A BATTLE FOR TAXES

Two Poles Put Up a Fight at the Lehigh Valley Railroad Depot.

IT WAS A MIDNIGHT STRUGGLE IN WHICH THE WOULD-BE JUMPERS WERE VANQUISHED.

Chief of Police Tosh Engages in a Wrestling Match With a Powerful and Plucky Antagonist and Wins With the Nippers.

The Chief of Police, Tax Collector, a Constable, citizen, and two Poles who were trying to get out of the town without paying taxes, had a lively time at the Lehigh Valley depot last night. The Poles intended to slip out of town on the midnight train, but were prevented from doing so. Chief Tosh took one of the men in custody and Collector Scanlan and Adam Mort took charge of the other. Both men showed fight and made up their minds not to surrender without a good, hard struggle. They were short, but very powerful men and made matters lively for a while.

Tosh had his hands full. The man he had was like an enraged lion and fought like a demon. Tosh had hold of the man by both lapels of the coat and in the struggle both went down upon the depot platform with the policeman under his antagonist. The Pole struggled fiercely to get away, but did not strike any blows. Tosh made what might be called a sleeping battle. He remained contentedly upon his back with a firm grip on his antagonist with one hand. The other hand contained the nippers and he worked it around until he finally got the nipper upon one of the wrists of the Pole. Then the officer made a struggle to get upon his feet, and he succeeded. With the nippers on the Pole was like an enraged bull with a broken leg and he was ultimately obliged to give up and walk to the lockup. Meanwhile the other man was making battle royal with Scanlan and Mort. The men struggled up and down the depot platform and out upon the railway tracks and back again repeatedly. Finally Constable Giblin put in an appearance and the second man was finally overcome and placed in a cell. Both men made settlement with the collector this morning.

Tax Collector Scanlan is determined that no one shall escape paying taxes by "jumping the town" if he can get notice in time and if fighting will prevent it, and when it comes to fighting the would-be "jumper" is bound to be vanquished. There have been a number of skirmishes very much like the one last night, and the "jumpers" have always been beaten and have had the costs of the constables called into the skirmishes to pay in addition to the taxes.

Mad Dog Scare.
Special to EVENING HERALD.

GIRARDVILLE, April 12.—A large black dog went mad here this morning and created great excitement. Fortunately it did not get a chance to bite anybody. A miner shot and hit the dog, but did not kill it. At times the animal would roll in agony and then make rushes at the people who gathered. The dog was frothing at the mouth and there is no doubt about it being a case of hydrophobia. The animal was clubbed to death.

SILVER QUESTION DEBATE.

GOOD GATHERING IN THE REPUBLICAN LEAGUE ROOMS LAST NIGHT TO HEAR THE DISCUSSIONS.

All the P. & R. Collieries Are Idle Today and Will Remain Idle Until Next Tuesday—West Shenandoah May Resume.

There was a large attendance in the rooms of the Shenandoah Republican League last evening to hear the debate on the silver question. The subject of discussion was "Resolved, that the free and unlimited coinage of silver would be a benefit to the United States." The debate was opened by Justice M. J. Lawlor for the affirmative and he was followed by H. E. Dengler for the negative, which was answered by J. H. Pomeroy, and James R. Lewis followed with an argument for the negative side. The debate lasted an hour and a half. No vote was taken, or decision rendered, the object of the debate being merely to enlighten members of the club on both sides of the subject. The question was very ably presented by all the speakers. The arguments were listened to very attentively and were evidently very much appreciated. Those who failed to avail themselves of the opportunity missed a treat. The debate was one of a series the League proposes to hold. They will be a source of both instruction and entertainment.

Philosophy.
"Cleanliness is next to godliness." Fay's Steam Laundry proves the above.

Crowds Disperse.

Complainants having been made of idlers crowding about corners and stores the police last night made an effort to abate the nuisance with excellent success. Chief of Police Tosh said that all the people spoken to behaved like gentlemen and left the places, and he does not think there will be any more trouble from this source. The Beddall and Merchants' Bank corners and the Grand Union Tea Company's place were not made rendezvous last night.
