Some Expect More of the Police Than the Law Allows—Reminders to Authors of Anonymous
Correspondence.

Chief of Police Tosh's raid on one of the First ward notorious resorts has served as an upheaval and now demands are coming in from all quarters of the town for a continuance of the good work. Today the HERALD received three communications designating places that should be pulled and giving the names of occupants, but as the letters were anonymous they were consigned to the waste basket.

While the raid must be accepted as an excellent move by the Chief of Police and it is natural to expect that he will continue the good work wherever there is an opening, the people must not jump to hasty conclusions as to the extent of his jurisdiction. It is quite true that a number of disorderly houses are in existence, but it is only under certain circumstances that the police can act. It may be relied upon, however, that yesterday morning's raid will have the effect of making the proprietors of the resorts respect the rights of the law abiding people in the future more than they have in the past and not allow the frequenters of the places to disturb the public peace.

The Chief of Police has made an excellent resolution in his determination to raid all questionable places on the first provocation and would do well by following it up with the arrest of any questionable characters who make a display of themselves to the annoyance and detriment of respectable people while parading the streets.

One of the communications received by the HERALD states that if the police keep their eyes open they can pull some houses not generally reputed as disorderly places and the drag net will contain some of our very prominent and influential people. With such general statements the police have nothing to do. The people who yearn for such raids have a plain duty to perform: if they know of disorderly houses let them designate the locations and their proofs to the Chief of Police. More than this, they need not expect that the HERALD will not publish any communication that is not presented in good faith, and the mere signing of some prominent citizens name to a letter will not be accepted without investigation, as at times it has been found that some unprincipled people who were afraid to father certain communications have used the names of other people as signatures without authority.

A Brute.

We have been reliably informed that there resides at the west end of town a semblance of a man who is a fit subject for incarceration in the county jail. This brute makes a practice of beating his wife almost nightly, and her appeals for mercy are frequently heard by the neighbors. One day last week he seized a broom stick and beat her so badly that the neighbors proposed to summon the police but the poor woman was afraid of her life to prefer charges against him. His dislike for his wife is said to be due to the infatuation of another woman, who he takes out riding frequently, while his wife is at home hard at work earning a few pennies to keep the miserable wretch. The neighbors are up in arms, and unless the brutal assaults are discontinued this man will, perhaps ere long occupy a cell where he can repent at leisure.

"Shore Acres."

The greatest of American plays, "Shore Acres," with entire new scenery and a fine company of players will be the attraction at Ferguson's theatre this evening, May 22nd. This beautiful play, which was written by James A. Herne, the author of "Hearts of Oak," had an entire season's run at Daly's theatre, New York, and a six months' run in Boston. All who have seen "Shore Acres" admit that no better or purer play has ever been written. Arrangements are now under way to give "Shore Acres" a London production. Manager Ferguson guarantees a perfect production of Mr. Herne's play, which deserves drawing a crowded house.

THE NEW GLEANINGS. The Busy Store,

Getting Ready to Put the Shenandoah City Colliery in Operation.

BREAKER HAS BEEN TESTED

MR. VEITH AND THE MASTER MECHANIC AND MASTER CARPENTER MADE A THOROUGH INSPECTION.

Arrangements Being Made for an Abatement of the Nuisance Arising From the Sewer Line on West Coal Street.

The efforts to get the improved breaker of the Shenandoah City colliery into operation at an early date are meeting with excellent results. John Veith, the mining superintendent for the P. & R. C. & I. Co., Christ. Muehlhoff, master carpenter, and George Simmons, master mechanic for the same company, visited the place yesterday in company with Division Superintendent John Skeath and spent several hours in making an inspection of the improvements. They found everything in excellent condition and order and the breaker will no doubt be ready for operations on the first of June. It was operated for a short while as a test yesterday and the officials said everything worked very satisfactorily.

It is now quite reasonable to suppose that the much-talked-of nuisance on West Coal street, arising from a sewer used by a number of property owners in common not being large enough, will soon be abated. The complaints have come from Mr. Knipple and others, who say that on account of the pipe not being able to take all that flows to it their cellars become flooded with filth. The owners of property connected with the sewer at points above the properties of the complainants say that the difficulty lies in the fact that the Knipple portion of the sewer lies flat. Still, if the developments forecasted by Health Officer Miles today are realized, the correctness of either theory as to the cause of the trouble will not be material. Mr. Miles says he has been at work on the case and it is pretty well settled that the sewer is to be cut off at a point above the Knipple property and then continued by a new course to the borough limits, which will abate all public nuisance arising from the line and the people connected with the cut off end will be obliged to look after it. If any more nuisances arise from it they can be only of a private character and will have to be abated by the people connected, either by enlarging, plugging, or tearing out the sewer. It is hoped for the sake of general relief that some course to settle the controversy will be speedily adopted. It has monopolized much valuable time of the borough officials for the past two months on account of the intricate propositions involved as to whether the nuisance was a private, or a public one.

If the borough authorities are not very careful they will have on their hands a very dangerous trap at the Lehigh Valley railroad on East Centre street. Attention has been called to it by a number of citizens. It arises from the improvements now being made on the property on which the large storehouses of J. J. Franey are to be erected and particular by the pavement that has been laid on the Centre street side of the property. The grade adopted leaves the east, or lower end of the pavement about eight inches above a narrow space intervening between the pavement and Lehigh Valley tracks. Some remedy should be suggested at an early day, as the drop is at the foot of a very steep incline and should any one make a misstep there serious injury will result. Either the grade of the railroad must be raised, or an incline must be made from the end of the pavement, or the latter must be lowered.

THE ANNIVERSARY SOUVENIR.

An Issue of the "Herald" That No One Should Miss.

On Tuesday, the 28th of May, the HERALD will issue its handsome silver anniversary souvenir. It will be the first issue of a newspaper in Schuylkill county to contain a combined historical, biographical and industrial edition. It will be comprehensive, artistic and instructive, embracing the early history of our valley, its progress and the development of its wealth in coal. The issue will represent several weeks of conscientious and faithful work and if the labor is crowned with the approbation of the public it will be ample for the publishers.

Interesting biographical sketches of our leading and prominent citizens will be among the features of the edition. Another feature will be a complete history of our public schools, an accurate account of all important steps taken to establish and promote their welfare and the progress they have made; names of all school directors, treasurers, collectors, superintendents, principals, teachers and graduates, with a brief reference to their present locations and pursuits; also illustrations of all the prominent streets of the towns in Schuylkill county. The edition will be printed on excellent book paper, with the highest priced ink, excellent half-tone cuts and first class workmanship in every particular. No doubt many will wish to send extra copies to their friends in other cities, and to meet this expected demand a supply will be printed. Extra copies of the edition can be ordered at this office at 5 cents per copy. People wishing to be represented in this edition have but a few more days to consider, as we will positively close our forms on Saturday evening. We have done all that can be expected of us. The business people must do the rest.

For bronchitis, asthma or kindred trouble of the throat or lungs, take Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, a household specific for all these complaints.
