Defender Meets With an Accident in Manoeuvring—Her Topmast Backstay Broken by Valkyrie—Defender's Protest Acknowledged.

Special to EVENING HERALD.

NAVESINK HIGHLANDS, Sept. 9, 10:30 a. m.—For the second time the champion Defender and the British yacht Valkyrie have met today to sail the series for the American Cup. Both boats were as fit as they could be made, and both crews were thoroughly roused to the importance of the contest. On the one boat there is the confidence begotten of triumph. On the other that dogged determination which comes of defeat that is sought to be avenged. The start will be made at about 11 o'clock.

VALKYRIE FOULS DEFENDER.

Special to EVENING HERALD.

NAVESINK HIGHLANDS, 1:42 p. m.—An accident has just occurred to the champion yacht.

While manoeuvring for position prior to the start Valkyrie's rigging struck and broke Defender's topmast backstay, causing her topmast to sag sidewise.

The Defender hoisted the protest flag, which was acknowledged.

BEFORE THE RACE.

Valkyrie Stock Was Very Low Yesterday.

The Trial Race.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The indications are that the weather will be favorable for the second race between the British yacht, Valkyrie III, and the Defender. Forecaster Dunn reports that the outlook now is that there will be fresh south winds and a clear sky.

Yesterday afternoon both yachts went out for a trial spin. The Valkyrie left her anchorage at Red Hook at 9 a. m. under jib, jib staysail and mainsail, making the quarantine station in one tack. She then tacked across the Narrows, heading down the bay again on port tack. At 2:30 she returned through the Narrows, running free under the same sail. At 3:15 she headed down the bay again, passing Quarantine at 3:20 under mainsail and jib.

When close to Fort Wadsworth she went about and stood off towards Gravesend, and went off the long dock south of Fort Hamilton. At 3:25 she went about again and stood down the lower bay.

In the meantime Defender had also got under way, the two boats meeting off the Crescent club house, the Defender on the starboard tack, under jib staysail, mainsail and club topsail. The Defender at 3:20 went close to the steam yacht Vallant off Stapleton, went about and headed down the bay toward the Narrows.

At 3:17 both yachts were observed from Sandy Hook in the upper part of the bay, standing on starboard tack towards Coney Island. The Valkyrie was in the lead and somewhat to the windward. It looked as though a private match had been arranged between the two racers. The wind was from the south and blowing at the rate of thirteen miles an hour. Both yachts held their relative positions until 3:40, when the Defender went about and held up the bay. The Valkyrie held on her tack until near the bell buoy at the junction of the Swash and ship channels, when she also went about, and easing off her main sheet, headed up the bay.

At 4:20 the Defender passed Quarantine bound in, and she was followed fifteen minutes later by the Valkyrie, also bound in. Later both boats headed about and cast anchor off Bay Ridge, where they remained until this morning.

At an informal meeting of members of the New York Yacht club last night the regatta committee delegated James R. Busk to represent the cup committee on board the Valkyrie at today's race. It was also learned that David Henderson, Lord Dunraven's friend, will represent the British interest on board the Defender. No official action of any kind in regard to the race was taken.

The course today will be an equilateral triangle, ten miles to a side, starting from Sandy Hook. The course is laid out so as to give the yachts a beat to windward on one leg.

Valkyrie stock is decidedly down, and few can be found to venture an opinion that the boat will succeed in getting even one of the races. It was thought that with smooth water, however, the British yacht might do better, but that the difference between her and Defender on Saturday was too great to be overcome. Not only the followers of the challenger, but those who have pinned their faith on the Defender, are anxious for a blow.

Stolen Watch Recovered.

Anson Heiser yesterday went into the house of Mrs. Edward Epkin, on North Market street, to borrow a bucket and after his departure a silver watch was missed by Mrs. Epkin. Policeman Thomas Lee found the watch in Orkin's jewelry store, on South Main street, where it had been pawned for $2. This morning Heiser was arrested by Policeman Lee and when arraigned before Justice Williams he denied that he stole the watch. He claimed he received it from one John Butler, who is well known to the police, and admitted pawning the time-piece with Orkin. Half the two dollars he received he gave to Butler and the balance he kept. The police did not take any stock in the Butler story, as Butler has not been in town for some time. Heiser was committed to jail in default of $500 bail and Orkin, the jeweler, was held in $300 bail for receiving stolen goods. In disposing of the latter case Justice Williams administered a lecture on jewelers purchasing watches from irresponsible people and said it was principally on account of such purchases that stolen property is never recovered.

Minister Appointed.

Rev. John G. M. Swengel, of Winfield, Pa., Central Pennsylvania Conference, has been appointed by Presiding Elder Bohner to take charge of work in this town for the Evangelical Association. Rev. Swengel is said to be one of the able and eloquent ministers of the Association. He will occupy the pulpit of the Ebenezer church for the first time next Sunday evening. Presiding Elder Bohner says: "The congregation can feel proud in having such a man to work up the interest of the church, and the citizens of Shenandoah may feel honored in having another able minister added to the number they already have."

Costs of the Justice.

The jury in the case of Mrs. Kobacka, a Polish woman of town tried at Pottsville yesterday for assault and battery, considered the grounds of the suit so trifling that it put two-thirds of the cost on Justice Pierce Walker and one-third on the prosecutor, Michenia Zyslufski. The complainant swore that the Justice advised the suit.

To Guard Against Diseases.

The druggists of town say there has been quite a demand for lump camphor during the past few days and nearly all the customers have been children. This is due to school teachers recommending that the children wear camphor bags suspended from their necks to guard against diphtheria and other diseases from which many children are suffering.

His Speech Interrupted.

John Prosser leaned out of a second story window of a house in Leitzel's row on East Coal street this morning, indulging in a political harangue. In trying to emphasize his remarks he lost his balance and fell to the pavement. The crowd that had assembled rushed forward, expecting to find the man badly injured, but he arose unassisted and in answer to a query as to whether he had been hurt said, "No, I am put together too well for that." Prosser has a run of luck.

The Squib Held Fire.

Daniel Boyer, of West Centre street, was injured at the Boston Run colliery yesterday by a blast. He hit a squib and went to a place of safety. Failing to hear the blast he walked back and as he did so the explosion occurred. Boyer was burned on the hands, arms and face and one of his arms was badly cut by flying pieces of coal, but the injuries are not of a dangerous character.

MISHAPS ON THE RAILROAD.

Another Victim of Attempts to Jump on Moving Trains.

FRANK GARVEY LOSES A LEG!

A Coal Train Passes Over the Limb and Severs it Between the Ankle and Knee—An Engine's Tender Upset.

Still another victim has been added to the long list of those who have suffered from the rashness of attempting to get on the small foothold on a coal car in a moving train. Occasionally there is found some one foolhardy enough to place at defiance the example set by the disastrous attempts of others and no increase in the list of accidents seems to be able to break the recklessness.

The victim this time is Frank Garvey, a promising young man nineteen years of age, residing at Brownsville. The accident occurred at the rear of the Brownsville station of the Lehigh Valley railroad and within sight of the young man's home.

A train of empty coal cars was being run to the breaker of Packer No. 3 colliery at eleven o'clock this morning and Garvey tried to get on one of the cars. His foot slipped from the foot piece and in the fall his right leg got under the wheels. The leg was cut off midway between the ankle and knee.

The victim was carried to the home he had left in excellent spirits a few minutes before and the sight of his mangled limbs almost distracted his aged parents, who are very favorably known to many residents of this town. Dr. Brady, of Lost Creek, was summoned and he dressed the limb sufficiently to allow the victim's removal to the Miners' hospital at Fountain Springs this afternoon.

Garvey was employed as a driver inside at Packer No. 3 and was looked upon as a very industrious and respectable young man. He was working on the night shift this week and it is supposed he was on his way to the colliery to spend a few hours sociably before getting ready to go to work. It is believed he will survive his injuries.

A COW ON THE ROAD.

Accident to a Train Bound For Lavelle With Horses.

At about two o'clock this morning Lehigh Valley engine No. 146, running tank forward, was on its way through Girardville, bound for Ashland with a car load of horses slated for the races at the Lavelle fair. At Richards street the tank struck a cow that was lying on the track and tumbled over on its side to the side of the roadbed. Fortunately the engine was running at slow speed and the engine was not thrown off the rails. The cow was a mutilated mass under the engine and was removed in pieces. The horses in the car were not disturbed.

Child Run Over.

Ralph, the four-year-old son of John J. Rohland, the East Centre street butcher, was run over this morning by a wagon in charge of a Roaring Creek farmer named John Krapp, who was exonerated from blame. The accident occurred at the corner of Jardin and Centre streets. The farmer was unable to see the child on account of posts and signs at the corner and the horses were on a walk when they turned on the crossing where the child attempted to cross. The injuries consisted of contusions on the right arm and right knee and were not serious.

An Interesting Session of the Local Institute Held Yesterday.

A regular meeting of the local teachers' institute convened in the High School room last evening, Superintendent M. P. Whitaker presiding. Of the 55 teachers in the corps but 4 failed to respond to roll call.

Miss Wasley led the institute in singing "Home Again." Miss O'Connell opened a discussion on "The use of Spelling Blanks," explaining the method pursued in second grade grammar schools. Misses Fairchild, Lafferty, Stock and Roberts explained the methods pursued in the lower grades. Superintendent Whitaker spoke on the relative merits of the systems in use. The discussion was very comprehensive and brought out many good points.

At the next meeting the various grades will assemble separately and outline the work for the next month. This is done so that all the schools in each grade will be teaching the same subjects at the same time.
