Thrilling Runaway Down a Steep Mountain Road.

SEVEN LIVES IN DANGER!

Five Men, a Woman and a Child Hurled From a Carriage, But Only One Was Seriously Injured.

The steep mountain road north of town leading from the cemeteries was the scene of another disastrous runaway yesterday afternoon and the death of five men, a woman and a child were escaped by almost a miracle. One of the men, the driver of the team, named Anthony Glanunski, was seriously injured, and it is believed, one of the horses is so badly hurt that it will die. The carriage was returning from a funeral. There were seated inside three men, a woman and a two-year-old child, all Poles, residing in Monaghan's row, near the Indian Ridge colliery breaker. Two men were seated in the driver's box. James Shields, the owner of the carriage and team, says Glanunski was given charge of the party because he was known to be an experienced and careful driver.

The horses were some distance down the road when they suddenly dashed. Glanunski and Joe Navitski, the man who occupied the driver's seat with him, were thrown into the ditch at the side of the road. Navitski escaped with a few bruises. As the carriage rattled down the steep road at a break-neck pace the occupants were thrown out at different points, but strange to say none were seriously injured. When the woman was thrown out she had her child clasped tight in her arms. The woman sustained several bruises, but the most she complained of was a torn dress and she threatened to sue Mr. Shields for damages. The child was not hurt. One of the men had his ribs bruised, but like the woman, his torn clothing gave him the most pain. Another man had a finger lacerated. The escape the party had was remarkable. The horses left the carriage at the bend in the road opposite the green north of Superintendent Baird's property. The vehicle was so badly shattered that only the pole was left whole. Mr. Shields offered the wreckage to anybody willing to cart it away last night.

The horses continued their dash to the corner of Main and Coal streets, where they were stopped by one of them colliding with a telegraph pole. The animal lay where it fell bleeding profusely from the nose. Mr. Shields had it removed to the stable and the veterinary surgeon who was called in said the horse had received severe internal injuries and would probably die. Glanunski, the driver, was seen at his home on East Huckleberry alley last night. He was in bed with his body, right arm and head wrapped in bandages. Dr. D. W. Straub had attended him. Three of his ribs on the right side are fractured, a gash that required several stitches is in the upper part of his right arm and there are several holes in his head. The man says he stopped the carriage while descending the hill and stepped down from the box for a moment. He left the whip and reins in charge of Joe Navitski. Upon returning to the seat he took the reins in hand and started the horses. Navitski said, "Why don't you make the horses go?" and gave one of the horses a sharp cut with the whip—"And off they went," Glanunski said. People who were upon the scene immediately after the accident say the whole party seemed to be more or less under the influence of drink.

Glanunski's friends say that he will never meet a violent death. His remarkable escape yesterday is a second one. Several years ago he was accidentally shot at one of the slaughter houses. The bullet entered the right side of the face near the cheek bone and came out behind the left ear. Navitski, the man Glanunski charges with having started the horses, is known as "the duke" and resides on East Centre street, in the First ward.

Mr. Shields says his loss by the runaway is close to $600. The carriage wrecked was a new one, having been purchased only six weeks ago at a cost of $375. The horse which it is believed will die was the best he had and was valued at $200.

LIGHTNING'S FREAKS!

Struck the Steeple of the Greek Catholic Church.

TELEGRAPH WIRES BURNED.

A Woman Rendered Unconscious For Nearly Three Hours--Thought She Had Been Struck by the Death Dispenser.

The lightning that accompanied the storm Saturday afternoon indulged in pranks in town that made timid people very uneasy.

One bolt struck the steeple of the Greek Catholic church. It entered the cupola and was cut off by an iron bar. The damage was not serious.

The lightning also struck the telegraph wires at the Lehigh Valley depot and burned out all the wires in the place. They were replaced this morning by a large gang of line men.

After the storm some excitement was caused by a report that a woman had been struck and killed by the lightning. The supposed victim was found at her home on West Huckleberry alley. She was Mrs. Laura Haines, wife of William Haines, and when seen was confined to her bed, suffering from shock. She was conscious, however.

Mrs. Haines was engaged in washing window sashes in the yard at the rear of her house when the storm arose. Just as she ascended the steps leading to the house and handed her husband a window sash she heard a frightful noise and as she turned her head to look behind her, she says, innumerable balls of fire seemed to hover above her and one fell and struck her on the back. Mrs. Haines says she felt herself sink gradually to the floor and she tried to catch hold of a door to keep from falling, but was unable to do so and fell unconscious. She remained in that condition for two hours and a half. Mr. Haines confirms his wife's story with the exception that he says she tried to catch hold of a table, and not a door when she was falling. Mrs. Haines says her body was numb for several hours after she recovered her senses and that the part of her back where she supposed one of the balls of fire struck her burned terribly.

It is not believed Mrs. Haines was struck. Lightning always leaves a mark on anything it strikes and there is no mark on her back. Mrs. Haines' residence is near the Greek Catholic church and it is thought she suffered from shock when the steeple of the church was struck.

G. A. R. Day Out

It has been suggested from headquarters that the G. A. R. Posts throughout the state have a day out, in place of going to a distant point to celebrate Grand Army Day. The Pottsville Post has taken the initiative and in conjunction with the Posts south of the mountain will hold a grand picnic. It is the intention of Watkins Waters Post No. 146, G. A. R., of town, to take hold of the matter for the north of the mountain Posts and at the meeting next Friday evening action will be taken to make a start. The proposed picnic will be held at a point agreeable to all Posts, either at Lakeside, High Point Park or Washington Park, Ashland. A full attendance of members at the meeting on Friday evening is requested.

The Riots Recalled.

Eighteen years ago today Company H, Seventh Regiment, National Guard, under command of Capt. George W. Johnson, left town for duty in the Riots at Harrisburg and Pittsburg. It was intended to celebrate the event by reorganizing the company for re-admission into the state service, but owing to the absence of some of the prominent ex-members the project fell through. The reorganization may take place in the near future, however.

Car Breaks Down.

Saturday night, as the last car on the Lakeside Railway left Jackson's for Shenandoah, the split gear broke and stopped the car with a sudden jar. It caused an uproar among the fourteen passengers. The car was delayed for about an hour and brought to Shenandoah operated by the rear motor.

Fair Warning.

A clue has been secured to the identity of the party who stole one of the stoves from the ruins of the HERALD office and unless the stove is returned at once a prosecution at law will be instituted.

IF YOU HAD A LOAD OF WOOD TO SELL

And I told every man you met that you had a load of wood to sell, and every man you met would in turn tell every man he met that you had a load of wood to sell. It would in course of time become pretty well known that you had a load of wood to sell, and directly you would not have any load of wood to sell. We have not got a load of wood to sell, but we have loads of groceries to sell and we are going to sell it to every body who reads this paper, and when these are gone we will get more.
