THE TARIFF BILL IS PASSED

The New Treasury Relief Measure Goes Through the House.

WILL PASS THE BOND BILL TO-DAY

Tariff Measure Passed on Party Lines, With Two Exceptions, the Vote Being 237 Against 81—Representatives Will Have Recreation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—The house yesterday responded to the appeal of the president by passing a tariff bill, the operation of which is limited to two and a half years, and which is designed to raise $40,000,000 for the relief of the treasury. The bill will be passed this afternoon. The vote—237 to 81—was on party lines, with two exceptions. The Republicans all voted for the bill, except Hartman, of Montana, who did not vote, and the Democrats and Populists against it, save Newlands, Nevada Populist, who voted in favor of the measure. The special order under which the bill was brought to a vote at 5 o'clock last evening, after three and a half hours of debate, was ironed in its character, and compelled the members to adopt or reject it without opportunity of offering amendments of any kind.

Although there was the brilliant setting that usually accompanies a field day in the house, the debate lacked much of the spirit and vim which generally characterizes a partisan battle in the lower branch of congress. Even the preliminary skirmish over the adoption of the rule, which ordinarily precipitates the fiercest wrangling, passed off quietly.

The debate itself was participated in by the leaders on both sides. The Republicans contended that the first necessity of the treasury was revenue to supply the continued deficiency. Every speaker denied that the proposed measure was a Republican protection bill. It was, they claimed, an emergency revenue bill on protection lines. It was significant that several, notably Mr. Dabzell, Mr. Payne, Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Grosvenor, predicted the passage of a genuine protective measure as soon as the Republicans regained control of the White House. The Democrats took the position that there was no lack of revenue in the treasury, and that the passage of a bill to increase taxation would do no wise help the situation nor furnish the relief desired by the president and secretary of the treasury.

All who took part in the debate acquitted themselves well. Mr. Dingley and Mr. Dooliver, of the Republicans, and Mr. Crisp and Mr. Turner, of the Democrats, carried off the honors. The bill passed repeals the present tariff law until Aug. 1, 1898. It restores 60 per cent. of the McKinley rates on wool and wooleens, lumber and carpets, and makes a horizontal increase of the present rates in all other schedules, except sugar, of 15 per cent. After the second revenue bill has been disposed of this evening the house will do little business until Monday next, and will practically have its holiday recess, of which it has partly been deprived, next week. It cannot well adjourn for more than three days, under the rules, while the senate is in session, but it was decided at the meeting of the committee on rules yesterday that there will be formal meetings every third day, with adjournments over, and that no important business will be brought forward on the floor. Under these conditions there is little probability that there will be a quorum of representatives in town next week.

Republican members of the house who are opposed to the bond bill to be voted on today met in caucus last night at the Ebbitt House to mature plans for opposition. Forty members, representing twenty-three states, were present. While the western and southern states were most largely in attendance there were also members from the east and south. It was claimed by the leaders that not more than half of the Republicans who antagonize the bond bill attended the caucus, and that they have enough votes to defeat the bill unless it is modified. The sentiment of the caucus was in opposition to the issue of bonds in time of peace, and that the greenbacks ought not to be retired, at least in the manner proposed by the bill. The caucus chose a committee of seven to confer with the speaker and the committee on rules, and ask for an extension of the debate on the bond bill to two or three days.

There appears to be a fair chance that the tariff bill will get through the senate. Opinion among senators as to this differs widely, but in the end all the Republicans will probably vote for the bill, and it is likely to receive the support of three Populists and possibly two or three Democrats. It is known that a few of the Democrats would like to see the bill passed. It is a question how far party politics may influence them in voting. The situation as to the bond bill is different. It seems almost an impossibility for that measure to go through the senate.

An English Cartoon on Cleveland.
LONDON, Dec. 27.—The Daily Graphic had a cartoon in the Christmas number which was entitled "A New Copy of an Old Master." President Cleveland, in the role of an artist, has made a copy of the portrait of President Monroe. The original portrait is represented as being dignified, serene and with a pleasing smile, while the copy is out of drawing, much distorted and the expression changed. Miss Columbia, pretty and fashionably dressed in the Stars and Stripes, poses as a critic, and says: "Not a bit like the original. I should paint it out and try again."

Its Popularity Increases.
With each succeeding day the popularity of Columbia beer increases, which fact is fully attested by the large sales of this popular beverage. It is a favorite drink both among the working classes as well as those of the higher walks of life.

RAILROAD STATISTICS.

More Locomotives Built, But Railroad Extension is Decreasing.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—The Railroad Gazette has gathered records which show that all of the thirteen locomotive building companies in the United States, except one, built more locomotives in 1895 than in 1894, and the total number of engines built foots up 1,109 against 686 in the previous year. This is something of an increase, and a very good record as far as it goes, but that it does not represent a normal increase seems evident from the number of engines built in the five previous years, when never less than 2,000 locomotives were built in any one year. That this is a safe deduction large orders for locomotives which have been placed in recent weeks give additional evidence.

The new railroad construction in this country in 1894 was reported at 1,700 miles, and that seemed to be as low a record as was likely to be again made. But the total for this year is about 300 miles less than that, being 1,428 miles. We apparently shall have to conclude that railroad extension hereafter will be small as compared with recent years.

The largest amount of new track laid in any one state was in Texas, which built 187 miles of new road. In the Indian Territory 144 miles of new railroad was built during the year, and no other state built anything like this amount. No other state built 100 miles of road, Pennsylvania, with a total of 81 miles, being third on the list. That new mileage is made up almost of very short lines reaching new mines and other industries.

CANDIDATES ARE APPEARING

The School Directorships Seem to Create the Most Interest.

PEOPLE ARE NOT WARMED UP YET

But One Candidate For Council Officially Announced—Aspirants for the School Board are More Plentiful—Situation in the Third Ward.

Preparations for the spring election progress slowly, the holiday season no doubt preventing most people from giving attention to the matter, and, as in previous years, there will be a grand rush to have names placed on the tickets to be presented at the Citizens primaries during the last ten days or two weeks of the limit fixed by the committee. Efforts to arouse interest in the approach of the campaign have certainly been in time and none will have cause to complain that they have not had time to think the matter over.

But, while political affairs have been so quiet as to almost be obscure during the busy attending the holidays, there have been some movements and considerable talk. This has been especially the case in the Third ward. Almost immediately after the fall election talk about the spring election started up and the reports led to the supposition that the number of candidates for the nominations for School Director and Council on the Citizens ticket would almost outnumber the combined candidates in the other four wards for the respective offices. During the past two weeks this state of affairs has changed and it is probable that when the day for holding the primaries arrives the Citizens of this ward will so well understand each other that there will be no more candidates for the two positions in their territory than in any other part, and the feeling will be such that the candidate at the primary will be the candidate of the united party on election day.

Thus far but one candidate for Council in the Third ward is officially announced. This one is James H. Morgan, Benjamin Richards, John H. Reese and William Duddow have been spoken of as probable candidates for the office, but each have declared that, while present has been brought to bear upon them in that direction, they have no intention of entering the field. Monroe H. Kehler has also been spoken of, but it is not likely that he will be a candidate. It is the term of T. J. James that is expiring. At first he positively declared that he would not be a candidate for re-election, feeling content with four terms of three years each, and had his eye on the nomination for School Director. Subsequently he abandoned thought of the latter, and since ascertaining this fact several of his friends have been prevailing upon him to give Council one more trial. The persuasions have succeeded far enough to cause him to change his mind about not becoming a candidate for Council again, but have not led him as yet to a declaration that he will enter the field. In short, he is considering the matter.

As to the School Directorship in the Third ward there is little or no talk now. This is in contrast with the situation of a few weeks ago, when more interest centered on this position than any other. Thus far no candidates are officially announced and the reported candidates have dwindled from 10 or 12 to less than four. Some political veterans of the ward lean to the belief that when the time comes to make the nomination William T. Trezise, whose term is expiring, will be nominated to succeed himself with very little, if any, opposition.

In the Second ward B. C. Church is the first to declare himself a candidate. He will seek the nomination for School Director. If any others are looking for it they are keeping themselves well in the background at present. Ex-School Director Thomas Bellis is also a declared candidate. The term of C. W. Dangler as Justice of the Peace is expiring and Mr. Bellis is a candidate for the position. Of course, Mr. Dangler will be a candidate for re-nomination. Tallies Phillips is a candidate for re-nomination as Constable in this ward. No notice of opposition has been given.

In the Fourth ward only the School Directorship has thus far commanded attention. T. J. Broughall has officially announced himself as a candidate on the Citizens ticket, while Thomas Brennan and T. J. Mollahy are said to be seeking the nomination on the Democratic ticket.

In the Fifth ward the School Directorship has also received first attention. Charles Hoffman is a full fledged candidate for the nomination on the Citizens ticket. James J. Devitt, the present incumbent, will seek nomination on the Democratic ticket and Thomas McGuire will oppose him. The two candidates are determined and a hot battle may be looked for. There is talk of Christ Foltz becoming a candidate for Council on the Citizens ticket in this ward. William Bender is a declared candidate for Constable on the Citizens ticket, and Thomas Bohn will seek the Democratic nomination to hold on to his job.

Thus far there is but one candidate for a position on the Citizens borough ticket. James Emmanuel announces himself for re-nomination as High Constable by the Citizens party. James Matthews will seek a similar nomination on the Democratic ticket.
