EVENING HERALD

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1895.

THE CONTROLLER ACT AGAIN.

County Solicitor Ulrich Makes Application to Oust Mr. Severn.

No sooner has Mr. Severn been installed into the office of County Controller, to which he was appointed by Governor Hastings and subsequently elected by the voters of the county, when an effort is made to get the courts to declare the act creating the office unconstitutional.

County Solicitor John O. Ulrich was at Harrisburg yesterday and applied for a rule of ouster against the Controller-elect. Mr. Ulrich is preparing an elaborate argument on the law's defects, and says there is no doubt in his mind as to the unconstitutionality of the act.

Mr. Severn's interests are looked after by Hon. Charles N. Brumm and S. Burd Edwards, Esq., and they disagree with the County Solicitor's opinion. In the interest of a suffering people it is to be hoped the question will be definitely settled at an early date.

The only remedy in the world that will at once stop itchiness of the skin in any part of the body, that is absolutely safe and never-failing, is Dean's Ointment. Get it from your dealer.

The Reading Classis.

At the annual meeting of the Schuylkill classis of the Reformed church, held at Shamokin several weeks ago, it was decided to meet again at Pottsville and form two classis, the churches south of the Blue mountain to constitute the new classis. At the meeting yesterday this was accomplished, and Rev. Robert O'Boyle, of town, and Rev. O. H. Strunck, of Schuylkill Haven, were elected president and treasurer respectively of the new Schuylkill classis.

Up to Date for Pains and Aches.

Everybody says Red Flag Oil, 25c. At Gruhler Bros., drug store.

Mr. Worrell's Reason for Using Tickets.

The combined attractions of Mr. Worrell's work—Lecture, distribution of Chocolate and Botanical Stage Exhibit—are such, that were there no restrictions, Ferguson's theatre on Saturday afternoon might be over-crowded and by a too miscellaneous gathering. In this case those for whom the work is specially intended would be kept away. For this reason no person will be admitted without a ticket and none but housekeepers can obtain them, free, at Kirlin's drug store.

For comfortable, perfect fitting men's, ladies' or children's footwear, you want to go to Womer's, on North Main street, the most popular priced shop store in town.

The Fire Boss Censured.

The Coroner's jury empanneled to investigate the cause of the death of Joseph and John Frankenstein, at Beechwood colliery, in their report place the blame upon Fire Boss Cook, that official being aware of the existence of gas and having allowed the men work.

GATHERING OF THE TEACHERS.

The School Directors of the County Also Met To-day.

Special to EVENING HERALD.

POTTSVILLE, Nov. 13.—The Schuylkill County Teachers' Institute reconvened here at 9:30 this morning by a talk on "A Lesson on Corn." Drs. John B. DeMotte, S. C. Sheaffer, E. R. Shaw and Arnold Tompkins, and Superintendent Henry Houck also spoke during the session. They are also on the program for this afternoon.

The School Directors' Association of Schuylkill county also met in annual session here this morning. The Shenandoah School Board was represented by Messrs. William T. Trezise, T. R. Edwards, John T. Lee and Hon. Patrick Coury.

There were several important discussions bearing upon public education and many interesting papers were read, but the one that commanded the most attention and approbation was one read by School Director T. R. Edwards, of Shenandoah. It was one which reflected great research and gave more wholesome facts and advice regarding the educational system of this county than any other paper ever read before an assemblage of School Directors in this county. The topic was "Educational Responsibility of Parent and Director Under Existing Laws." Unfortunately space will not admit the publication of the entire document. After an elaborate introduction of the subject Mr. Edwards discussed "Results of Popular Education," pointing to the 14,000,000 pupils who are being educated in this country by 400,000 teachers, Pennsylvania alone having over a million students bent on the improvement of mind or matter. The main features of the history of this country, he said, have no parallel and they may be justly ascribed to the beneficent efforts of a popular education. No nation ever rose to such power and developed such unlimited resources in such a limited time.

Mr. Edwards remarks on "Duty as Parents" were among the most striking of the address. He said:

"It is our duty as parents to submit to all laws that are made, and to encourage teachers and school officers by complying with all the requirements of such laws. In our country the will of the majority rules, and if measures are passed which prove obnoxious, the best way to kill them is to enforce them. As General Grant once said "If you want to get rid of a bad law, enforce it." We are in the van of progressive states and to retain our position we must be prompt to acquaint ourselves with innovations and adopt them if beneficial. In the friendly rivalry of states for the perfection of school systems we must be ever alert, and ready to grasp all opportunities for educational superiority, and just as ready to discard any idea that has been proven unfit for the result intended. As parents we should begin to train the minds of our children as soon as they are capable of receiving and retaining impressions. When we place them in schools we should teach them to love their teachers, their school and their country. We should instill in their hearts that love of school and learning which begets patriotism. Later we should endeavor to impress upon them the fact that under our glorious system of government and education it is possible for the lowliest to mount to the pinnacle of fame. We should hold forth and encourage them with the stories of the early struggles and final successes of our historical characters, our soldiers, statesmen, authors, scholars and inventors. We should give them to understand that the brilliant record of our achievements in the arts and sciences stands unrivalled in the history of the world, and that it is possible under our plan of intellectual progress, for them to share in glories to come. Most of us send our children to school with the secret hope that the future may resound with their deeds; that possibly a Washington, a Lincoln, a Grant, a Blaine, or an Edison may lie hidden in the little form that is now bending over a child's arithmetic. This is the proper feeling of a parent, and while he possesses it he should also impart to the child the hopes he nurses for its future. In this manner the youth is made to understand the use and value of knowledge and will naturally strive to gain such success that will entitle him to the emoluments that follow a good common school education. You and I can probably remember the oft-repeated expression in our school days, when struggling through what then seemed an intricate and unsolvable problem, that we could not "see what all this studying is good for." Ah! my friends, that is the moment when some kind adviser should have come to our assistance with words of encouragement, and comfort, and cheer, some friend who would point out the object of all study and subsequent knowledge. It is for this reason that I would emphasize the importance of explaining to our children the drift of all learning. In this grand country which we so fondly love I would teach the child the patriotism that attaches to national successes. I would tell him how the United States stands head and shoulders above all nations in the march of improvement in the arts, sciences and inventions. I would tell him in the language of a paragraph that went the rounds of the papers some years ago—that Brother Jonathan commenced business in 1776 with 13 states and 816,000 square miles of territory which was occupied by 3,000,000 of civilized human beings; he has now, after a little more than 100 years of growth, a family of 70,000,000 who occupy 45 states and 5 territories which embrace over 3,000,000 square miles. He has 170,000 miles of railroad, or more than sufficient to thrice girdle the earth, and worth $10,000,000,000. The value of his agricultural production is $4,000,000,000, and his gold mines are capable of producing $80,000,000 a year. He has more than 1,000 cotton factories, 1,100 daily newspapers, 1,400 weekly and 2,500 monthly publications. These are the facts that we should bring to the knowledge of our children at the fireside. Let them be talked about, sung about and boasted about in our homes. Tell the children, in their homes, that the United States issues more newspapers in number and aggregate circulation than all the rest of the world combined. That America now numbers the peers of Great Britain 7 to 1, and has nearly a dozen papers which print more copies every issue than does the renowned London Times. That we have more cattle and other live stock, that we are fourth in the list of sheep-raising nations, having raised 1,500,000 last year, and that in food producing animals our country leads the world. That nature herself, "by the physical features with which she has blessed our country," has marked it out as a broad field for development on the grandest scale. Tell our little boys and girls that we have the largest lakes, the longest rivers, the mightiest cataracts, the deepest caves, the broadest and most fertile prairies and the richest gold, silver, iron, copper and coal mines on the globe. All such knowledge may be imparted to the child at home and will serve to add zeal to his pursuits of knowledge, broaden his mind, and imbue him with a love and respect of country that will be our protection in coming ages. Endeavor to find out the bent of the child's inclinations. If he is of an artistic turn of mind, tell him of our artists, who have won fame abroad. If he displays mechanical genius, tell him the history of American railroads. If he is fond of construction, tell him of the Erie Canal, the Brooklyn Bridge and a hundred other great feats of engineering. If he is bold, determined, and has a commanding spirit, spur him on with the tales of the deed of our military and naval heroes—Grant, Sheridan, Sherman. If he admires great projects, tell him of the Atlantic Cable and Cyrus Field. If his talent runs to electrical themes, post him of the successes of Morse, Edison, Bell and the fruits of their works, the telegraph, the telephone, the phonograph. Incalculable good can be done to the child by such parental instruction and the aid to the teacher in thus enlightening the minds of the children at home cannot be estimated. You know, especially those who have been teacher, that it is a simple matter to recognize the child who has had the benefits of home instructions. Such children, all else being equal, are quicker to grasp the subject matter of their lessons and are generally in the lead of their school mates. Unfortunately we have a large class of people in all communities who seem to think the school is a large kindergarten where they may send their children for a certain portion of each day, while they are then at liberty to attend to domestic or other duties. The idea of aiding and encouraging the teacher is foreign to their thought. They believe the teacher is appointed to relieve them of their parental and natural task of instructing their offspring. They unreservedly throw all the responsibility of the child's education on the patient teacher, who often utters a silent prayer that parents would assist them in their arduous work by training and drilling the minds of children to study. There is another class of people who, I firmly believe, send their children to school simply because there are schools and that it is the fashion to do so. I doubt if such people, if placed in a wilderness, would succeed in keeping in advance of the savage. It is this class of parents who never see the inside of school rooms; they never visit them; they hardly inquire of the child who its teacher is, and if informed would forget the name in a day. The only redeeming features of their neglect and carelessness is the implicit confidence they exhibit in believing that the public school is a good kind of place in which to bring up children."

A Chance to Save Money.

There is not the slightest reason why you should not feel well and strong. That great offer of Dr. Greene's is proving the best friend that weak and delicate people ever had. A letter sent to him at his office, 35 West 14th St., New York City, telling the symptoms you are suffering from, will be immediately answered by the doctor, describing your complaint minutely, and making you understand perfectly just what ails you. And all this costs you nothing. You don't have to leave your home and you don't have to pay any doctor's fee to learn exactly what your complaint is, and how to get well and strong, from Dr. Greene, the greatest living specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. The doctor makes a specialty of curing patients through his great system of letter correspondence, and is having wonderful success. Thousands of weak, delicate men and women are writing him about their complaints, and are being permanently cured. It was he who discovered that world-renowned curative, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Write the doctor at once and see what he says about your complaint. It will probably be the means of your getting back your health.

CHIEF TOSH WINS.

He and Policeman Walaitis Acquitted of a Charge of Larceny.

Chief of Police Tosh and Policeman George Walaitis were before the Court at Pottsville yesterday on a charge of larceny preferred by one Charles Fulkerson. The jury rendered a verdict of "not guilty" and put the costs on the county.

This case arose out of the raid made upon the house owned by Mrs. Lizzie Yodkois when the police arrested some men and women on a charge of assignation. Mrs. Yodkois is to be tried this week for leasing the house for the purposes of assignation. After the raid one of the women arrested said there were pictures in the house that belonged to her and she would pay Tosh and Walaitis if they would go and get them. The officers did so, but as the woman failed to pay them for the service they held the pictures as security. Fulkerson came forward and claimed the property, but Chief Tosh refused to give it up until the fees were paid. The suit for larceny was then brought with the result above stated.

A Car Inspector's Escape.

While climbing under box cars near Delano yesterday, a car inspector named Wellin came within an ace of meeting his fate. He was preparing to repair a brake and getting underneath a car and displayed the danger signal near the rear end of the trip, which was blown down by the wind. An engine came along and began to push the train just as the inspector was fairly in position to work. His only hope of escape was to hold on to some part of the car underneath, as it was impossible for him to warn the engineer of his predicament. To the brake beam he clung for a distance of 200 feet when the train came to a stop and he crawled out from underneath the cars uninjured. His coat and shirt were torn almost to shreds at the back from catching in the ties along the road.

"Measles are catching" is an old saying, and now that your people are talking of erecting a new opera house, it has set those of Shenandoah who are interested in engaging in the same talk. We hope it won't be all talk, as we certainly need one. If those who own the two present halls won't keep them in respectable condition, then they should have competition. The latest is to buy the old Merchants Hotel property, at the corner of Main and Coal street, and raze it to the ground, then build a handsome brick structure, to be composed of a theatre and hotel building combined.

Taken From the Jury.

Special to EVENING HERALD.

POTTSVILLE, Nov. 13.—The trial of the case of one Baronofski against Thomas Tosh and Amandus Womer, of Shenandoah, terminated this morning by the court taking the case from the jury and ordering that the defendants be acquitted.

[The above case arose from a Constable's seizure made by Tosh for Amandus Womer. The officer stopped the plaintiff, while he was driving over the mountain to Brandonville, for payment of a claim for a wagon. The plaintiff refused to pay the bill and the officer and Womer brought the wagon back to town after unloading it, putting Baronofski off, and unhitching the horse. The plaintiff then presented them for assault and battery and larceny.—ED.]
