HARRINGTON REMOVED.

Refused to Send In His Resignation When Requested.

ANOTHER TO RUN THE WEATHER.

Though His Name Is Not Yet Announced. He Is Said to be a Man of Twenty Years' Experience as a Meteorologist, and Not a College Graduate,

Washington, July 3.—Prefessor Mark W. Harrington, chief of the weather bureau, has been relieved from duty, owing to a disagreement with Secretary Morton. A call was made on June 19 for Professor Harrington's resignation. He declined to resign, and was removed by the president. James F. Cook, chief clerk of the weather bureau, is acting head of the bureau until a successor to Professor Harrington, is appointed. The relations between Sepretary Morton and Professor Harrington, who was appointed from Michigan, are known to have been strained for many months, and correspondence be-tween them has been carried on only in

Soon after the change of administration Secretary Morton instituted an investiga-tion of the business affairs of the bureau. The results did not implicate Professor Harrington in any way, but it tended to increase the strained relations between the secretary and himself. For some time Professor Harrington has had practically nothing to do with the routine manage ment of the office.

The greatest secrecy is preserved by all the officials regarding the removal. "That is a matter," said Secretary Morton, "that belongs properly to the White House. Professor Harrington's commission bears the name of the president of the United States, and not of the secretary of agricoulture, and if there is anything to be stated in regard to this position it must come from the White House. Until some official announcement is made from the White House I have no communication

At the White House no positive information could be obtained. Mr. Pruden, the acting private secretary, said that he had no authority to make any statement what-

Professor Harrington himself said to day: "On the 19th of June the president asked for my resignation because of personal interests. I declined to give it on the score of public interests, and my removal followed promptly, taking effect July 1. The personal interests involved were discussed by me in my letter to the president, and I feel that I have not received just or considerate treatment with regard to them.

"Among the public interests which I had steadily in view were the preservation of the scientific corps and the protection of the bureau from the spollsman. When a scientific bureau descends to the four-year office holding plane it at once loses prestige and ceases to be a desirable post for competent men."

Professor Harrington was appointed from Michigan because of his long acquaintance with meteorological matters, having been for many years the editor of a journal devoted to that science. He was a member of the faculty of Ann Arbor uni-

It is learned that Professor Harrington's successor has been chosen, and the appointment is very likely to be announced this afternoon. His name has not so far been divulged, but it is known that a local forecaster who has been in the service for many years has been selected. Concerning the appointment Secretary Morton said:

The sole consideration in making the appointment will be to improve the efficiency of the forecasting work of the weather bureau. If the weather bureau cannot make forecasts that are to be credited, then it is not worth perpetuating, and therefore it is quite likely that the coming chief of the bureau will be taken up from the ranks of local forecasters and observers. In all probability he will be a man of about twenty years experience with executive ability, unimpeachable as a high reputation as a meterologist, and is He has never been recommended for the class, reliable companies, knew he was to be called until actually notified. I have every confidence that he will be one of the best officers we have had here for a long time."

ANOTHER TRAIN ROBBED

The Work Accomplished This Time by Three Highwaymen.

THE PASSENGERS CONTRIBUTED.

Getting Little from the Express and Mail Cars One of the Men West Through the Train, While His Pals of Watch on the Outside.

GRANT'S PASS, Ore., July 3.-The Southern Pacific overland train, north bound, was stopped at 10:15 p. m. by three high-waymen near Riddles, about thirty miles south of Roseberg, and thoroughly robbed. Sticks of dynamite were placed on the rails, which disabled the engine by blowing the flanges off the pony trucks, and brought the train to a stop.

Every car, from the express to the rear Pullman, was searched. Nothing was obtained from the express car, for there was no treasure on board. In the mail rar better success was met, and the Portfand, Tacoma, Seattle and Victoria, B. C., registered sacks were rifled. The passen registered sacks were rilled. The passengers were also searched thoroughly.

When the dynamite explosion brought the train to a standstill Conductor T. J. Kearney, who was in charge of the train, ran out, but was met by one of the bandits, who fired at him with a pistol, the builet grazing the conductor's head. The bandit then ordered the conductor to get bandit then ordered the conductor to get inside and stay there, an order which he was not slow in obeying, hiding himself in a Pullman closet, from which he saw one man patroling the bank which over-looked the train. Another bandit made Engineer Walls and Fireman Gray get off the engine and go to the express car, and ordered it opened. Express Messenger Donohue had taken out his way treasure at the first alarm and locked his box. This he reopened at the order of the robber.

The robber then ordered the engineer, fireman and expressmen to enter the mail car. Postal Clerk Herman gave up all the registered pouches, which the robber or dered cut open. He then ordered the railroad employes to ge to the passenger coaches and assist him in relieving the passengers of their valuables. They passed all who had the appearance of working-men, but made the others hold up their hands while they went through their pockets, the robber standing over them with a pistol.

Sanger in the Pullman gave up $400. Others contributed in amounts ranging Others contributed in amounts ranging from fairs 30. As aron as the cause of the train was known the passengers be ran hiding money and valuables, theowing them under seats, in hat rocks, and staffing bone and shoes, many afterwards digging it up and giving it away at the robber's request. A bridal souple in the day cash were the first passengers held up All dade money was taken. Both sat with hands up for an hour after the robbars left the exe.

R. E. Smith, special agent of the Pagnix Insurance company, of Hartforn that two friends, were in the l'uliman smoking room when they heard the first bonb. They looked out the window, and were told by the robbers, with many oaths, to put their heads inside, whereupon they piled over each other in the middle of the room to get away from shots. room to get away from shots. Soon after wards they ran to their berths and rolled in. After a long suspense a robber, with the engineer, fireman, express messenger.

porter and a tramp came along, and told them to "dig up." The robber asked the person at every berth, "Lady or gent?" Lower berths only were inspected. Ladies were not disturbed. A Berkley studentsound asleep in the Pullman knew nothing of the hold up until punched in the riks with a vistal and told to "dig up." the rits with a pistol and told to "dig up." He gave up everything, including a gold watch. The robber laughed and talked with the passengers while taking their valuables

The sheriff of Klamath county was on board with a prisoner. The robber appropriated the sheriff's pistol. None of the ladies in the car were molested. During the time the train was held, an hour and forty-five minutes, the robbers outside kept firing sticks of dynamite, to intimidate the passen ber had secured his booty he ordered the engineer to proceed north. He then shot out the headlight, fired five additional shots as a signal to his companions, and disappeared in the darkness. The engine was so badly disabled that it took three hours to reach Riddles, four miles distant. There is a force of about thirty men in pursuit of the robbers. The country is very wild and rugged, and the prospects of the capture of the bandits are not very favorable.

FERRY TAKEN TO AUBURN.

The Noted Train Robber Was Working Another Plan to Excape.

FISHKILL LANDING, N. Y., July 8.— Oliver Curtis Perry, the train robber, was transferred from the Matteswan insane asylum for insane criminals to the Auburn state prison last night. Superinten-dent Allison, of the asylum, having adjudged Perry recovered from his insanity and ordered his return to the state prison to finish his sentence of fifty-nine years. Perry left here on the New York Central at midnight for Auburn, in charge of Supervisor Samballs, of the asylum, and Keeper Patterson, of Auburn prison.

Perry said he was glad of the change. It has developed that shortly after Perry's return to the asylum, following his recent escape, he began making plans to again get away from the institution, and approached the keeper who was with him with offers of reward if he would carry letters out of the asylum for him, and also give him information about the location of various parts of the institution. The attendant informed Superintendent Allison of what Perry had said to him and was instructed to humor the train robber in the way he desired.

The keeper thereupon carried letters from Perry to the mail, first allowing Dr. Allison to take copies of them, and led Perry on to think that he was helping him in his schemes. After the authori-ties had learned through this attendant what Perry was doing, and what his in-tentions were, they transferred him to his old cell in the isolation ward.

A SAILOR'S SUICIDAL EFFORT.

A Chief Engineer in the Navy Cuts His Throat on Shipboard, NORFOLK, July 3 .- John L. Borthwick, chief engineer of the United States ship Amphitrite, cut his throat on shipboard at Hampton Roads last evening. He was brought to the naval hospital by Admiral Brown in his launch. He is alive, but the extent of his injuries cannot be learned.

Cnief Engineer John L. D. Borthwick ranked thirty first on the active list of the angineer corps of the navy, and held the relative rank of lieutenant commander. He has been in the navy for thirty-four years, having been appointed third assistant engineer Oct. 8, 1861. He was born in Pennsylvania, from which state he re-ceived his appointment. He was promoted to second assistant engineer in 1803, first in 1805, passed assistant in 1874 and chief engineer in 1885. His total sea service aggregated twenty four years and shore duty

Praise for American Sallors.

WASHINGTON, July 3 - United States Consul Kemper, at Amoy, China, has made a special official report to the state department, praising the officers and crew of the United States steamship Machine for saving the German steamer Tascheong from destruction by fire on April 20. Two boats' crews, under charge of Ensign Scales, were sent to the assistance of the imperiled ship. They found officers and men thoroughly demoralized in face of the rapidly gaining flames, but taking charge themselves they succeeded in suppressing the fire and averting serious loss.
