CRUELLY DECEIVED

Surprising and Startling Situation a Young Woman Found Herself In.

UNKNOWN RIVAL APPEARS

THE VICTIM APPEARED IN CHURCH TO HEAR THE BAN OF HER MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED.

But, to Her, Consternation, She Heard the Betrothal of Her Lover With Another Proclaimed by the Priest.

There was a sensation among members of the Greek Catholic church yesterday, when a young woman who attended service in the morning being placed in the embarrassing position of hearing the name of a previously unknown rival announced as the betrothed of her lover.

The young woman is employed as a domestic by a family residing on West Centre street. A young man has been paying attentions to her for some time and the friends of both parties had for some time looked upon a matrimonial alliance as a foregone conclusion. Last week it was agreed that the ban would be pronounced in the Greek Catholic church yesterday morning. The young woman was in attendance with her brother and a number of friends and arrangements had been made for the wedding ceremony to take place last night. The astonishment and distress of the unfortunate young woman may easily be imagined when, at the appointed hour, the priest announced the betrothal of her swain to another young woman, and one she did not suspect was a rival. Of course considerable excitement followed the announcement, but there was no open demonstration until the young woman and her friends left the church. A consultation was held and the young woman's friends decided to invoke the aid of the law. Accordingly they called upon Justice Williams last night, but he could give them no consolation. He said the only relief they could get was through an action for damages for breach of promise, but as the faithless swain had no property a suit would be a waste of time. He also reasoned that the young woman should feel rejoiced that she had not married the deceitful swain. This view was also taken by the law seekers and they left the office with their minds made up to make the best of a bad bargain.

The Railway Accident.

EDITOR EVENING HERALD:—Friday evening I read an account of the electric railway accident in your paper and wish to make a statement. I was on my way to Mahanoy City with a large load of furniture and when I got to the company houses below Bridge street I saw the car coming, and I at once crossed the tracks. I drove my horses to get to the broadest part of the street, but before I could get there the car was close to me. My team tried, of course, to get out of the road from the car, as it was coming at a rate much exceeding four miles an hour, and when they could not turn to the left on account of there being no room, and they turned as quick as a flash upon the track. Before I could get them from the track the car caught the pole of the wagon, knocking the righthand horse down and turned wagon, horses and all around before the car stopped. William Hehn is laid up in bed and I was knocked from the wagon, senseless, but was not hurt. The one horse was cut a great deal, but no deep wounds. If the motorman had reduced the rate of his car it would not have happened.

PLUGGED A SEWER PIPE!

EFFECTIVE AND SUCCESSFUL METHOD TAKEN BY COUNCILMEN TO FIND THE OWNER OF A SEWER.

The Erratic Fire Alarm System Stirrs Up the People and Makes the Firemen Swear by Its Irregular Work.

The Councilmen have hit upon an effective measure to locate the responsibility of damages to streets by defective sewers and drains. Constant oozing of filth at the corner of Oak street and Pear alley caused the street at that place to become in very bad condition and on Saturday Councilmen Dougherty and Kane decided to take steps to abate the nuisance. The trouble arose from an old private sewer line and the Councilmen were unable to find out who owned the line. Exhaustive inquiry threw no light on the matter.

The Councilmen hired a man to open the street and, after finding the break, ordered him to plug the pipe. This was done and within a few hours after the owners of the sewer became known. It was found that the line was from the Robbins and Beddall properties on West Centre street. Today negotiations are pending between the owners of these properties and the owners of the large sewer on West Centre street, with a view to allowing the former to connect with the line. There is a hitch in the negotiations owing to the applicants considering the terms for connection too high. The conditions under which the sewer line was laid contain a clause guarding against exorbitant charges for connection and there is little doubt that all will be well. Messrs. Robbins and Beddall applied at the last meeting of Council for permission to run a sewer from their properties down Pear alley, but the request was not granted, Council being opposed to a multiplicity of private sewerage lines and having decided that where suitable and convenient sewerage can be secured through pipes already laid connections with them must be made. The more the sewerage question is agitated, the more pronounced becomes the reasoning that joint sewerage movements are cheap at any cost and that all people find this out in time.

STILL OUT OF ORDER.

The Electric Fire Alarm System Has Fun With the People.

The electric fire alarm system had more fun with the people on Saturday, when it was still out of order. At about one o'clock in the afternoon the bell tolled "one" and set the people thinking. Some thought the bell had been arranged to toll the hour of the day. The firemen were puzzled, because the alarm the bell tolled did not correspond with the number of any box. After some inquiry all who gave attention to the matter settled with the conclusion that the system had not been repaired.

At about half past three o'clock Saturday afternoon the bell again tolled. This time the indicators displayed the figures "34," and supposing the alarm to be a bona fide one, the three fire companies hastened to the corner of Main and Poplar streets, where box 34 is located. There was considerable swearing when the firemen discovered that there was no fire and that they had again been fooled on account of the alarm system being out of order. The system suspended operations yesterday and had not been heard from up to the time of going to press today.
