A DARING ROBBERY. Burglars Ransacked Anthony Schmecker's House While the Occupants Slept. Between three and four o'clock this morning burglars forced an entrance to the house of Anthony Schmecker, the saloonkeeper, on South Main street, and made a $125 haul in jewelry, consisting of two gold watches, a silver watch, three chains and a breast-pin. The latter article, one of the chains and one of the gold watches were the property of Mrs. Schmecker. The burglars evidently ransacked the apartment in the search for booty, but conducted their operations so noiselessly that none of the occupants were awakened from their slumbers. The burglars even successfully ransacked the apartment in which Mr. and Mrs. Schmecker slept.

Mr. Schmecker states that he retired at about two o'clock this morning. When he awoke he discovered evidences of the burglary. The perpetrators took a silver watch from his vest pocket and also a key with which they opened a drawer of the bureau in the bedroom, from which Mrs. Schmecker's jewelry was taken. From the same vest the burglars took a key that opened a drawer at the back of the bar in the saloon in which the third watch and chain were kept. Mr. Schmecker is not sounding bugles over the affair, but is thinking considerably, and from the few remarks he has dropped it is evident that he believes the burglars were parties who are more acquainted with his house and habits than the general run of customers who patronize his place. Entrance to the house was effected through a window at the rear of the house.

A Big Strike in Shenandoah. Not in the mines, but at the FACTORY shoe store. We are striking out the middleman's profits and giving you the advantage of them.

Birthdays Party. The eighteenth anniversary of James Croary was pleasantly celebrated last evening by his friends, who assembled to the number of more than a hundred and surprised him at his home on West Coal street.

After receiving congratulations and well wishes for his future Mr. Croary was escorted to the Phoenix hall, on South Main street, which was kindly tendered for the occasion, and dancing was indulged in for several hours, after which an adjournment was taken to Mr. Croary's home, where the friends were excellently entertained by Mrs. and the Misses Croary. Those present included Misses A. McElroy, Scranton; Kate O'Donnell, St. Clair; May Daily, Locust Gap; and Messrs. John Early, Thomas Conrad, John Hoolhan, Gilberton; John Carey, East Creek; and the following persons of town: Messrs. John J. Fitzgerald, Joseph W. Burke, P. J. Devers, John J. Deserved Recognition. The Philadelphia Times, a few days ago, had a very interesting article on a pretty incident in the Girls Normal school of that city. The teacher in charge of the natural history classes told her pupils in the Junior Class last spring that she desired them to make collections of insects during the summer vacation, and she would make some recognition of the efforts of those presenting the collections (excepted best). The awards were made on Jan. 30th, when 28 collections were passed upon; many of them excellent and deserving of special mention, but of the lot those prepared by Misses Corinne Sikel and Laura Metzler were adjudged the best, and they were awarded prizes of books on natural history with very flattering commendations from the principal of the school. Miss Metzler's collection numbered some hundreds of insects, katydids, grasshoppers, bees, moths, flies, crickets, beetles, spiders, etc., and it has won her distinction among her classmates. Miss Metzler is the daughter of Mr. Christian E. Metzler, of Germantown, assistant transportation master of the P. & R. R., who is well and favorably known to railroad men throughout the coal region as one of the bright men of the profession, and they will be pleased to learn that the daughter possesses the qualities that won distinction for the father.

A Stabbing Affray. Michael Spetz, a Slavonian, almost figured as a corpse in a stabbing and clubbing affray last night. A party of Greeks were celebrating a wedding in a house near the Indian Ridge colliery. They had been carousing since Saturday and were ready for anything in the shape of harmony, or fight. Spetz heard the music and dancing as he passed the house and turned back to take part in the festivities. The turn was a mistake, for as he entered the house the Greeks set upon him like a pack of demons. Spetz managed to get out of the house, but was in a deplorable condition. He had received a knife wound in the right hip two inches deep and there were about ten cuts on his head, evidently made by clubs, or similar instruments. The victim has not been able to give a reliable statement of the occurrence, but Dr. Hamilton says he will sufficiently recover in a day or two to tell who made the assault upon him. After the affray Policemen Tesh, Lee and Constable Gibbon made a raid on the wedding gathering and arrested seven drunken men. As there was no evidence against them they were discharged this morning by Justice Toumey after paying fines and costs for being drunk and creating a disturbance.

Caught on a Trestle. As the early freight train from Pottsville on the Pennsylvania Railroad approached the trestle near the depot at the foot of Main street this morning the engineer observed a man hanging from the sills of the trestle—his hands clutching a sill and his body dangling in the air. The train was stopped and the engineer and fireman hurried forward on the trestle and rescued the man from his perilous position. The man was a Hungarian. He was unable to speak English, but succeeded in making the engineer understand that he had walked midway across the trestle when he noticed the approach of the train. On account of snow and ice covering the sills he feared to run to either end of the trestle and concluded that the best means of escape was to hang to the sills until after the train had passed over him. The man resides on "the rocks" and was on his way to work when he was forced into gymnastic exercise.

Strange, Very Strange. From Joyce's American. Those who hobble around on the outer edge of the select inside circle at Pottsville say that Judge Bechtel will not move in the licenses remonstrated against in Mahanoy City until he satisfies himself what effect it will have on his candidacy for Judge two years hence. That's strange! Why should the aspirations of a politician interfere in any way with the decision of an "honest and upright" Judge? Funny, to say the least, isn't it?

Murderer Elvin on Trial. WEST CHESTER, Pa., Feb. 4.—The court house here is an object of more interest than it has been since 1872, when William Uddersook was tried for murder. Thomas Elvin is the man now on trial for his life. He killed his two children in Phoenixville on Nov. 16, and as the murder was a most brutal one a first degree verdict is expected.

Railroad Mechanics on Strike. EAGLE PASS, TEX., Feb. 4.—The machinists and boiler-makers of the Mexican International railway, who went on strike last Saturday, were joined yesterday by the blacksmiths, and the strike is formally on. They want 35 per cent. raise, which was refused. All work is suspended in the shops. All is quiet and orderly.

Will Not Extradite the Hyams. TORONTO, Feb. 4.—In a police court yesterday the magistrate called the case of the Hyams brothers, but as neither responded he at once issued warrants for their arrest. This action is taken simply to prevent the reappearance of the Hyams in Canada, as it is not the crown's intention to take extradition proceedings.
