DR. JAMESON'S BLUNDER

He Was Not Warranted in Marching on Johannesburg.

SERIOUS CONSEQUENCES PROBABLE

Secretary Chamberlain's Order to Retreat Cannot Reach the Warlike British, and a Battle Seems Inevitable—One Report Says It Has Already Taken Place.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—The news from Pretoria, Transvaal republic, tends to confirm the gravity of the situation there growing out of the invasion of the Boer territory by an armed force of the British South Africa company numbering about 700 men with six Maxim guns, led by Dr. Jameson, the British commissioner, who was so successful in his operations against King Lobengula. This Transvaal president, Kruger, has called upon the burghers to defend their country, and a serious conflict is anticipated, in spite of the fact that the colonial secretary, the Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, has telegraphed to Dr. Jameson to withdraw into British territory and has urged President Kruger to do his utmost to prevent bloodshed.

The newspapers comment at great length upon this fresh trouble which the British government has to face. They recognize the fact that the invasion of the Transvaal, although made upon the urgent request of thousands of Englishmen and others in the Transvaal, who complain that they have to pay the whole revenue of the country while being denied representation, is liable to give particular offense to Germany, whose friendship at this critical stage the Marquis of Salisbury is most anxious to cultivate.

As the telegraph wires have been cut behind Dr. Jameson's force, and as the Boer forces, well armed and equipped, have been mobilized under General Jonker, the consequences of a bloody conflict is expected. The Boers can put in the field about 6,000 good fighting men, supported with Maxim guns, and to oppose this force Dr. Jameson has only about 700 men, with six Maxim guns, who may receive the direct or indirect assistance of about 4,000 untrained and badly armed Englishmen. However, Jameson may be able to call to his support 1,000 men belonging to the De Beers company, whose headquarters are at Kimberley. These men are well equipped and would prove an effective reinforcement for Dr. Jameson.

In a published statement Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, says: "Having learned on Monday evening that Dr. Jameson had entered the Boer country I have since been continuously engaged in an endeavor to avert the consequences of his extraordinary action. Sir Hercules Robinson has by proclamation publicly repudiated Dr. Jameson's act, and has enjoined the British subjects to obey the law and remain quiet. Dr. Jameson and his officers have been ordered to retire immediately. It is hoped that a collision will be averted, but Dr. Jameson cut the wires as he advanced."

"It is reported that Dr. Jameson wrote to Commandant Marico, who cautioned him to retire, as follows: 'I have informed you that I intend to proceed with my original plans, which are not hostile against the people of the Transvaal. But we are here in reply to the invitation of the principal residents to assist them in their demands for justice and the ordinary rights of every citizen of a civilized state.' 'It appears from this letter that Dr. Jameson was not induced to take the Transvaal steps of invading a friendly country in time of peace by the fear for the safety of women or children or of a native uprising, but in order to support a political movement which is in the nature of a constitutional agitation for a redress of grievances. If the grounds for such fear had existed his duty would have been to report to the high commissioner and leave the action to be taken to be decided by that officer.'

eventually the practical annexation of that vast territory to Great Britain.

President Kruger Determined.

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—A cable dispatch received here from Pretoria says that a rising has occurred at Johannesburg. It is added that 900 more armed men belonging to the British Chartered company crossed the frontier Tuesday evening and that President Kruger is determined to repel the freebooters by force of arms. A conflict between the Boers and Englishmen is expected today. An unofficial report says that the opposing forces have already met, and that the British were repulsed.

Temporary Truce Reported.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—It is stated that President Kruger has telegraphed to Colonial Secretary Chamberlain pledging his government that the Boers shall temporarily adopt a passive attitude towards Dr. Jameson's force on its arrival outside of Johannesburg. An important feature of this arrangement between Mr. Chamberlain and President Kruger is that all responsibility for hostilities will rest with the Chartered South Africa company.

Germany Sends an Official Inquiry.

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—The Kolnische Zeitung states that Germany has addressed an official inquiry to England as to the steps the English government intended to take to restore the status quo in the Transvaal.

DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVINE

cures nervous prostration. Not miraculously, but scientifically, by first removing the germs of disease, and then supplying healthy nerve food, increasing the appetite, helping digestion and strengthening the entire system. Desperate cases require prolonged treatment as shown by that of Mrs. M. B. Reed, of Delta, Iowa, who writes: "As the result of a lightning stroke, the physician said I had a light stroke of paralysis, my limbs would all draw up. I Dr. Miles' would have throbbed in my chest that seemed unendurable. For three months I could not sleep and for three weeks did not close my eyes. I prayed for relief and felt that if relief did not come I would be dead or insane. I took Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and the second night slept two hours and from that time on my health improved; slowly at first, but steadily and surely. I took in all 40 bottles, and I cannot express how grateful I am, for I am now perfectly well, and have taken no medicine for over four months." Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by druggists on guarantee that first bottle benefits or money refunded.

If the grounds for such fear had existed his duty would have been to report to the high commissioner and leave the action to be taken to be decided by that officer.'

Dr. Jameson, the leader of the party of British South Africa company's sympathizers, is the administrator for the British South Africa company's territories in Mashonaland and Matabeleland. He is the son of a Scotch journalist and was educated for the medical profession. Just as he began to make his mark as a practitioner in Glasgow he decided to go to South Africa, and in the early seventies he reached the diamond fields and soon acquired a high reputation and remunerative practice in the treatment of the typhoid malarial disease known as "camp fever," which is very prevalent in the South African mining districts.

In fact, Dr. Jameson was so successful that he was upon the point of returning to Scotland, when he was persuaded by Mr. Cecil Rhodes, partner of Cape Colony, to enter the service of the British South Africa company, in which not only Mr. Rhodes, but all his friends are understood to be largely interested.

As administrator for the land owned by the British South Africa company Dr. Jameson has shown considerable executive ability, and has proved that he is not lacking in the kind of strategic skill which has made more than one British chartered company acquire vast expanse of territory at little expense, although in some instances with considerable bloodshed and duplicity.

When the British Chartered company engaged in its little war against the unfortunate King Lobengula, of Matabeleland, Dr. Jameson was the prime mover. In all the successful operations which first brought about the Matabele war and

VENEZUELA COMMISSION.

President Cleveland Makes Public His Selections.

PERSONNEL OF THE COMMISSION.

It Consists of Two New Yorkers, Two Marylanders and Justice Brewer, a Kansas Man—The Investigation Will Probably Please the British.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—President Cleveland announces the appointment of the Venezuelan boundary commission, as follows: David J. Brewer, of Kansas, justice of the United States supreme court, Richard H. Alvey, of Maryland, chief justice of the court of appeals of the District of Columbia; Andrew D. White, of New York; Frederick R. Condit, of New York, and Daniel C. Gilman, of Maryland. It is announced that all will accept the appointments.

The commission is regarded here as a very satisfactory one, whose opinions and conclusions will be received by the American public with confidence, which the standing of the members of the commission in the public eye inspires.

Justice Brewer is a Republican in politics and about 55 years of age. He is a graduate of Yale, and has spent considerable time in the practice of his profession in Kansas, where he filled a number of judicial offices. In 1884 he was appointed circuit judge of the United States for the Eighth district, and was appointed associate justice of the supreme court in December, 1889, by President Harrison.

Richard H. Alvey is a Democrat in politics, and a man of marked legal ability. It was the great reputation he gained as judge in the Maryland courts, which led President Cleveland to appoint him to the position of chief justice of the court of appeals of this district. He is about 60 years of age.

Andrew D. White is a Republican. He is one of the best known men of letters in this country and perhaps in the world, is an author and historian, and has been the president of Cornell university. Mr. White was appointed minister to Russia by President Harrison, and this position he held through Harrison's administration and for a year or more during Mr. Cleveland's administration.

Frederick R. Condit is a Democrat in politics, and is one of the best known members of the bar in New York. Mr. Condit was one of the counsel for the United States on the Behring sea commission.

Daniel C. Gilman, president of Johns Hopkins university, is well known as an authority on international law. He was one time president of the University of California. He has never figured in politics, but his proclivities are said to be Republican.

Up to the present time no communication or suggestion of any kind regarding the Venezuelan dispute has come to the United States from Great Britain since Lord Salisbury's answer to Secretary Olney, and the question stands entirely on the correspondence up to that time and the subsequent action of congress. This disposes of several reports, including one that Queen Victoria has addressed a personal communication, similar in tone to the one sent by the Prince of Wales, expressing the hope that the two English speaking people would have no serious differences. Such a direct communication would be according to the usage observed among the heads of nations, but in the present case her majesty has given no expression on the subject. It is known, however, that President Crespo has sent a direct message to the executive branch of the United States.

Among officials and the representatives of the foreign powers interested it is said that no steps are contemplated for the present beyond the formation of the Venezuelan commission. The expectation is that the commission will convene soon, select their secretaries, translators, interpreters and executive officers, and determine upon their course of procedure. The act makes the commission independent of the state department and all executive control, so that it will be for the body itself to decide on the method of procedure.

On the part of Great Britain there is a growing impression in official quarters that indirect participation in the work of the commission will be secured. The British attitude of late has been favorable to an investigation by the United States on the basis of the British claims, for it is felt that the inquiry had been exparte up to the time of the action by congress. The present indication is that the British will not be averse to establishing before such a body the rights which Lord Salisbury stated to be incontestable.
