ANATION'S REQUEST TO SPAIN

To Grant Belligerent Rights to Cuban Revolutionists.

IT WILL PROBABLY BE IGNORED

The Remarkable Resolution Reported by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Senator Tillman Vigorously Denounces President Cleveland.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The presentation of foreign relations committee reports on Cuba, and a highly dramatic and sensational speech from Mr. Tillman, the new senator from South Carolina, furnished two stirring events in the senate yesterday. The majority resolution on Cuba asks the president to urge Spain to grant belligerent rights to the insurgents, while the minority report directs the president to take steps towards securing from Spain the complete independence of Cuba. Both resolutions went to the senate calendar.

The action which the committee urges the president to take in respect to Cuba is said by persons versed in diplomacy to be absolutely without precedent. Never before has a nation been requested to accord belligerent rights to rebels against its government, and never have such rights been accorded. A recognition of belligerency amounts to nothing unless manifested in a proclamation of neutrality, so that the senate committee's proposition is really equivalent to a request upon Spain to permit the United States to issue a proclamation declaring ourselves neutral as respects the present conflict in Cuba.

If it was the intention of the senate committee to secure humane treatment of the Cubans, and to insure them against capital punishment under the charge of treason, this, it is said, might have been indicated by a request that Spain recognize the multiplicity of belligerency of the insurgents, which would in no sense be equivalent to an admission of international belligerency. Because the United States government in our late war treated captive Confederates as prisoners of war, made exchanges of prisoners, and recognized flags of truce, the nations of Europe held that we had recognized their belligerency and immediately, by the issue of neutrality proclamations proceeded practically to recognize the belligerency of the south themselves.

Mr. Seward, then secretary of state, entered a most vigorous protest, and in the course of the correspondence he made a very nice distinction, showing that the United States had been induced to treat the Confederates in this fashion solely from impulses of humanity, and not from any consideration of international law. His protests were unavailing to affect the action of European nations, but he did place the United States on record in a fashion that will make it extremely difficult for our administration to reconcile Mr. Seward's utterances with a compliance with the request of congress, presuming that the senate committee's resolution will be adopted.

Such a torrent of invective has seldom been heard in the senate as that in the speech of Mr. Tillman. Veteran members of the body characterized the speech as one of the most remarkable in the history of the upper branch of congress. It abounded in statements of sensational character, arraigning President Cleveland, Secretary Carlisle and other men in high places. There was a directness of statement and a dramatic manner of delivery which awed floor and galleries. The gestures of the senator were used frequently in acting his words. At one point he made a profound salute and "tipped his hat to Sherman" as the financial victor of a quarter of a century. The galleries were moved alternately to applause and laughter. Pausing for a sip of water, amid rounds of laughter, he remarked: "I seldom wet my whistle while I speak; still, you can't run a windmill on water."

The next moment there was a hush through the chamber as the senator applied such names as "Judah" to a member of the cabinet or characterized the president in bitter terms. At times the senator's voice sank to a whisper, as, for instance, when he gave warning of the approach of a popular revolution and the marching on Washington of a host with rifles in their hands. Again his voice resounded through the chamber and the outer corridors as he called senators and members "cowards" for not resorting to impeachment.

Mr. James, of Arkansas, gave further notice of a test of endurance today if necessary to secure a vote on the silver bond bill, after Senator Hill had declared that he would not consent to a vote before Feb. 6.

THE HOISTING ROPE BROKE

One Man Killed and Another Injured at Mahanoy City Colliery.

THEY WORKED ON A DIRT PLANE

By the Breaking of the Rope a Gunboat Was Precipitated Down the Plane and Struck One of the Victims. The Other Struck by Timber.

A fatal accident occurred yesterday afternoon at the Mahanoy City colliery by which one man was fatally injured and another badly crippled. The accident was due to the breaking of a rope used in hoisting gunboats on a dirt plane.

The accident occurred shortly after three o'clock in the afternoon. The gunboat was about to land at the top of the plane when the rope parted, causing the boat to run down the plane at lightning speed. John Schultz and Peter Senick were at the bottom of the plane. They heard the rumbling noise of the car, but supposed the usual lowering was being made. The noise of other operations drowned the warning cries of others who saw the danger. Schultz and Senick discovered it too late. The former was struck by the boat, but escaped falling under it in the final crash. He was picked up unconscious and bleeding at the mouth and ears. He died at six o'clock last evening. Schultz left a wife and several children. Senick was more fortunate and will recover. A log sent in flight by the runaway gunboat struck him.

The employees say that when the gunboat struck the bottom of the plane the report was like an explosion of dynamite. The rope had been in use about five months.

Last Night's Performance.

"A Midnight Call" was presented last evening at the theatre by "The Ideals," and the audience was a large and select one. With each appearance the members of this strong company win additional laurels. Miss Earle appeared to good advantage as "Poppy" and was ably supported by Mr. Shearer. The latter is one of the best comedians seen upon the boards of the local theatre this season. Baby Johnson is certainly a wonder for one so young. She captivated the audience by her songs and dances, and was cheered repeatedly. One of the most pleasing features of the entertainment is the music furnished by the orchestra. The descriptive piece, "A Trip to County Island," was an excellent rendition, and enthusiastically received. The pretty Irish drama, "Showers of Shamrocks," will be produced to-night.

Stid Under the Wheels.

John Devine, a 7-year-old boy, residing at Locust Gap, lost a leg on the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad yesterday afternoon under peculiar circumstances. The public school house at Locust Gap is located at the summit of a hill and about 300 yards distant from the railroad. When the school was dismissed yesterday several of the pupils hurried down the hill to reach a skating pond on the opposite side of the railroad. Among them was young Devine. As he was running down the hill the train approached. The boy tried to stop, but the impetus carried him to the track and he fell in such a position that the rear wheels of the last car passed over and cut off one of his legs.

Watson House Free Lunch.

Ox tail soup to-night. Hot lunch to-morrow morning.

Explosion at Thomaston Colliery.

An explosion occurred at Thomaston colliery, near Hockersville, by which Nicholas Bolan, of Greenberry, came near losing his life. Bolan was lifted clean off his feet and shot through the air, and massive mine props were hurled in all directions. The unfortunate man was drawing powder from a keg when a spark from his pipe ignited the explosive. His hair was singed clean to the skull while his face and hands were terribly burned, and his chances for recovery are slight.
