SEVEN PERSONS DROWNED.

Sad End of a Day's Pleasuring in Isle of Wight Bay.

PARENTS AND TWO CHILDREN!

Among Those Who Lost Their Lives by Overcrowding a Small Sailboat—The Parents Dragged to Death by Their Frightened Little Ones.

OCEAN CITY, Md., Aug. 19.—Seven persons, among them four Philadelphians, were drowned yesterday by the upsetting of a boat on the Isle of Wight bay, seven miles north of this place. The dead are: William H. Storrs, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Laura Storrs, his wife; Ida May Storrs, aged 14 years, and Eva Storrs, aged 11, their daughters; Myrtle Stevens, aged 16; Lina Hall, aged 19; Lulu Hall, aged 14.

The unfortunate victims of the accident were members of a party of nine bent on a pleasure trip to Grey's creek, a branch of the bay, where a number of farmers had arranged what is known as a "fresh fry," with fishing, bathing and other amusements. The party was under the direction of William Hudson, who had taken them out in a small pleasure boat which scarcely afforded accommodation for half their number.

When about two hundred yards from shore, in water about seven feet deep, Hudson attempted to tack, probably for the purpose of returning. The boat heeled so that the women in the party became frightened, and two of them sprang, with screams of terror, to the windward side. This caused the boat to lurch even worse, and all hands becoming frightened even worse, the craft was quickly overturned.

Mr. Storrs, who, though he had but one hand and was blind in one eye, was an expert swimmer and succeeded in getting his two daughters on the bottom of the boat. He then swam to his wife, and was making his way to the boat with her when the two children became frightened and again sprang into the water. Reaching their parents they again clasped them about the neck and all four sank together.

Hudson placed the two Hall girls on the overturned craft and swam to the assistance of Miss Stevens, but before he could reach her she too disappeared beneath the waves. Lina and Lulu Hall, in the meantime, had followed the example of the little Storrs girls, and either fell or jumped into the water. They were also drowned before assistance could reach them.

Hudson and two young ladies who were also in the boat were rescued by a fisherman. The body of Mr. Storrs was found soon after the disaster, and those of his wife, his two daughters, and Miss Stevens were found with the aid of a seine. The others have not yet been recovered.

Mr. Storrs was married in this neighborhood, and yearly brought his family down for a two weeks' outing. They were very fond of aquatic sports, and spent most of their time boating and fishing.

Hudson, the skipper, protested to Mr. Storrs against the party crowding into his small boat, which could only comfortably carry four persons. Storrs answered: "Oh, there is no danger. The water's shallow; we are close to shore, and the wind is light."

The bodies, when recovered by the searching parties, presented a horrible sight, particularly that of Mrs. Storrs. Crabs had eaten the flesh from her face, exposing her teeth and even the roots of her tongue. The ends of the fingers of all had been eaten away, and their eyes had disappeared.

Before entering the boat Mrs. Storrs took her husband's gold watch, over a hundred dollars in money and their rings and other valuables, and tied them in her apron. She was tightly clutching the bundle in death.

REPUBLICANS FIX THEIR DATE

The Executive Committeemen Met at Pottsville To-Day.

COUNTY CONVENTION SEPTEMBER 30

The Meeting Was Not Largely Attended. They Tendered Chairman Payne a Vote of Thanks For His Services in the Last Campaign.

Special to EVENING HERALD.

POTTSVILLE, Aug. 19.—In pursuance of a call issued by County Chairman Payne, of Ashland, the Republican Executive Committee for this county assembled at Pottsville this morning. The principal object of the meeting, as stated in the call, was to name the date and place for the meeting of the county convention.

The committeemen arrived here on the early train and occupied themselves in discussing the political situation from different standpoints. The action of the Democrats in deferring the question of fixing the date of their convention until after the Republicans act in the matter was freely discussed, and had considerable bearing in fixing the latter date.

Chairman Payne called the committee together in the parlors of the Merchants' hotel. There was a small attendance, only nine members answering the roll call. Shenandoah was one of the towns not represented. Secretaries S. Burt Edwards and John Duffy were at their desks.

After a thorough discussion of the subject, the committee finally decided upon Monday, September 30th, as the time of meeting for the county convention, and Pottsville as the place. A vote of thanks was tendered chairman Payne for the manner in which he successfully conducted the campaign of 1894.
