THE NEWS GLEANINGS

Lively Events in the Town Last Evening.

THE PYROTECHNIC DISPLAY.

Brewery Agents Have Their Annual Parade—The Police Arrest Two Shell Game Men—Columbia Hose Company's Picnic.

The pyrotechnic displays that were postponed Thursday night took place last night and for about two hours Main and Centre streets were in a blaze of glory. Sky-rockets, Roman candles and red fire were set off in profusion and the sight was a beautiful one. The displays in front of the places of business of Postmaster Mellet and Councilman McElhenry were especially fine and attracted crowds of people to the scenes of operation. The small boy had leaps of fun running for the sticks of the rockets and many people took involuntary sprints to escape the rockets that slipped and shot along the ground instead of into space. No accidents were reported.

The town had a holiday appearance during the entire night and it was long after midnight when the report of the last cannon cracker died away. During the early hours of the evening the streets were enlivened by music from the 4th Regiment Drum Corps of Pottsville and the drum corps of the Salvation Army. The former spent the day here and the young men seemed to enjoy themselves immensely. They furnish excellent music and have been invited to repeat the visit at an early day. As the Salvation Army passed down Main street with its drum corps playing a sacred selection the Pottsville young men fell in at the rear and marched in that position for about half a square. Many people were misled to the conclusion that the army had informed its members in a season of uncommon prosperity, but when the visitors turned off at Centre street the humor of the incident made itself apparent and there were broad smiles on all sides. The army was cut down one half in a twinkling. The incident was more enjoyable from the fact that the Pottsville young men were not in the least bolsterous and they fell in and out of the line with a neatness that would have been creditable to a veteran military organization.

The brewery agents also made the town lively for some time with their annual parade. Eight wagons were in line filled with young men attired in ridiculous fashion. The displays by the Lauer and Barby agents were very catchy. The parade was headed by a horseback rider attired in an ulster tied about his body with bunting and a drum corps furnished the music. The occupants of some of the wagons were too bolsterous and fresh to make the parade an appreciative one to the public.

The Columbia Hose Company took advantage of the clearing weather to continue its picnic at Columbia park, and the Grant Band gave a short street parade to announce the event. The attendance at the park was very good during the evening and the company retrieved some of the loss it sustained the day before. There was a pyrotechnic display at the park. Several balloons were sent up. One of them caught fire after it got some distance above the ground. The picnic was continued today and will be held this evening. This afternoon the company's postponed fantastic parade took place and was a success. There were a number of very funny features in it.

Last night Chief of Police Tosh and Lieutenant Lee arrested two straggling fakirs of the Astley circus for working a shell and ball game at Columbia Park. The fakirs were fined $7.25 each by Justice Toomey and stopped their prying on the innocents. These fakirs have given up the circus to remain in town, as they say the suckers are plentiful. They should be avoided and prosecuted each time they attempt to throw out their drag nets. A few fines will compel them change their base of operations.

MART. RATTIGAN DIES.

The Self-Inflicted Wound Cost Him His Life.

PERITONITUS HAD SET IN!

He Passed Away This Morning While Warden Brower and Two Attendants Stood at the Side of His Cot

Martin Rattigan has gone before a higher tribunal than the courts of this county to answer for the crime he committed last Wednesday morning. The knife wounds he inflicted upon himself after running away from the house in which he had just stabbed his wife and her sister resulted fatally this morning.

When a HERALD reporter called at the county jail at seven o'clock this morning the lifeless body of the suicide and would-be murderer lay upon a cot in cell No. 19 on the first tier on the south side of the jail corridor. The man had died half an hour before.

When Rattigan was received at the jail Wednesday afternoon he was placed upon the cot in the cell that formed his tomb this morning. Two prisoners were assigned to act as his attendants during the day and two others served at night. Dr. J. Harry Swaving, the prison physician, looked after the medical attendance. Yesterday Dr. J. H. Cooper was in consultation and the result led Warden Brower to decide to remain at the bedside of the victim. He did so and was with Rattigan until he died.

Death was caused by peritonitis. His abdomen was very much enlarged and caused intense suffering at times. About 1 o'clock this morning the condition of the man became so precarious that Warden Brower sent for Rev. Francis J. McGovern to administer the last rites of the church. The clergyman responded promptly and the dying prisoner was evidently gratified to see him. After the departure of the clergyman Rattigan sank rapidly and at 6:30 o'clock his life passed away. His dying moments were peaceful. Shortly before he died he made an effort to leave his bed, but was prevented from doing so by Warden Brower. He said he wanted to wash himself and walk around a little. The character of his wounds made it imperative that he should remain lying on his back. He was conscious to the last moment, but made no reference at any time during the night to his bloody work of Wednesday, or to the causes, motives or results.

Immediately after the prisoner's death Warden Brower deputized Commissioner's Clerk Carl Coogan to send the official notification to the deceased's relatives and friends in this town and to notify the Coroner. The prison authorities then prepared the remains for delivery to the relatives when claimed by them, which was done this afternoon.

Rattigan's victims are making slow progress towards recovery. Both have recovered from the shock, but Drs. Hamilton and Stein say the chances for recovery are still uncertain. If peritonitis can be prevented from setting in the victims will recover.

Worth Commending.

It is a gratifying task to commend a good thing. Lack of space yesterday prevented us from paying the compliments deserved by our old friend, Major Gordon W. Lillie, (Pawnee Bill), and his wild west show and hippodrome. Many of our people witnessed Pawnee Bill's show at Lakeside a few years ago, and that they were well pleased with it was proved by the large attendance at the shows on Thursday. They were agreeably surprised to find that the shows have been greatly enlarged and improved since the previous appearances in this region and are conducted on a more elaborate scale generally. We do not hesitate to say it is the best 25-cent show under canvas in the country, and none in the large audience of Thursday left the grounds dissatisfied. Pawnee Bill is also to be commended for keeping all fakirs off his trail. He gives a good, wholesome entertainment and affords his audiences all the comfort and protection they can expect.

Jail Jottings.

Dennis Slattery, whose term of two years and a half in the county jail will expire in about two months, says he had nothing whatever to do with the reported plan to break jail on the Fourth of July. He says it would be foolish for him to take a band in such a movement and run the risk of additional imprisonment when only a few weeks stand between him and unconditional liberty. Slattery is looking well and claims to be resigned to a better future. He will not return to Shenandoah, but will go to Detroit, Michigan.

William Plimmer, the negro who almost killed the boy Michael Hertz by a blow with a hatchet, at Columbia park on Decoration Day, is completing a two-year sentence and will be released early next week. He says he will not return to Shenandoah, but will go to Schuylkill Haven, where he has secured a position as a hostler. Plimmer has been an exemplary prisoner and has worked off his fine and costs by whitewashing the entire interior of the jail.
