SHOEMAKER IS A PRISONER

Holmes' Counsel Arrested for Subornation of Perjury.

SENSATIONAL SCENE IN COURT

The Accused Lawyer Fell into a Trap of His Own Making—Lawyer Rotan, the Junior Counsel, Not Implicated in the Attempted Fraud.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—The evil spirit that presides over the destinies of H. H. Holmes, king of murderers, and eventually destroys all who ally themselves with him, found another victim yesterday. The first swift turn this extraordinary case took was on the first day of the recent trial, when the arch-criminal dismissed his lawyers, and the "prisoner at the bar" became counsel for the defense. Yesterday the tables were turned, and senior counsel for the defense became a prisoner at the bar.

William A. Shoemaker, the young attorney whose first association with the case is obscured in the mystery which envelops its every detail, passed through an ordeal as severe as any his client has been called upon to face, and the crisis came when he was held under $1,000 bail to answer a charge of subornation of perjury. This means that he manufactured evidence tending to prove that Benjamin F. Pitzel, for whose murder Holmes was convicted two weeks ago, committed suicide, and that he, Shoemaker, paid a woman $20 to sign and swear to this.

But the commonwealth had supplied the woman, although Shoemaker was ignorant of this, and after he had produced this important "after discovered evidence" and read it to the court he asked that the argument on the motion for a new trial, which had been fixed for yesterday, be postponed to give him, and his associate counsel, Samuel P. Rotan, time to run out this and other clues recently.

Then it was that District Attorney Graham arose and exposed the plot. His declaration came like a thunderbolt. The court stared in wide-eyed amazement; the spectators turned in their chairs and gasped; the accused lawyer sank back in his seat, livid and tremulous, while his innocent associate glared at him with unveiled horror; but the prisoner in the dock rested his cold blue eyes on the shrinking figure of his legal representative and smiled with scorn.

Briefly told, the details of the charge are these: The trial for the Pitzel murder was not two days old when Shoemaker approached a private detective named John Schwelcher and asked him to procure a woman who lived around Twelfth or Thirteenth and Callowhill or Vine streets, who would swear to certain facts in connection with the finding of Pitzel's body at 1316 Callowhill street. Schwelcher assented, but instead of straightway getting the woman he told his story to Detective Geyer, who, for the commonwealth, brought to light the evidence of Holmes' murder of the children. Geyer submitted it to District Attorney Graham and a most skillful trap was set.

Under instructions Geyer went to Mrs. Margaret Reah, matron in the Fourth district police station, and she, under the name of Blanche A. Hannigan, was taken to Shoemaker by Schwelcher. Meantime Shoemaker had prepared an affidavit stating that the deponent had known Pitzel, and that to her he had expressed his intention of committing suicide. Mrs. Hannigan readily signed and swore to this, and Shoemaker gave her two $10 bills for so doing. On each bill she marked her initials, and yesterday she exhibited them in court.

When Shoemaker read the affidavit to the court he declared that its contents had been dictated to him by the woman. A moment afterward irrefutable testimony was produced showing that he had himself made up the affidavit and dictated it to a stenographer before he had even asked Schwelcher to procure a woman to sign it, and that he had not so much as read or explained its purpose to Mrs. Hannigan.

After this sensational incident Mr. Rotan made the argument for a new trial, after vainly endeavoring to secure a continuance. His argument was an able review of the reasons on which a new trial was applied for, and at its conclusion the court announced that they would give it the gravest consideration.

Then Judge Thayer held Lawyer Shoemaker in $1,500 bail to answer the charge of subornation of perjury, which was furnished by his father-in-law, Milton Jackson.

Judge Arnold, who was upon the bench during the trial, had called in Judges Thayer and Willson to hear and decide with him on the merits of yesterday's argument for a new trial. As the strange revelations came the three judges did not hesitate, by their bearing and words, to manifest their sense of the gravity of the accused lawyer's situation. Judge Arnold afterwards privately stated that disbarment proceedings would be considered later.

Public declaration was made by the court and district attorney of Mr. Rotan's innocence in the whole affair.

CASES BEFORE JUSTICES!

One Man Who Gave the Police a Racc.

VICTIM OF LOVE AND WHISKEY!

As he Pleaded an Inability to Keep a Distance Between Himself and the Object of His Affections Justice Dangler Prescribed an Antidote.

A smashing of glass on Laurel street last Saturday night attracted the attention of Chief of Police Tosh and Lieutenant Lee. They found that several windows in the house of William Malefski had been shattered by one Frank Damalawicz, who had escaped. The police concluded that the man intended to leave town on the 2:10 a. m. P. & R. train and decided to lie in wait at the depot. They surmised correctly, and captured their man.

Last night Damalawicz was arraigned before Justice Williams to answer for breaking Malefski's windows, and committed in default of $200 bail. He was then taken before Justice Dangler to answer for stealing dresses from the house of Mrs. Frances Fingle. At this point Damalawicz told a story that was tinged with some romance. He acknowledged that he stole the goods and disobeyed the warnings of the woman to keep away from her house, and also admitted that he had served several terms in the Pottsville jail on various complaints made by the woman, but in mitigation he said, "Mr. Squire, I don't know, I can't keep away. I love that woman. Sometimes I say, 'Frank, you stay away,' but I can't. Mr. Squire I think that woman give me something to make me love her."

"You mean she must have hypnotized you, or something of that sort, Frank," said the Justice.

"Yes, I guess."

"Well, I'll give you something to make you stay—$500 bail, or stand committed."

Frank stood silent for a moment and stared at the Justice as if trying to solve the meaning of the sentence. Then Chief Tosh took hold of the prisoner's arm, with the remark, "Come on, time's up."

Damalawicz made no resistance, but as he was walking to the lockup he said to the officer, "Mr. Squire say he give me something."

"Yes," said Tosh, "and you love it."

The prisoner went to Pottsville this morning with his mind still clouded as to Justice Dangler's gift.

Ham. Sarlines. Swiss cheese.
Fish cakes. Oysters in every style.

Charge Dismissed.
Justice J. J. Cardin was called upon last night to hear a charge of larceny made by Mrs. Lou Dauber. The defendant was a rather good looking young woman with bleached blonde hair giving the name of Mame Kelly and said she hailed from Scranton. She was charged with stealing a dress from Mrs. Dauber, but claimed that the dress was loaned her while she was getting one dyed. During the progress of the case the defendant turned to her accuser and exclaimed, "Lou, I've always been a friend to you, and now you want to show me up." After hearing the evidence Justice Cardin decided that there was not enough in the case to go before the court and dismissed the complaint. The defendant left for Scranton at noon to-day.

At Green's Cafe.
Cream of tomato soup, free, during and between the acts to-night. A delicious dish awaits everybody.
Hot lunch served every morning.
Meals served at all hours.

Dr. King to Come.
A movement is on foot to have Dr. Byron W. King, of Pittsburg, one of the best oculonists of the day, give one of his invaluable entertainments here in the near future. Dr. King made a very favorable impression at the Teachers' County Institute in Pottsville last week, and it is significant that the teachers of this place are interested in the movement to get him to pay a visit here. At a meeting of the local Institute last evening it was unanimously resolved to appoint a committee to make arrangements. The committee consists of Herbert C. Hooks, Miss Anna Dangler and Miss Sallie Coury.

Grand Band Masquerade Ball.
Grand masquerade ball by the Grand Band, Robbins' hall, Dec. 2nd. Event of the season.

Young Huntsinger Sentenced.
William H. Huntsinger, the 16-year-old boy of town, who was arrested several weeks ago on a serious charge preferred by his mother, Louisa, pleaded guilty before Judge Dechtel at Pottsville yesterday and was committed to the Huntington Reformatory. He will be an inmate of the institution until he becomes 21 years of age. His release then will depend upon his behavior in the meantime and be made on ticket-of-leave.

Can Prove Their Superiority.
EDITOR HERALD:—Referring to the statements in the county seat papers, the Columbia foot ball team is prepared to convince the Pottsville players of their superiority at any time or place. Owing to Saturday being the P. & R. pay day in this town four of the Columbia players were unable to absent themselves from their positions, and the four lightest men of the regular team were selected to fill their places. The Pottsville management absolutely refused to allow a single member of the first team to appear in the game, and there was nothing for us to do but declare the game off. If the Pottsville boys really wish to play foot ball they should not allow such trifles to stand in the way of a game. The four members of the first team selected average barely 140 pounds, and should not cause such a night-mare.

Kentrick House Free Lunch.
Noodle soup will be served to-night.

Still Afloat the Controller.
Yesterday counsel for Controller Severn accepted service on a petition to the Attorney General asking for a suggestion in quo warranto, and County Solicitor Ulrich forwarded the necessary papers to Harrisburg. The petition sets forth that this county has still three auditors and they and the Controller are exercising authority, and that the latter does so without legal warrant. Great stress is laid upon the unconstitutionality of the Controller act.
