

Save The Baby's Life.

BABIES TAKE LACTATED FOOD WITH EVIDENT RELISH.

Safety for Pale, Weak, Sickly Babies in Hot Weather.

A Perfect Substitute for Healthy Vigorous Mother's Milk.

To the thoughtful parent hot weather brings the consciousness of increased care and for thought regarding the diet of the little ones. It is appalling to anyone understanding the subject to see the carelessness of parents and nurses in the matter of infant feeding.

With cholera infantum raging as it is East and West this summer, these facts cannot be put to parents too plainly.

This mortality is not a necessary evil, for, as every single writer on the subject (from the eminent Dr. Ruth, to whom every physician turns for advice, down to the honest medical student, whose opinions see light in the popular medical journal) agrees, it arises principally from the improper feeding of children.

Watch your baby's actions carefully, especially at this season of the year so trying to little children. Is he cross, fretful or peevish? Is he troubled with constipation, colic, or diarrhoea? Is his sleep short or easily broken? Then his food disagrees, and he is in serious danger of fatal disease.

"What can I do?" you hear you ask. Change at once to lactated food, a pure and scientific food that makes the sick baby well and keeps the healthy child hearty and strong even in summer's dangerous weather.

The best physicians prescribe it, intelligent mothers recommend it and use it and babies living on it prove its worth by their healthy and happy faces. The worry and sadness that it keeps away is alone sufficient reason for using lactated food, but it is also very economical, costing less than five cents a quart, when prepared from the larger sizes. The small size costs only 25 cents, and will be mailed on receipt of price by the manufacturers, Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt. If your druggist hasn't it in stock, do not let the sun go down before you have ordered some. It may save the baby's life.

The mother's milk in the summer is affected by the heat, and is often dangerous to the infant. It is much safer to feed the child and put it upon this reliable food that is always the same.

One man's word is no man's word; we should quietly hear both sides.—Goethe.

A LOST OPPORTUNITY.

When first we met she was three feet high in the matter of size we made a pair. She had round pink cheeks and a bright blue eye.

And her smile was winning beyond compare. I found society with her a pleasant one. And was shockingly rude, as I'm now aware. When she wanted a kiss at the age of four. She took my hand with a little sigh.

As we met at the turn of the winding stair, And offered her lips for a kiss, while I sweated. "Wished" deep in my heart I had learned to swear. Of course you can't expect savoir faire. When one is but six or a little more. So I pulled at her curls in sheer despair.

When she wanted a kiss at the age of four. At first she was much inclined to cry. But wisely decided to forbear. To another swim I beheld her face. (I was eating ice cream, so I didn't care.) Seventeen years have passed and where is the chance that I can meet her again? Vanished the time like a breath of air. When she wanted a kiss at the age of four.

Alas! what a strange—what a sad affair! With another man at the ball-room door Is the girl I love, and I pulled her hair. When she wanted a kiss at the age of four.—Truth.

She took half a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and the first dose relieved her. Another of our neighbors had been sick for about a week and had tried different remedies for diarrhoea but kept getting worse. I sent him this same remedy. Only four doses of it were required to cure him. He says he owes his recovery to this wonderful remedy.—Mrs. Mary Sibley, Sidney, Mich. For sale by Grubler Bros., druggists.

HOLMES' CHARNEL HOUSE

Still Unearthing Evidence Against the Arch Conspirator.

ONE OF HIS "PALS" DISCOVERED.

This Man, Who is Serving a Sentence for Horse Theft, Declares That One of the Williams Girls is Still Alive—Important Evidence Looked For.

CHICAGO, July 27.—Workmen at Holmes' morgue yesterday dug up a piece of bone, and Dr. Robinson says it is part of human anatomy. The doctor says it is certainly human bone, but he cannot determine to what part of the anatomy it belongs. An old sponge was also found, and as it is discolored the police suspect that possibly it was once saturated with blood. A chemical analysis is being made.

The most important discovery made at the Central station is the disclosure of the identity of the expressman who is supposed to have done the trucking for Holmes. He lives in the neighborhood, and pending his examination by the detectives the department refuses to reveal his name. It is declared this man was accustomed to visit the flat late at night or very early in the morning. This was at a time when Holmes' troubles were greatest and he was dividing time between causing women to disappear and dodging all manner of creditors.

George W. Harris, alias B. A. Ziegler, is in the custody of a detective under suspicion of being a confederate of Holmes in his insurance swindles. Harris has passed under a string of aliases, having been also known as B. A. Simpkins and Alfred H. Post. He was chief promoter in the Taylor addition first mortgage swindles in St. Paul, which caught many Chicago people. Much importance is attached to the arrest of Harris, as it is believed by the police and detective agency which now has him in charge that if they can run down people who were associated with Holmes in his insurance swindles they will find those who can tell of the murders which it is supposed Holmes has committed.

One of the important finds made by the police in their search of the "castle" was a bench covered with stains resembling blood. The bench was found in a deserted store room next to the apartment in which Pat Quinlan slept. Dr. Robinson, who was called to examine the stains on the bench, said they were undoubtedly blood. It is believed by the police that Holmes used the bench as an operating table on which he dismembered his victims before disposing of their bodies.

Chief of Police Hadenoch put Pat Quinlan and his wife through another severe examination yesterday. It is believed that the pair can give sensational evidence if they can be made to talk, and Quinlan will be kept under police guard.

Minnie Williams While in Denver.

DENVER, July 27.—The unfortunate Minnie Williams and her sister, whom Holmes is accused of having murdered, came to Denver early in 1892 with their brother, who was in poor health. They took rooms at "The Devonshire," an apartment house at 1430 Logan avenue, and soon became very popular with the other guests. Minnie was about 25 or 26 years of age, and besides being apparently well educated, was an accomplished elocutionist. She appeared for three weeks on the stage of the old Fifteenth Street theater as a member of a stock company. Those who know her affirm that her feelings for Holmes, whom she knew as Harry Gordon at that time, whatever it was, was no hesitating infatuation for a romantic hero. The brother died in the latter part of the winter and the sisters took the body home to Texas. Holmes reappeared in Denver some time after the World's fair, and told several friends of the girl that she had married and had gone to India with her husband.

He Was a Pal of Holmes.

LITTLE ROCK, July 27.—It was discovered at Fort Worth, Texas, a few days ago that the Arkansas penitentiary holds a former pal of H. H. Holmes, the alleged murderer of Pitezel and others, and that he is in possession of valuable information. His name is John C. Allen, alias John H. Caldwell, alias John C. Caldwell, and he is serving a fifteen year sentence in the Arkansas penitentiary for horse stealing. Sheriff W. M. Ross, of Fort Worth, had a long conversation with Allen yesterday. The latter, so the sheriff says, declined to give any information except to say that one of the Williams girls is dead, but that the other is alive. Sheriff Ross will remain in Little Rock two or three days longer, and intimates that if Allen will give him the information he wants he will have accomplished more than all the detectives in the country who have been working so long on the Holmes case.

The Top of Her Head Blown Off.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 27.—A strange and bloody murder was committed on the farm of Ernest Lange, seventeen miles west of this city. The body of little Maggie Craigie, the 14-year-old daughter of Captain Charles Craigie, of the Minneapolis fire department, was found with the top of her head blown off by a charge from a shotgun. Futile efforts had been made to remove the traces of blood in the upstairs room where the murder was committed and along the stairs where the body had been dragged down. Mrs. Lange's 8-year-old son Freddie finally confessed that he had killed the girl by accident.

Richard Vaux's Will Found.

PHILADELPHIA, July 27.—It has been generally supposed that Richard Vaux, ex-congressman, ex-mayor and distinguished jurist, who died last March, left no will, but such a document has been found. After making a number of minor bequests it leaves the residue of the estate, which is valued at about $30,000, to the widow, Mary Wain Vaux, for life, and at her death to be divided among the children. The document concludes with these words: "I direct that no inventory be made of my estate. It is nobody's business but those who are interested in it."

MURDEROUS CHEROKEE BILL

He Adds a Prison Guard to His Long List of Victims.

FORT SMITH, Ark., July 27.—Cherokee Bill got his hands on another revolver liberate prize, used in an attempt to run of prisoners confined in murderers row in the United States jail. His at the 5th was a bold one and resulted in the death of Larry Keating, the oldest guard of the force. On account of the hot weather and the long days the prisoners are allowed to remain in the corridors until nearly 7 o'clock.

When running in the prisoners all related to their cells, and the two upper floors were run in with incident. After the break had been thrown on murderers' row Eoff went in to lock the cells, while McConnell remained at the door. When Eoff reached the cell next to Cherokee Bill he found the keyhole plugged, and while he was trying to clean it out Cherokee Bill came to the door and fired, shooting Keating through the stomach. He ran to the end of the corridor and fell dead.

Eoff ran back to the corridor on the east side of the cells, and McConnell, Parker and several deputies ran in and opened fire on Cherokee Bill whenever he tried to leave his cell. His ammunition was nearly exhausted, and he agreed to surrender his pistol to Henry Starr, which was done.

The pistol with which he did the deed was a new one. How he got it is a mystery, but Josie Brown, his sister, who has been several days and visited him twice, has been arrested for it, and is now in the county jail.

Keating had been employed at the jail for ten years, and was a careful man. He leaves a wife and four children, besides many other relatives here. He was very popular, and many threats of lynching Cherokee Bill have been made, though the citizens, who were terribly excited, are now becoming cooled down. None of the prisoners left their cells except Bill, and he immediately jumped back into it, and the guards now have everything in order, though there is much confusion among the prisoners.

Crawford Goldsby, alias Cherokee Bill, alias Gorilla, is only 19, but has been convicted of train robbery and murder. One murder case is pending in the supreme court of the United States, and the charge of killing his brother-in-law is still on the docket here.

"Promiscuous" May Ignore Law.

CHICAGO, July 27.—On Feb. 22 last Governor William McKinley was the honored guest of the Union League club of this city, at a banquet, the menu of which included ruffed grouse. It was fully a month past the time when the game laws of the state allowed the eating of grouse, and the state warden at once began the prosecution of the club officials. Yesterday the case came up for trial before Justice Glennon, who discharged the club officials because the club house was not a public restaurant, the game was not for sale, and no evidence was submitted to show that the club had either killed or trapped grouse. The warden are indignant over the decision.

Tramps Invade a Train.

ERIE, Pa., July 27.—At Ashtabula, O., a gang of thirty tramps boarded a passenger train on the Lake Shore road. As fast as they were ejected from one car they jumped into another. The passengers became intensely excited and a force of police was telegraphed for to meet the train. When it arrived the hoboes made a dash for liberty on seeing the police, and only eight out of the thirty were captured. Julian Mallen, an Erie brakeman, has been found near the station with his skull crushed. It is believed he was robbed and thrown from his train by the tramps.
