FOUR KILLED AT A CROSSING.

Terrible Accident to a Party of Men Near Williamstown, Mass. WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., July 22.—Four men were instantly killed while crossing the Fitchburg railroad track, about two miles from this place yesterday afternoon. A party of six men were riding in a two seated covered carriage. They were returning to North Adams from Bennington, and were struck by a west bound express. Two of the men, Clarence Prindle and Edward White, both of Williamstown, escaped by jumping. The killed were: Oliver Dudley, Nelson Trudeau, Peter Rocks and Joseph Tayton, all of North Adams.

As the men approached the crossing a freight train was passing eastward. They waited until the caboose of the freight train had gone by and then started to proceed, apparently not seeing the west-bound train, which was advancing at express speed. The carriage was directly across the tracks when the engine struck it. Prindle and White, catching a glimpse of the oncoming train, had just time to shriek and jump, thereby saving their lives. The other man, with the carriage and one of the horses, was hurled into the air and came down in an indescribable heap.

Dudley was the only one who breathed after the accident, and he expired after a few brief gasps. The others lay in a quivering mass among the broken and twisted remains of the carriage. The mangled carcass of the horse lay a little at one side, while beside it, and attached to it by the harness, stood its mate unharmed.

As soon as possible the train was stopped and several people rushed to the scene. The bodies were taken out from among the wreckage and borne to the baggage car, and thence to the Pownall, Vt., station, half a mile beyond. It is stated that both engineers whistled and rang the bell at the proper distance from the crossing, but that these signals were either unheard or disregarded by the men in the carriage.

DEFENDER AND VIGILANT.

The Latter Will Make Another Effort to Defeat the New Yacht.

NEW YORK, July 22.—When the Vigilant meets the Defender over a triangular course of thirty miles outside of Sandy Hook this afternoon she will carry a larger club topsail than that under which she appeared on Saturday, when the Defender defeated her by 2 min. 45 sec. in a thirty mile race to windward and leeward. She will also have a bigger balloon jib sail, and its fair to presume that the sail area added by these changes will assist no little in sending the yacht through the water faster than she went on Saturday. Believers in her ability to beat the new boat in light weather are, however, few in number, even though she carry additional canvas.

Nobody knows definitely what the Defender can do in a strong wind. It is believed that she can at least equal Valkyrie III, which boat was plainly built for light weather. Mr. Swain and Captain Huff have no fear of the result in a hard wind, but the public wants to know with certainty that the keel vessel is small around boat. If it could be possible to judge from Saturday's performance, it might be said that she is all right, for in the breeze that did prevail the Defender stood up straighter than the Vigilant, and increased her lead in proportion to the strengthening of the wind.

Mr. Willard, who has charge of the Vigilant, was willing to admit today that his boat was outclassed on Saturday, but he has the opinion that he can still give the new boat a closer race. All the sailors who have hitherto been insistent that the centerboard model was superior to the keel are very modest in their assertions today. They point the fact that never before was a centerboard beaten by a keel, and declare that there must be further test before they will confess defeat. They have dropped their boastful manner, though, and are only preparing a gentle fall for themselves on the theory that the keel, or "compromise," as they call it, is the proper thing, after all.

Alleged Burglars Break Jail. MIFFLINTOWN, Pa., July 22.—Frank Evans and Joseph West, claiming to be respectively from Philadelphia and Chicago, who are charged with the Herzig burglary at Port Royal last April, broke jail yesterday and have not been recaptured. They scaled off the window bars and used the bed clothes for ropes by which to reach the pavement. Parker, the third member of the gang, made a desperate attempt to escape during the confusion following the discovery, but he was subdued. A supposed confederate of the fugitives was arrested and imprisoned. The robbery of Noah Hertzler's store occurred on the morning of April 25. The safe was blown open and cash and securities aggregating over $80,000 in value were taken.

Father and Son Electrocutted. PHILADELPHIA, July 22.—Two men, father and son, were electrocuted by "live" electric light wires belonging to the Kensington Electric Light company on Saturday in the yard of the wheelwright shop at Nos. 1267 and 1271 Frankford avenue. James Lower, aged 55, and his son John, aged 25, the proprietors of the shop, were the victims. Both were instantly killed. Whether the wires broke or the men were attempting to take them down is not known.

A Plucky Woman with a Revolver. PITTSBURGH, July 22.—Ben Richards, a desperate colored burglar, was held a prisoner for hours at 100 Second avenue by Miss Hazen Bowman, a plucky young woman, with a revolver. Miss Bowman saw the burglar peering through a skylight. She pretended to be asleep, and as the man got half way through the aperture she drew her revolver and ordered him to stop. In that condition she kept him until an officer came along.

FASHIONABLE FANCIES.

White Gloves, Sailor Hats and Perishable Chiffon Parasols. There is a fancy in Paris for white gloves stitched with white. The fashion of white gloves, unless they be wash leather ones, is expensive, for in order to be wearable they must be immaculate. Nothing looks worse than soiled white gloves. This revived style is becoming only to small, well shaped hands and should be avoided by women with large extremities, as white gloves, like white shoes, have a magnifying effect.

The sailor hat is perennially fashionable apparently. It is most correct when practically untrifled—that is, when finished with a plain band—but ornamented ones have come more or less to the front for several years past and are seen again this season. They are not adorned quite like those of last summer, which, with their asymmetrical bunches and choix, alike to a hair on each side, reminded one of a side-wheel steamer. A little diversity is now permitted, and a tall spray or loop breaks the monotony by standing up on the left side. The plain sailor hat is also worn by women who appreciate the fitness of things and who prefer to put their turbans on something that is not intended essentially for rough and ready wear. Plain white is much worn this season, as it was last. Whenever it is fashionable comments are made as to its troublesome nature, and it does indeed demand to be kept in the best of order. It is no more delicate, however, than light colors and washes infinitely better, being almost unique in looking as well after it is washed as it did before.

Chiffon parasols are particularly favored this year and are as dainty as could be desired, but are expensive to buy and of short lived beauty, chiffon being a material which is soiled and crumpled almost at a glance.

The gown illustrated is of suede faille. The bodice is finished with stitching and opens on the left side over a quill of white faille. The close fitting bodice fastens invisibly on the left side and is slightly rounded away at the throat, where it is adorned with embroidery of suede silk. A large open fichu composed of two wide ruffles of lace covers the shoulders and the upper part of the arms and is held in place at the front of the bodice by two straps of blue velvet fastened with antique buttons. A large collar of velvet finishes the neck. The sleeves are tight, buttoning over the forearm and completed by a lace ruffle at the wrist.

JACKETS AND SKIRTS.

New Coats—How to Line the Fashionable Skirt.

The last departure in jackets shows a decided change of form from that which has prevailed hitherto. Instead of a skirt being so full as to be ruffled and crimped at the lower part, the new models are straight and perfectly flat, as if they were added to the figure. The latest patterns have these straight backs, without even a seam down the middle and no back forms. This smooth expanse of cloth is becoming only to women who have a well rounded waist and hips, but the fashion will no doubt be adopted by everybody merely because it is new.

The skirts of the new jackets are about the same length as those heretofore worn, but look longer because of their extreme flatness. One of these coats has front, sides and back without any fullness than an ordinary water's jacket. It is rounded at the fronts, is single breasted and has very pointed revers, a turned over collar and the usual big sleeves drooped at the elbows. Indeed the tendency of sleeves to bag and drag down at the elbows seems to increase. Quite as much cloth is used as formerly, but instead of stiffening that makes them stand out the new linings are softer and make the material hang in rounded folds. Whatever may be reported, wires are not put in the skirts made by the best dress-makers. Very good linings are employed, alpaca or silk instead of cotton, which soon loses its firmness, and a facing of haircloth about a foot deep. The haircloth is put on so that the horsehair lies horizontally and is fitted flat to the shape of the foot of the skirt. This keeps it well out from the feet, while the substantial lining gives the skirt body and makes the folds round and rich looking.

A sketch is given of a blouse of fine striped taffeta glove changing from mauve to green. There is a box back in the middle of the back, which the bodice is fitted as the shoulder seam and waist and has in the middle a wide plat of black satin.

Reading Disbands.

The Reading State League Base Ball Club played its last game on Saturday and disbanded for good. Terreson and Bortner have signed with Titusville, Henry and Beantout go to Bridgton, N. J., and Weand and Everson have signed with Carlisle. Michael will leave for his home at Pittsburg, while Leamon and Leidy are undecided and are considering several flattering offers.

Griffith Won the Race. Jenkin Griffith, of Mahanoy City, defeated Billy Woodward, of Ashland, in a hundred yard foot race at the latter place Saturday. It was to be a scratch start and if they failed to get off inside of half an hour they were to be started by pistol shot. This was the result and a pistol-firer was chosen. Both men left the scratch together, Griffith winning by about four feet. Parse, $100.

Poison in the Oats. Several mules owned by the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company, at Draper colliery, have died within the past few days, and all the others in the stable have been sick. An investigation showed that the oats with which they were being fed was mixed with arsenic.

She then sent to me to see if I had anything that would help her. I sent her a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and the first dose relieved her. Another of our neighbors had been sick for about a week and had tried different remedies for diarrhoea but kept getting worse. I sent him this same remedy.
