THE RUSSIA-TURKEY COMBINE

A Reported Alliance Between the Two Governments.

THE REPORT NOT YET CONFIRMED

Should it Prove True Great Britain Will Have Another Serious Controversy on Hand Which Will Probably Lead to Open Hostilities.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—A dispatch to the Pall Mall Gazette from Constantinople says that an offensive and defensive alliance has been concluded between Russia and Turkey. The Pall Mall Gazette correspondent adds that the treaty was signed at Constantinople, and that the ratifications were exchanged at St. Petersburg between Aaraj Pasha and the czar. The basis of the treaty is declared to be on the lines of the Uktaik-Skelest agreement of 1833, by which Turkey agreed, in the event of Russia going to war, to close the Dardanelles to warships of all nations. This treaty was soon abandoned, owing to the refusal of the powers to recognize it.

The Pall Mall Gazette correspondent also says that the French ambassador, M. Cambon, conferred with the sultan on Wednesday, and that it is probable France will be included in the new alliance.

Commenting on the Constantinople dispatch the Pall Mall Gazette says: "We regard the news as true, and the result of the treaty is that the Dardanelles is now the southern outpost of Russia, and Turkey is Russia's vassal. We presume the British government will protest against the treaty for all it is worth. The information is plainly of the very gravest importance. The first intimation reached us four days ago, but we withheld it until the arrival of strong confirmation.

"This brings Russia into the Mediterranean with a vengeance, and may necessitate the strengthening of our fleet in those waters. Politically, the effect will be far greater. The treaty means that Turkey has realized her own impotence against disorders, both from within and without, and has decided to throw herself for safety into the arms of Russia. She is now Russia's vassal, and Russia is entitled to dispatch troops to any part of the sultan's dominions whenever there is the least breach of order—and when there is not.

"We presume the arrangement will give the keenest satisfaction to the Anglo-Armenian section of our people. With them lies the chief blame for the complete alienation of Turkey, though it must be owned that it has been sedulously fostered by a long term of weak policy at Constantinople.

Special dispatches from all points on the continent agree that nothing is known of the alleged offensive and defensive treaty between Russia and Turkey. The report is generally discredited.

THE NEWS IN WASHINGTON.

If True England Will Have Little Time for Venezuela.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The dispatch giving the details of the treaty reported to have been perfected between Russia and Turkey was circulated on the floor of the senate, and was read with expressions of general interest, especially the members of the committee on foreign relations. Senator Davis expressed the sentiments of a majority of the committee when he said: "If true, this is the most important diplomatic event which has occurred in the past fifty years. It means that Russia can move her armies across the Turkish border. Such a treaty would result in the immediate settlement of the Armenian question, and if France has also entered into the alliance, as appears probable, the result would be that the fleet of those two countries would virtually control the Mediterranean, and that means more than any one can now foresee. It also means that England will have something to do besides bullying Uncle Sam."

Senators Morgan, Lodge and Cullom read the report with avidity, and all remarked upon the vast importance of the news if it should prove to be true. Mr. Lodge said that a coalition between Russia and Turkey such as that indicated would mean that England would have her hands full of business on her own continent without interfering in American affairs.

The dispatch was read with great surprise by members of the house committee on foreign relations. Mr. Hitt was inclined to doubt the news. He said, however, that if Russia had signed such a treaty she must have done so with full knowledge of all the consequences that must follow. The treaty of Berlin, which resold the Russo-Turkish treaty of San Stefano, was designed particularly to prevent such an alliance as the Pall Mall Gazette outlined and to preserve the balance of power of Europe. For Russia to trample on that treaty must provoke the gravest imaginable consequences.

Mr. Draper, of Massachusetts, said that in his recent trip abroad the prevailing feeling against Great Britain because of what the other powers regarded as her land grabbing policy was everywhere so strongly manifested that no coalition which left her out could be entirely a surprise.

Mr. Quigg doubted whether Turkey would take part in an alliance against England, for he believed that England had practically connived at the oppression of the Armenians.

The Reported Alliance Denied.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—Dispatches to The Daily Telegraph from Vienna and Paris deny the report printed in the Pall Mall Gazette of an offensive and defensive alliance between Russia and Turkey.

IN SENATE AND HOUSE.

Another Day of Discussion, but No Important Action Taken.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The three subjects most prominently before the public—the Monroe doctrine, finance and tariff—each came in for consideration in the senate yesterday. Mr. Daniel, of Virginia, speaking for two hours in support of a vigorous upholding of the Monroe doctrine as applicable to Venezuela; Mr. Daniels, of Idaho, dealing with the silver phase of the financial question, and Mr. Warren, of Wyoming, pointing out the disastrous effects of the tariff legislation of the last congress on farm products in general, and on wool in particular. Aside from these speeches the day developed little of importance. Mr. Jones, of Arkansas, sought to secure unanimous consent for a vote on the pending bond silver bill next Thursday, but at the request of senators withdrew his request until this afternoon, when he will again seek to fix a time for closing the protracted debate on the measure.

The house resumed the consideration of the rules and disposed of the last amendment offered by the committee. It substituted for the quorum counting rule of the Fifty-first congress the method of compelling the attendance of a quorum proposed in the Forty-sixth congress by J. Randolph Tucker, with some modifications. It was not until the rules of the Fifty-first congress stood adopted, with the few modifications reported from the committee, that something like excitement was engendered by an eloquent speech from Mr. Dolliver, of Iowa. He taunted the Democrats with at least acquiescing in the adoption of all the principles embodied in the rules of the Fifty-first congress against which they had raised their voices in 1833. This speech drew forth an indignant reply from ex-Speaker Crisp, in the course of which he reviewed the whole history of the controversy and charged the other side with trying to make political capital by false pretenses.

Y., East Orange, N. J., Allegheny, Pa., Wheeling and Charleston, W. Va., Atlanta, Ga., Richmond, Va., and St. Louis, Mo. Householders will be required to supply a suitable box of a kind already approved by the department.

EFFECTS OF THE STORM!

Telegraph, Telephone and Electric Light Service Impaired.

THE TROLLEY CAUSES TROUBLE.

Three Horses Blocked by a Telephone Wire That Got in Contact With the Main Street Trolley—One of Them Badly Injured and Shot.

The storm has abated considerably, but it will take several days to obliterate the traces it has left. It was the most severe storm of the winter and has caused considerable loss in many quarters. All the telephone and telegraph wires, and most of the electric light wires, are down and the service of the respective systems are paralyzed. The commercial service of the arc electric light system was in bad shape this morning, but it is expected it will be ready for service to-night. The street lines, however, will hardly be repaired in time. Considerable trouble was experienced last night in getting the system in operation, owing to the carbons having become affected by sleet. The difficulty was overcome, however, in time to get the lights burning at the usual hour. During the night and for several hours this morning the gales played havoc with the roof of the electric light station at the south end of Main street. Seven sheets of the sheet iron covering were carried off and others would have followed them had not a gang of men with hammers and nails gone to the rescue.

This morning an electric light wire leading into Strone's jewelry store caused a pyrotechnical display by flirting with a live wire, but no serious damage was done.

The most serious damage attendant upon the storm was caused by a wire of the Pennsylvania Telephone Company getting in contact with the trolley wire of the Schuylkill Traction Company on South Main street. This morning a team of horses belonging to P. J. Flaherty got in contact with the wire and were thrown down violently, but fortunately fell clear of the mischief maker and soon regained their feet. The occupants of the carriage received a shaking up, but proceeded on their way to Mahanoy Place.

Shortly after a team of horses got close to the wire and one of them received sufficient shock to frighten it, but not as strong as that the Flaherty horses received. Maher's team ran away, but at the corner of Main and Poplar streets the wagon turned over on its side, which caused the horses to stop. The driver escaped injury.

The excitement attending this occurrence hardly died out before a horse owned by William Chmelofski, agent for Rettig & Sons, of Pottsville, was touched by the same wire. The horse went down like a shot and its right fore leg was broken close to the body. The animal was led to the eastern outskirts of the town and shot. It was a fine looking beast and it is said the owner recently refused $150 for it.

A telephone wire crossed a trolley wire this morning and nearly every box in the local service was burned out among them the IDEALS.

A galvanized chimney on the roof of ex-Councilman Gallagher's home, on South Jardin street, fell before a gale this morning. The telegraph wires suffered so much from the storm no messages could be sent out or received at the office on West street to-day. Manager McDermott hopes to get messages through to-night. If there is continued falls of rain and sleet and the temperature keeps down to the freezing point there will be considerable more trouble with the various electrical wires. Some of them are heavily coated with ice they seem barely able to support the weight.

The arc light that was suspended in front of Mellet's stationery store, on East Centre street, was blown down and shattered this morning.

All the street arc lights went out at about eleven o'clock last night, but the commercial lights remained in service until three o'clock this morning.
