street, are about finished and they are marvels of beauty and convenience. They are nicely situated, high and dry, and are substantially built, having all modern conveniences, including steam heat. Mr. Titman was undoubtedly led to build houses of the latest modern architecture because of the clamor that there were few really convenient dwelling houses in the town. He has certainly succeeded, for which he has the thanks of the tenants. Other landlords could follow the example with profit to themselves and comfort to their tenants. A few hundred dollars expended in this manner would greatly enhance the value of their holdings. Two of the three new Titman dwellings are now occupied by T. J. Davies and C. G. Clauser respectively.

The Davies property at the northwest corner of Jardin and Lloyd streets, is also undergoing a change. The store front has been torn out and the building converted into a dwelling. The front will be adorned by a neat porch, and the interior is undergoing many changes. When completed it will make one of the most desirable dwellings in the town, and will be occupied by Councilman C. T. Straughn.

GOLD BY THE TONS.

Australian Facts Furnished by a Newspaper Sent to a Shenandoah Man.

In connection with the reports and discussions concerning the recent discovery of gold in Australia, the HERALD, through the courtesy of Justice John G. Davis of town, is able to glean some facts from The Age, a newspaper published at Melbourne, Australia. This paper states that the Londonderry gold mine at Coolgardie, recently purchased from the discoverers for $500,000, cannot be exhausted of its golden store in a whole generation of mining operations. The Earl of Fingall, who went from Coolgardie to London to float the mine assured the shareholders that the reef where now exposed would give 6,000 ounces to the ton, and that after it had been sunk for 20 feet it would then, though not so rich, yield 600 ounces to the ton. In another item the paper says that at an operation in Coolgardie known as Mount Burgess 268 tons of ore were crushed and yielded 577 ounces of retorted gold. In another mine called the St. George North, a fresh reef, two feet thick, of solid quartz was struck. It showed free gold and assayed at 5 ounces. Judging from these reports Australia is as great a gold country as ever.

ON PEARY'S EXPEDITION.

Perfect Reliance Was Placed in Paine's Celery Compound.

When I was selected by Lieut. Peary to accompany him on his trip to the Arctic regions to try and find a way to the north pole," says Mr. James W. Davidson, in The Fourth Estate, "it was partly because of my strong, healthy constitution, and his belief that I could endure the fatigue and danger incident to the trip. I had been associated with him as his business manager on his lecturing tour, and was on terms of the greatest intimacy with him.

"When the ship Falcon left New York on her trip northwards it had among the stores several cases of Paine's celery compound. The reputation of that medicine was well established, so that it was the most natural thing in the world that the members of the party, and they comprised men from nearly every walk in life, from common sailors to men of science, should desire to use it.

"The record of our perilous trip to Camp Annularis is too well known to need repetition. Once in camp we naturally took an inventory of our possessions, and I was exceedingly glad to find Paine's celery compound. The medicine chest was open to all, and we were free to take from it what we thought advisable. I, in company with several others, selected some of the compound, taking a bottle of it to my cabin, knowing that it would be handy when wanted. Nor was I mistaken, for the excessive cold weather soon had its effects, and I began to be troubled in a number of ways. In every case whenever I felt the slightest indisposition, I used the compound, and found relief.

"One thing noticeable in the Arctic region was that the cold weather made us all exceedingly nervous. We became irritable and cross. Our nerves were all unstrung, and naturally it affected our health. I talked the matter over with some of the others, and made up my mind that possibly the celery compound would be beneficial, for I knew that it was used for nervous disorders at home. Well, sir, we tried it, and I must say that it helped every one of us.

"When the long night of six months came on and we were in darkness, we found that the effects were very depressing. I imagine, if you can, living for six months in darkness such as occurs here every night, and you can readily understand how we were situated. It is a wonder that some of us did not go mad. We had not very much to divert our attention, and the effect was something like solitary confinement in a dark cell.

"I have used Paine's celery compound for a dozen illnesses as a person is liable to have at any time, and especially in that desolate country. It has always helped me, and I should be pleased to have more of it should I go north again. I do not know of any one thing that I can say more of than Paine's celery compound. It certainly is a great medicine, and I am an advocate of it."
