TERRIBLY MANGLED!

A Miner Probably Injured Fatally in the Ellengowan Mine Today.

HURT BY A BLAST OF ROCK.

THE VICTIM WAS LEANING AGAINST THE MATERIAL WHEN THE CHARGE WAS EXPLODED.

His Right Eye Blown Out, Left Hand Shattered and a Compound Fracture of the Skull Sustained. How It Happened.

A sad accident occurred in one of the slopes of the Ellengowan colliery this morning by which a Lithuanian miner of town named Charles Nork sustained injuries that will probably result fatally. Nork and his brother, Simon, and Joe Kalatis were blasting rock in the slope to "clean up" the place and had prepared a shot. After waiting a while for the blast to take place Charles Nork went to the prepared hole to re-ignite the squib, supposing the light given it had spent itself. Nork rested his left hand against the rock and put his right forward to light the squib. At the same moment, and before he could apply the lights, the blast took place, the squib having held fire. The effect was terrible. Nork was thrown back several feet with the debris and was picked up in a terrible condition. His right eye was blown out, the left hand hung in shreds from the wrist, and there was a compound fracture of the skull. The injured man was carried out of the mine and conveyed by ambulance to the Lehigh Valley depot in town, where he received attendance from Dr. Hamilton, who is the resident surgeon for the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company. The doctor said the victim's chances for recovery were very few.

Notwithstanding the severe nature of his injuries Nork retained consciousness. He suffered intensely and his moans and cries were so pitiful that they moved many people at the depot to tears. The victim was sent to the Miners' Hospital by train.

Nork resides on East Oak street with his wife and young child. He is a son in law of Mrs. Yodkois, who keeps the hotel near the Lehigh depot. He is spoken of as a very respectable and industrious man and is evidently very popular with the better class of Lithuanian people of the town.

Baby Actions.

"Dick" Morgan in Matranoy City Record. Our borough authorities and school board appear to have a very lively time of it in their sessions of late years. We think that it is about time that they displayed a little common sense in their make up, as their baby actions sometimes are a disgrace to a town of our size and standing. If they cannot perform the business for which they were elected without casting aspersions on each other's honesty of purpose in whatever duty they perform, then let them resign. To get up and as much as call one another liars is a disgrace to the body of people they represent.

JUSTICE'S COURT INCIDENT

A MAN FROM MAHANAY PLANE WITH A THREE-PLY NAME GITS INTO TROUBLE

A Pleasing Gathering at Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Beddall's Residence Last Evening—Celebrated the Silver Anniversary of their Marriage.

George Daniel Bobb is a resident of Mahanoy Plane. He paid a visit to town and made frequent visits to cafes, which resulted in an accumulation of more intoxicants than George Daniel could carry without tiring his judgment.

When passing the barber shop that is located under the Paermer's hotel he imagined that somebody shouted at and insulted him. George Daniel descended the stairway leading to the shop, drew a loaded revolver from his right hip pocket and pointed the muzzle at the window in the door, muttering that he intended to shoot or kill somebody. A young man who was about to leave the shop and found himself confronted by the revolver, fell back badly shocked with fright. Bobb didn't shoot, however. He seemed to be debating whether, or not, he should pull the trigger when two young men from the shop pounced upon him and confiscated the revolver. Bobb was then turned over to Policeman Thomas Lee.

When before Justice Williams Bobb behaved in a very eccentric manner. He declared he was George Daniel Bobb, of Mahanoy Plane, and that he had forgotten more law than all the justices and polices of Shenandoah ever knew. Notwithstanding four witnesses appeared against him, he denied that he used or had a revolver and said all the witnesses lied, but when Justice Williams remarked that as there was no claimant for the revolver in question he would keep it for his own use, Bobb made a very vigorous protest. While considerably under the influence of drink Bobb seemed to retain sufficient intelligence to be technical and to some pointed questions he took exception. Sometimes he would say "that is my business," and at others, "I overrule your question." He made the justice impatient and $300 bail was demanded. Bobb then turned to swearing, and otherwise offending the justice and the amount of the bail was increased to $400. This did not subdue George Daniel and finally the justice told Officer Lee to "take him to the lockup, and handcuff him, too, he's too smart to run at large." On the way to the lockup George Daniel seemed to sober up suddenly and consented to give some information concerning himself. The result was the summoning of a relative and a conference that resulted in Bobb being discharged after payment of the costs.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Beddall Tendered a Surprise Last Evening.

When Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Beddall returned to their home on South Jardin street last evening after a visit to friends at Port Carbon they were very agreeably surprised by a number of their friends, who called upon the couple and in a most pleasing manner reminded them that it was the twenty fifth, or silver, anniversary of their marriage. The affair had been so quietly arranged that Mr. and Mrs. Beddall did not have an inkling of it until almost the very moment the guests arrived.

The evening was spent in a most enjoyable manner. There were many games of different kinds and vocal and instrumental music and recitations. The latter were given by Miss Mahala Fairchild and Mr. Thomas Baird, and piano solos were given by Mrs. W. N. Ehrhart. Refreshments were served and wedding cake in small boxes was served as souvenirs of the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Beddall were recipients of a number of presents in silver.
